SWITCHMAN KILLED.

James Lyons, of Monett, Run Over by a Train.

While on Duty He Became Intoxicated And Lost His Life in Crossing The Track.

James Lyons, formerly of this city, was killed by a switch engine at Monett Wednesday. He was yard foreman of the Frisco company at that place and had been employed in that capacity for three years and was considered a sober and reliable man. During a temporary illness he had been induced to drink some whisky. Some time during the night he started home and in crossing the railroad was struck by an engine or car and his skull crushed. Just when the accident occurred is not known but he was found in an unconscious condition and died in a short time without regaining consciousness.

The coroner held an inquest over the remains, but no blame was attached to anyone. The remains were buried at Monett by the Frisco company.

And Gave Up His Life for His Belt.

Shot by Constable Arnold and Deputies While Kneeling With His Belt.

A tragedy occurred on North Broad street Sunday night in which John Johnson, a Swede rag-picker, lost his life and it is thought that another man, whose identity is unknown, was dangerously wounded. Johnson was shot through the body while resisting arrest. The killing was done by Constable Arnold and his deputies, but no one knows which one of the officers fired the fatal shot. The men who were assisting Constable Arnold in the arrest were Deputies J. B. Hill and H. M. Young. The ball which killed the Swede passed through his body from the back to the front, puncturing his right lung.

Johnson was a worthless wretch who apparently eked out his existence by picking rags about the city, but was thought to make the greater part of his livelihood by stealing chickens and by other depredations. He had served one term in the penitentiary for grand the thieves. When the horse became balky, Johnson, the fastest and best, being able to handle a number of shots at the fleeing couple, who drove away in the darkness.

The officers kept up the pursuit, however, and upon arriving at the corner of Center and Grant streets they came upon the wagon, which now had but one occupant. They called upon him to throw up his hands, which he did. It was then found that the man was John Johnson. His partner was gone, and up to this time has not been captured. Johnson was called down off the wagon and upon getting to the ground he fell down in a faint. The officers searched him for weapons, but found none. The belt was found in the wagon. They took him to the office of Dr. J. W. Williams where he died soon afterward.

THE INQUEST.

The body was then taken to the undertaking establishment of J. M. White, on Commercial street, and Dr. W. C. Diemer, the county coroner, impaneled a jury and an inquest was held Sunday night. The following testimony was heard:

Constable A. M. Arnold: This evening about 7:45 my deputy, E. M. Young, informed me that a belt from the furniture factory was going to be delivered to Mr. Wyrach. He told me the parties were going to Wyrach's stable at 9:30 o'clock and take Wyrach's wagon to get the belt and about 200 pounds of brass. I came down to Moonville street with Young. He said there would be three in the crowd. At Mill street I told Young to stay there until I could get Mr. Hill, who had been detailed to watch a car on the Gulf railroad track. Hill came back with me and with Young we went to Smith street. It was then 9 o'clock. Young went to see if Wyrach's wagon was gone. In about three-quarters of an hour he returned and reported that it was gone and that but one man went with it. We then went to Wyrach's house on Broad street and waited there.

Rev. Burrell B. Sims, who was recently murdered and robbed at his home in Benton county, Ark., an account of which was telegraphed to THE DEMOCRAT Tuesday night, was one of the early settlers of Greene county, and a faithful minister of the M. E. Church. He lived about ten miles north of the city near Mount Comfort Church. Judge L. B. Porter's father was a neighbor, and the judge distinctly remembers Mr. Sims and family. The mother of the late Dr. E. T. Robertson was a sister of the venerable minister who was murdered. Rev. Sims was a brother of Zack Sims, another old pioneer of Greene county, and father of Dr. Leonard M. Sims.

Rev. Sims will be remembered by old citizens who heard him preach in the days when there were a few and some houses more widely scattered than at present. He was a good citizen as well as a devout Christian. He lived in Greene county until soon after the close of the war, when he removed to Benton county, Ark., and educated his children at the Fox Blidge high

Of Plainfield.

Special correspondence of The Democrat.

PLAINFIELD, Mo., Jan. 18, 1894.

The most attractive event of the season in Clear Creek society was a double wedding which took place at the Baptist Church on Wednesday evening last. The contracting parties were Miss Lizzie Bayless and Mr. Henry Sukon, Miss Louise Long and Mr. D. W. Bayless. The attendants were Miss Mary Long and Mr. Harmon Sukow, Miss Jennie Bayless and Mr. Nicholas Long.

A large crowd of friends and acquaintances assembled at 7:30, the church being occupied to its full capacity; and at 8 o'clock Rev. Solomon Forester, pastor of the church, pronounced the solemn words and the happy couples received the hearty congratulations of the crowd of witnesses.

The newly married parties, accompanied by a number of invited guests, repaired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bayless, where an elegant supper awaited them, when they were again the recipients of many good wishes for the future, to which they look forward with such bright hope and fearless confidence.

A DIVORCE DECREED.

The divorce case of Mrs. Lena Mason vs. Marion T. Mason was tried before Special Judge Peppardine, a divorce having been applied for by the plaintiff. The plaintiff is the young and pretty daughter of Joseph Pollack, of Pearl, and the defendant a brakeman on the Frisco railroad. She was for a year or two a clerk in the store of the C. H. Heer Dry Goods Company. They were married October 10, 1892, and lived together until last September. The plaintiff testified that the conduct of her husband was bad in every respect, that he neglected her and went hunting and speering around, rendering her married life intolerable. The defendant did not appear to contest the suit, and so after the good character of the plaintiff had been established a decree of divorce was granted and her maiden name restored.

C. S. Finley Killed.

A Prominent Dallas County Man Mangled by a Freight train. His Legs Cut off.

C. S. Finley, a very prominent merchant and stockman of Buffalo, Mo., was run over and killed by a freight train at Pacific, twenty miles this side of St. Louis on the Frisco road, yesterday morning at 8:37 o'clock. Both of his legs were cut off close to the thigh and he died in a few minutes. When the train stopped at the Pacific depot Mr. Finley ran across the street to a saloon. The train started to pull out and he ran to catch it. He caught the front end of the caboose and attempted to swing up the steps, but lost his footing and fell under the wheels. His legs were completely severed from the body and he received severe bruises about the head.

Mr. Finley left Springfield Monday afternoon with two cars of stock for the St. Louis market. He ships a great deal of stock and is one of the wealthiest men in Dallas county. The remains were cared for by friends who accompanied him and shipped back to his home yesterday by way of Leola, Mo.

The deceased has been prominent in local affairs in Dallas county for a number of years. He is partner in several mercantile establishments at Buffalo. He was sometimes addicted to drinking and it is said by the train men that he was intoxicated at the time of his death.

BUFFALO, Mo., Jan. 24.—The remains of C. S. Finley, of this place, the stock man who was killed on the Frisco, near Pacific, Tuesday morning, arrived here this morning and will be interred tomorrow at 10 o'clock. His tragic death came as a blow to the whole community, as Finley was a man well liked by everybody. He had been engaged in buying and shipping stock for many years past. He has been prominent in the councils of the republican party of the county since the war, and as a politician had few equals. He was also an ex-federal soldier, being a member of Company C, 84th Missouri volunteers and was mustered out at Springfield in July, 1865. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Reynolds and the best man David Geiger. There were quite a number of presents, the most valuable being a house on Summit avenue, which was furnished and presented by the father of the bride.

A quiet wedding occurred Monday at the Christian Church, where Miss Edith Reynolds and Mr. Orion Shanks were made one for life, Eld. Pinkerton officiating. The bride was attired in a street suit of brown cloth, with hat to match. After the ceremony they repaired to the home of the bride's mother on Jefferson street, where they will in the future welcome their many friends.

A very pretty home wedding occurred Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. N. P. Jackson, when her daughter, Florence Mahan, was united to Mr. Thomas Campbell Crighton. The impressive words making them man and wife were pronounced by Rev. Dr. Cleland, of Calvary Presbyterian Church, and sealed with a golden wedding ring. After the congratulations the bridal party led the way to the dining room where a wedding breakfast was served by Misses Maud Jackson and Maggie Crighton, sisters of the bride and groom. The entire wedding was one of beauty and simplicity, the bride wearing her traveling dress of tan camaletta. None but the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. day, the 31st ult., which although solemnized, one in Colorado and the other in West Virginia, will be of more than ordinary interest to Springfield society, for the grooms are both Springfield gentlemen who call their friends legion. In the Presbyterian Church at Wellsburg, W. Va., Mr. E. L. Herndon and Miss Beanie Carr, in the presence of a throng of fashionable friends, pronounced their marriage vows.

The church was elaborately decorated with palms, and pink and white roses, in artistic array, the aisles being spanned with archways of wedding bells in pink and white blossoms and draped with loopings of pink ribbon-tied amaranth. The bridal party consisted of six ushers and as many bridesmaids, who in entering the church preceded the maid of honor, Miss Katherine Scudder, of St. Louis, who was followed by the bride on the arm of her father, Mr. Wm. Carr.

They were met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. Felix Blackwell, of this city, and the ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Noland, of Covington, Ky., brother-in-law of the bride. After the ceremony an elegant reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Herndon departed for a southern tour of several weeks, after which they will be at home at the Metropolitan in this city, where the many friends of Mr. Herndon will receive him and his fair bride with the most hearty welcome.

The bride's wedding gown was of white Duchesse satin entraine, with epaulettes of Duchesse lace. A long veil, which was caught with a beautiful diamond and sapphires pendant, the gift of the groom, completely enveloped her form.

Miss Scudder wore a becoming white chrysanthemum gown.

At Denver, on Wednesday evening, in the Trinity M. E. Church, Miss Pearl Gildersleeve became Mrs. Hugh Grover Curran. The wedding details were appropriate and beautiful, the church decorations being ferns and palms, a sanctifying chancel and aisles. The bridal party was a large and handsome one. Four ushers, Messrs. John Curran, of Chicago, Homer McKimsey, of Springfield, David Neilson and Thomas Dillon, of Denver, with as many bridesmaids in the persons of Misses Cleveland, Johnson, Gildersleeve and Vaincourt, of Denver, preceded the maid of honor, Miss Roberta Shy, of California, and little Miss Dot Parrott, niece of the bride, who carried a silver tray bearing the wedding ring.

The bride entered on the arm of her uncle, G. A. Gildersleeve, and was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. John Davidson, of St. Louis, whose sister, Miss Mary Davidson, was the bridesmaid. An elegant reception followed at the home of the bride's mother after which the bridal couple departed for their Eastern trip, which will include Springfield. While in the city they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curran, on East Walnut street, where the many friends of Mr. Curran will take much pleasure in welcoming him and greeting his beautiful bride.

After their return to Denver Mrs. Curran will be at home Thursdays in March in a lovely home, the gift of the groom, its furnishings entire being her mother's gift.

The bride's toilette was of white Duchesse satin, richly trimmed with pearls, a filmy veil falling to the hem of her long train. The maid of honor was gowned in pale blue tulle and the four bridesmaids were pictures in pink and white tulle and crepe de chene toilettes, while little Miss Dot wore an empire gown of white silk and lace.

An Ozark Belle Married to an Oklahoma Senator

Went to Serve Him in the Capacity of Typewriter and Captured
His Heart.

Special to THE DEMOCRAT.

OZARK, Mo., Feb. 3.—It is not often that a young lady stenographer makes a husband of her employer in fourteen days, and yet that happy conquest was the achievement of one of Ozark's late favorites. Miss Edna Wrightman has captured one of the prominent attorneys and politicians of Oklahoma, in whose office she began work as a typewriter less than two weeks ago.

The lord of this little romance is the Hon. Charles J. Wrightman of Pawnee, Oklahoma, a distant relative of the bride. The marriage occurred at the home of the groom on the morning of January 31. On the 14th of last month Miss Wrightman left her home in Ozark for Oklahoma, having secured, through a correspondent, a situation in the office of the man who was so soon to ask her hand in marriage. The young lawyer met his new stenographer in Arkansas City and took her to Pawnee, Ok., where Miss Wrightman began at once her clerical duties. In less than ten days from the time the acquaintance was made Mrs. Barbara Wrightman, of Ozark, mother of the young lady, received a letter from the Oklahoma attorney asking for the hand of her daughter.

Senator Wrightman has already made for himself quite a reputation in the political circles of the new territory. He represented the Eighth Senatorial district in the Oklahoma legislature last year and was one of the leading orators of the assembly making himself especially prominent by championing the anti-gambling bill, which provoked so much debate. It was on account of the Senator's newspaper fame that Miss Wrightman became acquainted with her future husband. Seeing his name in the press she wrote to find out the kinship between them and thus opened a correspondence which soon developed this story.

Miss Wrightman was born in Ozark and is about 21 years old. She is a bright, handsome, happy young lady, industrious and ambitious, and deserves the good future which her many Ozark friends hope this union will bring to both of the contracting parties.

Mr. Wrightman is now prosecuting attorney of Pawnee county, Ok., and in addition to his official duties looks after the publication of about three newspapers in the Strip part of the territory.

JOSIAH T. KEET DEAD

A Valuable Citizen Passed Away Last Evening.

The Termination of An Illness of Several Weeks.

Sorrowing Relatives Witness the Closing Scene—A Sketch of a Busy Life.

Josiah T. Keet, one of the best known business men and most universally esteemed citizens of Springfield, died shortly after 6 o'clock last evening at his home, 491 St. Louis street, surrounded by his sorrowing relatives. He had been sick for about five weeks with a kidney trouble, and, having steadily declined for several days, his death was not unexpected.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral, and it is not expected that any announcement will be made for a day or two. Mrs. McLeod, of Boston, and Mrs. Lent, Smith were among the children called to the bedside of their much beloved father.

Josiah T. Keet was the son of Charles Keet and was born in England September 3, 1822. He came to America and settled in Arkansas in 1839. In 1840 he removed to Barry county, Mo. He began merchandising before he was of age, and has been engaged in the business almost constantly throughout his life. He located in Springfield in 1832 and engaged in the wholesale and retail trade until about the year 1876, when his firm, then known as Keet, Rountree & Co., began to do an exclusively wholesale business, which they have successfully engaged in ever since. A few years ago an exclusive wholesale boot and shoe house was added to the successful enterprises of the firm.

Mr. Keet was married August 14, 1841, to Elizabeth P. West, of Barry county. Six children were born, five of whom are still living. The youngest, Charles T. Keet, died a few years ago.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Church and a Mason. He was very quiet and methodical in his habits, and always had a smile and kind word for all with whom he came in contact. In all his business ventures he was successful, owing to his industry and keen foresight and the confidence his name inspired in all enterprises. He was connected prominently with enterprises like the Exchange Bank, the Springfield Grocer Company, etc., and was a liberal contributor to every movement that had for its object the building up of Springfield and Southwest Missouri.

DEATH J. T. KEET.

The End Came After Many Painful Days—The Chamber and Cause an Inspiration.

Mr. Josiah T. Keet, president of the Keet & Rountree Mercantile Company, one of the oldest and wealthiest merchants of this city, died at his residence, 481 St. Louis street, at 6:00 o'clock last evening, after a long and painful illness. All the surviving members of the family were present at his death bed. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been fully completed, but the services will be held at the residence tomorrow afternoon conducted by Rev. George W. Hughey, pastor of Grace M. E. church, and the interment will be in Maple Park cemetery.

Josiah T. Keet was born in England, Sept. 4, 1812, and was therefore in his 81st year at the time of his death. He emigrated to the United States in 1832, and went to the wilds of Arkansas, there mainly settled by traders in furs. Here he remained only a few months, removing to Barry county, this state, and at once began a business career in general merchandising that continued prosperously up to the present.

He made a final location in this city in 1862, having been driven here by the unsettled condition of the country brought about by the civil war then raging with peculiar bitterness throughout this whole section. Not content to remain idle, notwithstanding the prevailing disturbances and the extreme hazard in which property and often life were placed by the varying fortunes of war, he engaged boldly in a wholesale and retail dry goods and general merchandise trade and was a large buyer of cotton at this point. At the time referred to the firm of which he was the head was styled Keet, Mamey & Co., and its affairs became so prosperous and the death of the business partner after the war, that in 1875 the firm decided to broaden its retailing and confine the capital and energies to an exclusive jobbing trade, and the style of the business, owing to a change of junior partners, became Keet, Rountree & Co. Not long ago the firm name was again modified on incorporation and confirmed to its present title of the Keet & Rountree Mercantile Company, of which Jas. T. Keet, a son, is secretary and treasurer. N. M. Houston is vice president and deceased was president. Another son, Thomas W., is chief book-keeper of the corporation, and still another son, John, conducts a large grocery business on St. Louis street.

Mr. Keet was married in Barry county, August 14, 1841, to Elizabeth P. West, who survives him. The issue of this marriage was six children; the sons previously mentioned, another son, Edward, deceased several years ago, and two daughters, Mrs. Minnie McCleod, of Houston, Mass., and Mrs. Dr. Smith, of this city. Mr. Keet was affiliated with the Masonic bodies of Springfield and he and his wife were faithful members of the Methodist church.

Mr. Keet's business sagacity was phenomenal within the lines he early marked out for himself, and this was joined to his spotless integrity, rendered his early and continuous success in business a certainty. No man stood higher than he in the esteem and confidence of his hundreds of customers, who are scattered throughout southwestern Missouri, northern Arkansas and the Indian Territory, and to none will the light of his death cause more genuine sorrow than those faithfully served patrons of his great business. As a citizen of Springfield his loss to commercial circles will be most deeply felt and his quiet, modest courage in every enterprising work as well as his instant and large liberality whenever emergencies arose will be an almost irreparable loss to this community. No man can pick a flaw in his character now that he is gone, and, better still, no man will desire to do so. His whole career is a noble inspiration to honest business methods and a silent rebuke of the conscienceless scramble for dollars that has so much characterized commerce in these latter days. Let his epitaph be: "Josiah T. Keet—A just man; an honorable merchant; a good citizen and a true Christian," and all who knew him will say "Amen."

CHARGE OF ABDUCTION.

E. E. Cannefax Wants to Find His 4-Year-Old Son.

The Child Kept in Hiding by His Mother's Relatives.

How the Boy Was Found and Given to a Relative of the Mother.

E. E. Cannefax, of San Antonio, Tex., is in the city in search of his child which he could not find yesterday and which he said had been abducted.

About three months ago the wife of Cannefax came to this city from Texas to visit her mother, Mrs. Mace, who lives four miles south of the city, and her sister, Mrs. R. S. Roberts. While at the home of Mrs. Roberts in this city Mrs. Cannefax was stricken with typhoid fever and died, leaving her 4-year-old son, Ralph, in charge of her sister. After the death of the mother the father at once took steps to get possession of his son, but the aunt and grandmother refused to allow the little one to return.

Mr. Cannefax says this was the result of an old grudge Mrs. Mace and Mrs. Roberts held against him.

Cannefax and Miss King were married in this city five years ago against the wishes of Miss King's mother, Mrs. Mace. She has been twice married and has a son, but he is unable to provide for his wife, and said that feared he would mistreat the little one.

Cannefax finally notified the people who had the child in charge that he would be in this city yesterday morning to claim his child and hoped no ill-feeling would result.

Hearing of his coming the aunt and grandmother determined to prevent the father from getting the boy and early yesterday morning R. S. Roberts took the boy Ralph in a buggy and drove out to the house of the grandmother. Mrs. Mace Cannefax heard of this move upon his arrival here and left in pursuit. When he reached the Mace residence he was informed that Mrs. Mace had taken the boy and gone to Nichols Junction. Not believing this he remained at the Mace home for an hour and finally Mrs. Mace returned without the boy. In response to the father's inquiry she said that the child had been given to a man on horseback but refused to divulge his identity. She said that she would do first.

Cannefax, by this time thoroughly aroused, returned to the city determined, he said, to have the boy or have somebody's scalp.

Upon his return to the city of the existence of the boy he started a conspiracy to defeat him in his purpose and he became furious. He was at last convinced that the boy had been taken to the city.

He said to the reporter that he said I will mix. I propose to have every one connected with this infernal business arrested to-morrow morning for abduction, but that I will have the boy. I did not want to have any trouble other than the abduction of the mother of my dead wife, but they have been so stubborn that I have had enough of it.

He said that he had information that the boy was in the city and that he was on my way there to-night. If he is there I know where to find him."

 "Will you take an officer to assist me?" he said.
 "Officer: I don't need any officer to get my boy. I'll get him if I can find where he is."
 Mr. Cannefax learned last night, he said, that Mrs. Roberts and her mother had bargained to give the boy to the spiritualist medium, Mrs. Oles Souder. The medium is acquainted with the Roberts family and a few days ago, while Mr. Souder's house, she claimed to have been visited by the spirit of the boy's mother. She said Mrs. Cannefax told her to take charge of Ralph and adopt him.
 Mrs. Souder took charge of him and employed a negro boy to wait upon him. An attempt was made to keep this matter secret until Mrs. Souder should be ready to leave the city, but some one who was taken into confidence revealed the matter to Mr.
 Cannefax, and he now says that he has no fears that the woman will be able to take the boy away.
 A reporter searched the city last night to find Mr. Roberts to get his version of the affair, but found that he had left town about dark in a buggy.
 It is thought that he may have gone to bring the boy back to Mr. Cannefax to compromise the matter in fear of arrest, but he had not returned up to a late hour.

MR. KEET'S WILL.

He Provides For His Widow and Children, But Makes No Public Bequest.

The Estate He Leaves Will Probably Exceed $175,000--Test of the Will.

The last will and testament of Josiah T. Keet was filed for probate today and by that instrument the entire estate is left to his widow and children.

The document was evidently written by Mr. Keet himself as any designation of chattels, including stock, vehicles etc., was disguised by capital letters. He was a good business man shrewd and painstaking in the details of the substantial house of Keet & Roustree with which he has been for years associated, but he left no suggestion that out of his great wealth anything should go to library or any other public enterprise.

The text of the will follows:

Know all men by these presents that I, Josiah T. Keet, of the county of Greene and State of Missouri, being of sound mind and body, do hereby give and bequeath unto Elizabeth P. Keet, my wife and James E. Keet, my son, of Greene county, Mo., all my estate, both real and personal, in the State of Missouri, or in any other place in trust for the benefit of the persons herein after named; and it is my wish that in the execution of this trust that the said Elizabeth P. Keet and James E. Keet shall not be hindered or interfered with in any way by any court of probate and that no bonds shall be required or demanded of the said Elizabeth P. Keet or James E. Keet for the faithful discharge of the duties of said trust.

"And it is my wish that the said trustees shall be paid for their services in this trust the sum of $400 per annum each, out of the proceeds of my estate.

"It is my wish that my wife, Elizabeth P. Keet, shall hold absolutely in her own right the residence we now occupy, together with the lot of land it stands on, containing four acres, fronting on St. Louis street, and all other things contained in the residence; also the furniture and cattle, carriages and buggies and every other article that may be on the premises not enumerated.

"After the above is set off to my wife as described, it is my further wish that all the remainder of my estate of every description be equally divided among my wife, my daughters, Francis H. Smith and Mary E. McLeod, and my sons, Thomas W. Keet, James E. Keet and John T. Keet, share and share alike, and I also wish my trustees, as above, to give out of my estate as soon as they can do so, $300 to each and every one of my brothers and sisters that may be surviving at my death.

WILL OF MR. KEET.

It Was Probated in Judge Lincoln's Court Yesterday.

Aside From the Homestead, the Estate is Divided Equally Among The Heirs.

In the probate court yesterday the will of the late Josiah T. Keet was probated. It was written by Mr. Keet himself, and attested by Mrs. M. C. Baker and John L. Holland. The full text is as follows:

"Know all men by these presents that I, Josiah T. Keet, of the county of Greene, and State of Missouri, being of sound mind and body, do hereby give and bequeath unto Elizabeth P. Keet, my wife, and James E. Keet, my son, of Greene county, Mo., all my estate, both real and personal, in the State of Missouri, or in any other place, in trust for the benefit of the persons herein-after named; and it is my wish that in the execution of this trust that the said Elizabeth P. Keet and James E. Keet shall not be hindered or interfered with in any way by any court of probate and that no bonds shall be required or demanded of the said Elizabeth P. Keet or James E. Keet for the faithful discharge of the duties of said trust.

"And it is my wish that the said trustees shall be paid for their services in this trust the sum of $400 per annum each out of the proceeds of my estate.

"It is my wish that my wife, Elizabeth P. Keet, shall hold absolutely in her own right the residence we now occupy, together with the lot of land it stands on, containing four acres, fronting on St. Louis street, and all other things contained in the residence; also the horses and cattle, carriages and buggies, and every other article that may be on the premises not enumerated.

"After the above is set off to my wife as described, it is my further wish that all the remainder of my estate of every description be equally divided among my wife, my daughters, Frances R. Smith and Mary E. McLeod, and my sons, Thomas W. Keet, James E. Keet, and John C. Keet, share and share alike; and I also wish my trustees, as above, to give out of my estate as soon as they can do so, $200 to each and every one of my brothers and sisters that may be surviving at my death."

The estate of the late William M. Armstrong was ordered into the hands of A. N. Foss, public administrator.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING occurred Thursday evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Toombs, when the fair daughter of the house, Miss May Toombs, was united to Mr. J. L. Upchurch, of Hennecon, Tenn. The house was prettily decorated. The parlor's decorations were of exquisite white flowers and the library was arranged with lovely red roses. The wedding march was played harmoniously by Miss Maud King and to its musical rhythm the bridal party entered the parlors and passed in the archway between the parlors that was gracefully festooned with wreaths of similar. Dr. Paxson performed the impressive service of the Presbyterian Church. The bride was attired in a white chiton and a white tulle of point lace and a crown of lovely bridal roses. After receiving the warm congratulations of the friends present the bridal party and guests repaired to the dining room that was a marvel of decoration. The table was arrayed in red and white, the centerpiece being a crystal vase of pink roses. The supper was one of unexcelled excellence and all enjoyed the dainty refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch departed on the Gulf train for their future home in Hennecon. The bride's going away gown being a very becoming long, tailor-made costume. The happy couple were then joined by their friends and relatives. The guests at the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Paxson, Messrs. and Mesdames Tattle, Halkema and Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Spizer and daughter, Mrs. and Misses Myers, Messrs. Ross, Mary and Nina Baxter, Maggie Sawyer, Maud King, Florence Ferguson, Messrs. Julia Davis, Ernest Ferguson and Will Kellen.

SUE BRADY ATKISSON.

Her Death in This City on Tuesday, February 13, 1894.

Mrs. W. L. Atkisson died at her home on State street, this city February 13, 1894.

Sue Brady was born near Marion, Ind., September 11, 1846. In 1863 she attended school in Oswego, Kan. About nine years ago she came to Springfield and entered the high school from which she was graduated with honor in 1888, and she was at once elected as teacher by the school board which position she held four and a half years. She was married December 25, 1892, to W. L. Atkisson, of this city.

A short life but could we pen its history, reveal its struggles and its victories, gain an insight into the character which in 27 short years attained a strength and perfection which won for her the loving admiration of all with whom she came in contact, we might then realize that "a life spent worthily should be measured by a nobler line, by deeds not years."

Entering school as an entire stranger she at once commanded the respect of both teachers and pupils by her superior scholarship, and her indefatigable determination to succeed. In addition to her bright mind, the rare sweetness of disposition which led her to find something commendable in all her associates, soon made her universally popular to the few fortunate ones who were admitted into the charmed circle of close companionship. Her life will ever be an incentive toward better things, a touching example of what Christian fortitude and a never failing courage can accomplish.

She will long be remembered as a successful and conscientious teacher. She possessed the happy faculty of gaining the love as well as the respect of her pupils, and the many children whose young voices now attest her goodness have the impress of her virtues on their hearts, which will bear fruit in the coming days.

We who saw her in her happy home, surrounded by her husband's loving care, know that she who shone in whatever state of life it pleased God to call her, shed and added lustre to her own fireside, and was well fitted to wear the crown of womanhood.

The joys of motherhood were hers for so brief a period that to those mourning ones who mourn her loss the mystery of life and death seems impenetrable. We do not seek to understand, but say with trembling lips and in the words of that beautiful hymn sung at her funeral—

Renew our will from day to day,
Blend it with thine and take away
All that now makes it hard to say,
Thy will be done.

We do not mourn thee as one dead; thou hast but gone before. We claim for thee the promised rest, sweet rest, for thou wast weary, worn with battling for thy life, and when "at last the thread was snapped, life dropped the distaff through his hands serene," thy peaceful face, oh loved one, was balm to our sorrowing hearts. The snow which enshrouded earth in its magical purity on both the day of thy marriage and thy death was but a Notable among the events of the past week was the wedding of Miss May Toombs of East Elm Street, to Mr. I. L. Upchurch of Hennington, Tenn. The house was artistically decorated with roses, carnations and potted plants, with the parlor in white and green, and the hall in red, while the dining room was a temptation in pink. La France roses being the touch of color that brought about the desired effect, and the snowy asperity, rare china and sparkling glass adding to the softness of the tone. The bride's dress was of white china silk with garniture of rich lace. The going-away gown was of brown whispard, with gloves, shoes and hat to which Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch left on the midnight train for Memphis and other southern cities. They will be at home in Hennington, Tenn., after March 1st. GORDON-ROUNTREE.

A Pretty Home Wedding of Popular Young People.
Last evening at 8 o'clock a pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. L. E. Rountree, 211 Hovey avenue. The contracting parties were Miss Hattie Rountree and Mr. Harry B. Gordon.
Promptly at 8 o'clock the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march echoed through the corridors and the bridal procession appeared headed by little Ethel Gordon, sister of the groom, and Dean Hallowell, bearing the wedding ring on a silver tray. Dr. T. H. Cleland met the bride and groom with their attendants under a delicate drapery of amillax. The bride was attired in an elegant gown of cream tulle, with high neck and long sleeves, with a trimming of pearl passementerie and point lace. The veil of fine tulle was caught up by orange blossoms and a bouquet of the same. With long white gloves and slippers of satin completed the toilet. Miss Annie Ingram as bridesmaid looked unusually handsome in a costume of white dotted Swiss with shoes and gloves en suite; her flowers were white roses. Edith Gordon was sweet simplicity in an empire gown of yellow crepe. The groom and attendant, Mr. Ernest Kenas, of St. Louis, were garbed in the usual suit of black.

After congratulations were extended the guests were invited to the dining room where an elegant wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will be "at home" Mondays in March at the family residence on Hovey avenue.

The guests from abroad were Mr. Ernest Kenas, of St. Louis, and Misses Hobbie Trott and Lena Davidson, of Fayetteville, Ark.

Wednesday evening Mr. Harry Gordon and Miss Hattie Rountree were united in marriage at the home of the bride's mother on Hovey avenue. This was one of the prettiest home weddings of the season, the prominence of the surrounding parties lending additional interest. The bride and groom were preceded to the parlor by little Edith Gordon and Dean Hallowell bearing the wedding ring on a silver tray. In a corner of the front parlor under a delicate drape of ecru stood an altar of flowers; here they were met by the Rev. T. H. Gleason, of Calvary Presbyterian church, and the vows were taken.

Miss Annie Ingram and Mr. Ernest Kenna attended the bridal couple.

The bride's costume was an elegant gown of cream duchesse satin with pearl and point lace trimmings and a bouquet of orange blossoms, the gift of friends in Jackson, Miss., was carried while the same flowers fastened the tulle veil. Miss Annie Ingram wore a white dotted Swiss and carried a cluster of white roses.

Miss Edith Gordon wore yellow silk; Mrs. E. E. Rountree, mother of the bride, wore an elegant black and white diamond ornaments; Mrs. Gordon, black wool; Mrs. Hopkins, black satin; Miss Mame Gordon, pink silk, slippers and gloves as suite.

SENSATION AT OZARK.

Society Circulars in the Romantic Little City Stirred to its Center.

Several years before the rift was Miss Eliza W. Hornbeak, a blossoming girl of one of the leading families of Douglas county, who had been married to a young man of the same name, John Hornbeak, a prominent merchant and leading Republican of Sparta. They loved and married a gallant young lover by the name of John Blackman, brother of W. W. Blackman, now a wealthy citizen of Greer county. Years went by and when the tangle of war was wound the young husband lost his fortune with the young Confederacy in whose studies he did gallant service, until peace again reigned in the land, when he returned to the bosom of his father's wife and like the other gallant fellows who were the first writhed down to peaceful pursuits on a farm two miles from the romantic little city of Ozark. Success and prosperity rewarded the labors of the frugal, industrious couple and so far as the world knew their hearts always the hospitable shade. As time went by and these two hearts became more closely entwined about each other there came into their home four gold-haired girls to bloom and still make them more closely. At last there came a dark cloud over this happy home. The kind husband and loving father sickened and died, leaving the sorrowing widow and four orphans to fight the battle of life alone. But the husband had left them in comfortable surroundings and a goodly estate.

About the time a young wife of Doctor S. M. Jernigan, a prominent and well-to-do merchant of Ozark, had been married a few years of life and left her husband at a young age and daughter to live alone. Fourteen years ago Doctor Jernigan, the dark haired son of Kentucky, west and wife the silver haired Mrs. Blackmore who was ten years his senior. The two families lived and were as happy as little while to get along harmoniously but as years passed along and the children grew up they began to begin to manifest themselves to a grasping world and it was developed that there was an incompatibility of temper on the part of the two families. Matters went from bad to worse until last Tuesday morning the doctor was in the throes of the unhappy family was connected, at least while they lived together. Mrs. Jernigan has moved her bed and board to another part of the town and to make a long story short the grumpies say that Judge Newell will be asked to settle the connubial knot which has bound the two together for these fourteen years.

ASH GROVE TRAGEDY.

Turkmen--New York Dispatch.

the Body--Officers in Possession of the Murderer.

Sheriff Grantman received a telegram from A. J. Twissell, of Ash Grove, this morning, saying that Van Pelt had killed W. O. Cawfield and that the murder had occurred. By Deane, this evening, also received a telegram incorporating the facts above briefly outlined and he will proceed to Ash Grove by the first train.

The story of W. O. Cawfield's life for the past year has been one of a bitter, thirsty nature and it is but natural that it should become in the course of events, the victim.

HE BROKE KING

Last spring, while Cawfield was constable of Boone township, he shot to death a man named King. Constable Cawfield had arrested a man for disorderly conduct and an effort was made by the prisoner's brother to obstruct the officer in the discharge of his duty. Cawfield shot King, the brother who was interfering, killing him on the spot, and at the preliminary examination the justice was acquitted from all blame. Prosecuting Attorney Duncan representing the state.

a perfectly fearless man and consider the influence of liquor he was dangerous. It is not known whether Judge Duncan recommended the execution, but it seems probable that an admonition was given if it was needed.

HE SPEAKS AGAIN

Soon after the execution, and when their blood and the red apple was talking on its maddened air, Constable Cawfield again burlished up his deadly weapon and in a drunken riot shot one Van Pelt, wounding him severely and putting him in hospital for some time.

Cawfield was arrested on a charge of felonious assault, and he languished in jail for awhile, being talked out later by friends. His condemnation as constable of Boone township was accepted and he left for the Cherokee Strip opening.

The row with Van Pelt arose, it is alleged, over the much sought for affections of a girl named Minnie Allen, who has been in the county jail several times and whose name has been of that shadowy type which is most attractive by night.

THE CURTAIN FALLS

This morning the men Van Pelt and Cawfield, became engaged in an altercation, renewing the old trouble, and the former shot his opponent to death, immediately thereafter leaving town.

Van Pelt is about 45 years of age and Cawfield was 44.

As Cawfield was considered a dangerous man it is thought that Van Pelt would have been justified in remaining and standing trial unless there are circumstances connected with the affair which have not developed that made the killing cowardly.

SHOT IN THE BACK

The following telegram from Ash Grove, sent at 11:40 o'clock this morning tells more about the story (Special to THE LEADER)

ASH GROVE, March 1.—This morning about 9:45 P. Van Pelt shot and killed W. O. Cawfield as he was coming up town. Van Pelt stepped out of Crane's harness shop with a shotgun loaded with buckshot and fired just as Cawfield passed on the other side of the street.

The first shot struck Cawfield in the back of the neck killing him instantly. As he fell Van Pelt fired a second shot into his body and then ran away. Officers are now in pursuit of Van Pelt.

and, whenever he was in his cups, which was not infrequently his reputation was increased to such an extent that people avoided him as dangerous. Not long after the killing of King, Cawfield, in a drunken row with Van Pelt, the man who killed him yesterday, shot and seriously wounded him, and for this offense he was lodged in jail to await trial for assault with intent to murder. Here he remained for a considerable time before friends succeeded in putting up the heavy bail required to secure his liberty. Once released he surrendered his position of constable and left for the west, where he remained to take advantage of the rust into the Cherokee strip last summer, and only recently returned to his old haunts at Ash Grove. Last Saturday, it appears, Cawfield started on a spree, and memories of his old trouble with Van Pelt began to bite his brain. He bucked up his old antagonist with the avowed intention of "seeing him at the time." It was not difficult to find him at Ash Grove in Van Pelt's home and the home of his people, who are highly respected citizens all around. When they met Cawfield pulled his pistol and fired two shots at Van Pelt, but his aim was bad and Van Pelt quickly got out of his way, since then Cawfield continued his drinking and made numerous threats to kill Van Pelt. The latter heard of this through friends and finally resolved that he would stand it no longer and armed himself with a double barreled shot gun loaded with buckshot, prepared to go out on the street and quietly attend to his necessary business affairs, and, in case he encountered Cawfield, who he knew was hunting for him continually, to settle him for good. That he did so most effectually appears from the testimony given before a jury empaneled by Coroner Dismor who was called to Ash Grove to hold inquest over Cawfield's dead body. After the shooting Van Pelt walked leisurely away and later surrendered himself to the officers and after a preliminary examination was admitted to bail.

Coroner Dismor, having reached the scene early in the afternoon, charged W. H. Turk, W. W. Robbins, G. William Kelley, J. M. Conner, E. Myers and John Fleck with the duty of inquiring into the cause of Cawfield's death, and after hearing the evidence, the jury brought in a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of A. F. Van Pelt. The verdict of course only related to the bare fact of the killing as witnessed by bystanders, and summarized it was as follows:

James Blackledge testified that he was standing on a street corner and, looking up, heard the crack of a pistol or gun and saw Cawfield fall. He then looked around again and saw Van Pelt take a gun down from his face, and after Cawfield had fallen he shot again at the body. Van Pelt then walked away across to the opposite corner still having the gun in his hand. The weapon looked like a double-barreled shot gun. Cawfield fell face foremost and had his hands in his pockets. He was beyond Van Pelt and across the road when shot. This was about ten o'clock in the morning. Witness had not heard any threats as charged between the two men.

James L. Turpin, who is in the saddlery and undertaking business at Ash Grove, testified that he was on the sidewalk, not far from where Cawfield fell, conversing with a friend when the shot was fired and he saw Cawfield fall immediately afterward. He also saw Van Pelt as he recovered the gun after his first shot and saw him send the other load into Cawfield's prostrate body and then depart through an alley near by. L. H. McGroves and J. O. Waddell, two other citizens, testified to about the same facts.

The first shot took effect in the back of Cawfield's neck and was instantly fatal, as it virtually covered the spinal cord.

The sympathy of the community is largely with Van Pelt and it is thought he will have little difficulty in making out a case of self defense or justifiable homicide. There is rather a feeling of relief that Cawfield's dangerous presence in the usual peaceful town will no longer create uneasiness as it has done for a long time past.

Late in the evening Van Pelt, accompanied by relatives and friends, came to Springfield and, after a hearing before Judge J. J. Quinn, of the criminal court, he was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000 to answer to the next term of that court which indicates that the evidence is regarded by the judge as strongly exculpatory.

A Secret Marriage.
 It has leaked out that Thomas N. Appleby, the north side seed merchant, was quietly married last Sunday to Mary J. Walton. The marriage was announced by the officials and it was not until yesterday that it became known. Both parties have been recently divorced.

Though the many friends in this city of Miss Florence Hornbeak and Mr. Arthur Quisenberry have for some time been expecting the announcement of their marriage still it created no little surprise when it was found they had stolen a march on them and last Sunday repaired to the home of Rev. Pinkerton on East Walnut street where the binding vows were pronounced. Only several very intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, though they both have scores of friends who hold them in loving interest and who unite in kindly wishes. They are now at home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Hoke on Mount Vernon street, where they repaired immediately after the ceremony and were tendered a complimentary 8 o'clock dinner. The table was prettily decorated with flowers and its own appointments and the dinner served in courses was elaborate and excellent and was enjoyed by Messrs. and Mesdames A. R. Quisenberry, LeBlanc, C. L. Moody and Miss Gussie Fricke.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.
 Dan Considine Dies Under Peculiar Circumstances.

While Dr. F. W. Dierker, the county coroner, was holding the inquest over the remains of S. A. Risley yesterday he was notified of another sudden death on the north side.

Daniel Considine, a railroad man 63 years old, who lived at the corner of Court and Campbell streets, was found at his home in bed in a dying condition about 2:30 p. m. yesterday. All the circumstances in the case indicated that he had committed suicide by the morphine route.

Mr. Considine has been subject to attacks of some peculiar malady resembling heart disease for two years, and for the greater part of that time has been confined to his home. He was in constant fear of death and was a great sufferer. He went to the office of Dr. Reinhold about 10 o'clock yesterday, and complained of feeling worse than usual. He said one of his nervous attacks was coming on and he felt that he would soon die. The doctor gave him a prescription for a mild nerve restorative. He remarked that he did not think the medicine would do him any good. "The only thing that would help me," remarked the old man, "is a teaspoonful of strychnine." He then went to the Metropolitan pharmacy and had the prescription filled by John Jung the clerk. When the medicine was handed him, he again remarked that a teaspoonful of strychnine would do him more good, and seemed very much depressed.

Mr. Jung offered to hire a carriage to take him home as he seemed very ill, but he insisted on going home on a street car.

Upon arriving home he made no complaints to his wife, but she gave him one of the powders prescribed by Dr. Reinhold, and about 1 o'clock, several hours after he had taken the medicine he insisted upon sending his wife to Commercial street upon some trivial errand. She was gone less than half an hour, and when she returned she found all the window blinds down, and knowing the despondent condition of her husband she feared all was not right. Upon going in she found him lying on the bed in a dying condition. The neighbors were summoned, and Dr. Warner was called, but the patient was dead a few minutes.

The coroner's inquest developed the fact that he was expected to die at any moment and the jury returned a verdict that it came to his death from natural causes.

The accuracy of the verdict was questioned by some of the neighbors of the deceased, as he had attempted suicide on previous occasions.

BY HIS OWN HAND

S. A. Risley Snuffed Out the Light of Life.

Suicide by Chloroform in the Metropolitan Hotel.

It Looks Much Like a Case of Suicide. He Threatened to Kill Himself.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Samuel A. Risley, of West Plains, was found dead, a suicide, in room 63, Metropolitan hotel.

Risley is quite a prominent Republican and registered at the Metropolitan February 21, coming here to attend the Republican League convention. He wrote a bold, business-like hand, one which showed familiarity with a pen.

Mr. Risley had been a heavy drinker at periods and then may not touch a drop for months at a time.

Charles Hoppel, who has a strong German accent, is a special friend of Risley. He formerly lived in West Plains but is now a citizen of Oklahoma. He has been in town several days and long about 1:30 yesterday in the afternoon he and S. H. Horine went around to the hotel to see Risley. It was learned that Risley was not yet out of bed, although he retired at a reasonable hour the night before. A porter was sent up to wake Risley and when he returned reported that there was something wrong as the door was locked and there was a strong smell of drugs from the room. Messrs. Horine and Hoppel returned with the porter who gained admission into the room through a window off a skylight. He opened the door and admitted Messrs. Hoppel and Horine who made a hasty investigation.

Risley's dead body lay on a bed, his shoes and coat only having been removed. The head was partially covered and a hand held a bottle of chloroform which had smothered out life. It was a determined suicide yet he did not seem to view the matter seriously and went so far as to write a joke by way of an apology for soiling the carpet "which had nevertheless seen good use." This indicated that blood was to flow in case that chloroform failed to do the work, and the keen blade of a razor close at hand, as well as a dangerous looking knife near by, indicated more strongly his intentions.

Morphine and enough murderous drugs to kill several men were within arm's reach.

Mr. Horine felt of the dead man to see if a spark of life remained, but saw there was not. The two gentlemen came down and at once sent word to Dr. F. W. Delmer, the coroner, who arrived in about an hour and half and at once went to the fourth story of the hotel to take charge of the body.

Purple blotches were on the face of deceased, caused probably by morphine, as Mr. Risley took a great deal of the drug of late, and last Sunday was so much under its influence that he fell, exhausted, on a sofa in the hotel and remained with his head hanging to one side all the afternoon.

When Coroner Delmer arrived there was quite a rush to go to the room, but he waived them back, saying that only those interested were wanted.

Two letters had been left by the deceased. One read:

E. D. OTT, Esq.
MY DEAR FRIEND—For reasons that seem to me to be good, I am going out of this life. Will you kindly take charge of my body and effects and send them to West Plains? My lodge will reimburse you. The G. A. R. will assist you if necessary. I am (was) commander of the West Plains Post. Fraternally,
SAM A. RISLEY.

The following letter he had addressed to the manager of the hotel:

MY DEAR MR. FAHMAN—It seems a sorry trick to do a man in your inn, as I am now preparing to do myself. I really and truly want to avoid anything objectionable, but I want to make a dead sure thing of it, and so I shall have to saturate your carpet. Don't charge it up at a fancy price, for it has done good service and ought to be on the retired list, anyhow.

In addition to the amount to my credit the money in my pocket will pay for my bill, lacking a dollar or two.

Please have the machine in No. 14 and the one in the Southern express office shipped to S. O. Ramsey, West Plains, Mo. Adios, SAM A. RISLEY.

The body was removed to Paxson's undertaking establishment, where Coroner Diemer held an inquest.

The inquest was held in the office of Justice Chinn before the following jury: H. F. Denton, Fred Pranter, Hunter Day, N. B. Hogan, J. C. Gardner and William Jones. The verdict was in accordance with the facts here given.

The body will be shipped to West Plains at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

Risley was postmaster of West Plains for six years and has a wife and three children. He is a brother-in-law of B. F. Olden, of West Plains, an attorney of the Memphis railroad company, and probably the wealthiest man in Howell county. He was about 54 years of age, but seemed younger. He is the inventor of a parlor bicycle which he had been introducing in the city, one being on exhibition at the hotel which was curiously examined by a large crowd when the news of the suicide became generally known.

Mr. Risley made a trip to Nicaragua last year and returned in the early part of the summer. For a long time he was quarantined in the southern country and got away only by the exercise of great shrewdness. On the way home the awful storms of the early part of last season were raging over the Atlantic and he was more than once in great peril. While south he dealt some in animals of the tropics. The monkeys at the Zoo were furnished by him.

Miss Florence Risley, daughter of the deceased, was in Springfield last week visiting Miss Olden, but is now a guest of friends at Carthage. She was 20 years of age. Miss Olden is in California, and there were few of Mr. Risley's kin here to attend to preparing the body for shipment to West Plains.

TIRED OF LIVING.

Sam Risley of West Plains Made His End.

The Dead Accomplished With Morphine in His Room at the Metropolitan Hotel—The Doctor's Verdict.

On the 21st of last month a stranger went to the Metropolitan hotel and, in a neat, legible hand, registered as "Sam A. Risley, West Plains, Mo." The accommodating clerk assigned him to room 61, on the third floor, and nothing strange in his conduct was observed by any person connected with the hotel. A short time after his arrival Mr. Risley informed a number of people that he was agent for a parlor bicycle, but it is inferred that he did not meet with much success.

About this time the Republican state league convened in Springfield and, being a prominent member of the Grand Army and a staunch republican, he attended and mingled freely with the delegates and ex-soldiers. He did not exhibit any signs of despondency and was "one of the boys."

Mr. Risley did not appear at the meals yesterday, which excited suspicion. A porter knocked at the door of his room and, receiving no response, stepped on a chair and looked over the transom. He saw Mr. Risley in bed with his head under a blanket and in his hand was a bottle which contained a liquid; afterwards ascertained to be chloroform. In a chair by his bed he was discovered with an open knife and two empty bottles which had contained morphine. Several letters were found on a dresser. Two unsealed ones contained the following, written with a pencil:

"E. D. Orr, Esq.

"My Dear Friend:—For reasons that seem to me to be good, I am going out of this life. Will you kindly take charge of my body and effects and send them to West Plains. My lodge will regulate you. The G. A. R. will

"SAM A. RISLEY."

Three unsealed letters were also discovered, addressed to "Mrs. Alice C. Risley, West Plains, Mo.," "Miss C. F. Risley, Carthage, Mo.," and "A. G. Ramsey, West Plains, Mo." Governor Pierson did not open them, as it would have been unlawful and he had no desire to come in conflict with Judge Sam.

C. A. Hubbard, deputy constable, summoned a jury consisting of H. F. Houston, Fred Brainer, N. B. Hogan, J. C. Gardner and William Jones, who repaired to the office of L. W. Dornell to investigate the circumstances connected with the sad affair. There were six witnesses—G. H. Meade, L. T. Bell, Calvin Higga, Stephen Green and Jesse Coppel—and they all testified substantially to the facts as already related.

The jury, after deliberating a few minutes, returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death by morphine being administered.

The body was conveyed to Paxton's and placed in a coffin, dressed, and awaited the arrival of parties from West Plains, who were too faded for and had time to board the next night train.

Deceased was 34 years old and leaves a wife and three children. H. B. Savage says he served in Company C, 117th Illinois regiment, with Mr. Risley, who left McKendree college and resided at Lebanon, Ill. Deceased was a sergeant, but was detailed to do special work in the signal corps. Mr. Risley is said to be brother-in-law of B. F. Olden, who is connected with the famous fruit farm in Howell county. The reporter also learned that deceased was an ex-postmaster of West Plains, where his family reside.

A. B. Patterson, a friend of the family, came in last night and accompanied the remains home this morning.

After an investigation by a jury composed of E. B. Ferrier, Val Mason, D. McSwessey, E. H. Anthe, D. W. Nichols and Charles Dady, the following facts were disclosed: Mrs. Anna Coslindine, residing on the corner of Campbell and Court streets, went to town on business and when she returned about 2 o'clock her husband was discovered unconscious in the house. Dr. J. E. Warden was summoned, but when he arrived Mr. Cos-

A man, who is an elderly man, was dead about two or three hours previous to his death he visited the office of Dr. Kienhoff who prescribed for deceased. At the time Mr. Considine was not feeling well and remarked that letters had been sent to him from the doctor of medicine and stated a short time afterwards, but the summer ago he underwent an operation to remove the gall bladder and the cause of death in killing this man. The cause of death was thoracic aneurism or an enlarged and weakened artery according to the verdict of the jury. A daughter of Mr. Considine who lives in Arkansas has been telegraphed for and the remains will be held until Monday morning, after which they will be laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery.

J. W. Lewis, of Thayer, and Miss Rosa Joas, of Springfield, were married in the parlor of the Central Hotel, this city, at 8:30 o'clock on Sunday evening. A few of the most intimate friends of the couple were present, namely, George Haddiway and wife, Messrs. W. J. Highfill and Schneider, of Springfield, H. N. Powell, postmaster of Thayer, and wife.

At 11:30 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Haddiway, left for Thayer, which will be the home of the newly wedded pair.

The bride is a young lady of very high standing in Springfield, a sister-in-law of George Haddington, who has been one of the Gulf road's best known conductors for years.

For some time Mr. Lewis was identified with the traffic system of the Gulf railroad and is now in the real estate business at Thayer. He is a young man of energy and promise.

MARRIED AT THE DENTON.

Frank McConnell, of Sedalia, and Miss Mamie P. Lowry, of Springfield.

In the parlor of the Denton hotel at 9:30 o'clock last night Frank McConnell, of Sedalia, and Miss Mamie P. Lowry were married. Rev. T. H. Capp, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated and the ceremony was none the less pretty and impressive because of the very quiet marriage. A few of the most intimate friends only were present, and soon after congratulations Mr. and Mrs. McConnell left by the Memphis line for Sedalia and from there they will visit points in the East.

The bride wore a travelling costume of changeable novelties suiting, trimmed with blue broadcloth and hat and gloves to match. She is the petit and bright daughter of William Lowry, proprietor of the Denton hotel, and popular for her amiable qualities. She is a linial descendant of John Quincy Adams on the male side, and her grandfather, the late Judge Lowry, of Pettis county, came from a famous family in Kentucky.

Mr. McConnell is a young man of good business qualities and promise, and is at present with the American express company on the Missouri, Kansas & Eastern railway.

Among the gifts for the bride was a handsome clock presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Callap. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rose, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Miller, Will Scott, W. J. Bolling, H. E. Moss, F. W. Gregory and W. P. Hubbard, resident guests of the Denton, with this note: "To Miss Mamie Lowry—With pleasant remembrances of the past and happy wishes for the future, your friends tender you this slight token of their appreciation."

Married at the Denton.

Frank J. McConnell, trainmaster on the Franklin division of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway company, with headquarters at St. Charles, Mo., captured one of Springfield's fair daughters last night at 9:30 o'clock. In the parlors of the Denton, when he married Miss Mary P., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lowry, managers of the hotel. Elder T. H. Capp, of the First Christian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends of the family. After congratulations the happy couple were the recipients of numerous handsome and useful tokens of esteem. The bridal party departed on the 11:35 train for Kansas City, thence to points east, and will be "at home" in St. Charles on the 20th inst. The best wishes of many friends follow them.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

Miss Mamie Pearl Lowry Becomes a Bride.

The Groom, Frank McConnell, is a Rail-

Yesterday evening at seven o'clock Miss Mamie Pearl Lowry changed her name to Mrs. Frank McConnell, and her sweet face with delicate features was added to the life of her husband as many charms as her numerous accomplishments and her distinguished lineage.

The union of the two young hearts is one in which love only holds the lever, and Mr. McConnell, as an engineer and experienced railroad man knows that to keep the train moving there must be the right man at the throttle—and that was why he wanted to get there, and did.

The bride was arrayed in a traveling costume consisting of changeable novelty suiting with trimmings of green broadcloth. Hat and gloves in suit.

This handsome costume was worn at the wedding ceremony and on the wedding tour, though the fair bride had some difficulty in making a choice among a really elegant dress.

At 10:30 the young couple left for Sedalia, and from that point, after a rest, will take a more extended tour, visiting the principal points of interest in the East.

To say that the bride has two beautiful sisters is telling the truth as meekly as possible. No words can describe the fact with any approach to adequacy, and the three last night might have been taken for the Three Graces. Rev. T. H. Capp, of the College street Christian church, performed the ceremony in an impressive manner, after which married couples were given and the young couple went away to a house of their own good wishes. The presents were handsome and numerous.

Miss Wagon.

Miss Mamie Pearl Lowry is a daughter of an old family, William Lowry, recently of Sedalia, but at present proprietor of the Dexter hotel, this city. Judge William Lowry, the grandfather of the bride, was a man of unusual parts, being a close friend of Jay Gould, a banker of note, a railroad man well known in the west and a tobacco magnate who made in five years made $100,000.

The family originally lived in Virginia, the grandmother of the bride being an Adams, a cousin of President Adams, while, when the elder Lowry branch moved to Kentucky and settled in the town of Covington they were friends of Daniel Boone.

From all this it may be seen that Mr. McConnell has made a plucking from the fair flowers of Springfield which he should cherish as something sacred, and no doubt he appreciates the prize he has been fortunate enough to draw in the lottery of life.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER
Fred House Shot to Death Last Night After Midnight
Shortly after midnight last night Fred House, aged about 25 years, was shot to death on the sidewalk near Lyons street and Grant street on the west side of Grant street near Phelps avenue. The discovery of the crime was made by Mr. G. W. Hodges, solicitor for the City Foundry and Novelty company, who lives near the scene of the murder, at 221 West Phelps avenue, and it was from the noise of a quarrel that preceded the deadly assault that his attention was attracted to the spot.
At the hour named above he noticed three persons standing in front of his near Lyons street and Grant street, lying motionless on the sidewalk on the west side of Grant street near Phelps avenue. The discovery of the crime was made by Mr. G. W. Hodges, solicitor for the City Foundry and Novelty company, who lives near the scene of the murder, at 221 West Phelps avenue, and it was from the noise of a quarrel that preceded the deadly assault that his attention was attracted to the spot.

At the hour named above he noticed three persons standing in front of his premises on the sidewalk and they appeared to be engaged in an altercation. After a short while the party was increased by the arrival of several other men, and they all at once quickly separated; some running off to the east and others south.

Hearing groans, he ventured out a short distance and found the body of young House, lying as described. Mr. Hodges immediately raised an alarm and had a police officer sent for. In a brief while officers Arnold, Richard and Andrews arrived at the spot and found Joe and Will Moss, who had come to the spot from some point not far away. As soon as the officers arrived, Hodges briefly told what he knew of the tragedy and turning to the two Moss boys, who are notorious toughs, living out on South street, he boldly demanded that they go with the marshal. The young men were at once taken into custody by the officers. By this time a crowd had begun to collect, among them being Charlie Winters, who admitted having been with the gang that night at a low dance at Mrs. Ochsler's, corner Grant and Pine streets, where they had all become more or less intoxicated. Winters was enough under the influence of liquor to be loquacious, and the officers soon pumped the full particulars of the murder from his lips.

He asserted that he, together with the dead man and Joe, Will, John and Oliver Moss had left the dance at about the same time. John Moss and House were some little distance ahead of the party and got into a row. "I wanted to go over and see what it was all about," but Joe, Will and Oliver Moss held me back. I finally broke loose from them and ran down the street to where John Moss and Fred House were scuffling in a fight. As I got there, John Moss turned around to me and I saw he had a long knife all bloody in his hand, and he said to me, "I made him give me the razor." But Thomas, who was going by with his girl as the walk, ran up and caught hold of John Moss, and they walked away, and the other boys then skipped away.

Joe and Will Moss denied having had any hand in the murder but will be held to have a full examination today. The whereabouts of John Moss, the presumable murderer, had not been traced up to the hour of going to press—2:30 this morning, but officers are hot on his trail.

Coroner Diemer was called up and took charge of the body about 1 o'clock and had it removed to White's undertaking establishment on Commercial street, where an inquest was organized with the following jury: W. R. Comings, T. H. Walcott, A. G. Tucker, L. F. Portier, A. O. Mack and Charles Affleck. A number of witnesses were examined but the testimony was not completed in time for a verdict to be reached for publication in this issue.

MURDER MOST FOUL.

Fred House Stabbed to the Heart at

The Tragedy Grows Out of a Dice Dance.

The House Family Undertaken.

House after midnight. Tuesday began to stir up the celestial constellations, Fred House, a handsome young fellow, and his companion, was stabbed to the heart by a companion, and in a few moments he was a corpse.

Yesterday afternoon Fred House was in the Leader arcade with friends and after supper he attended a dance on Grant and Pine streets. The terpsichorean performance was enlivened by spirits which had been kept in bottles, and at the conclusion of the revelry some of the participants were on an indefinite sea of discovery—half seas over.

Among the male participants in the festivities were John, Joe and Will Moss, Charles Winters and Fred House. When they quit the ball room this quartette seem to have fallen afoul of one another with House, being the principal object of aversion, and the result of an affray resulted in the sudden death of Mr. House, who is thought to have been stabbed by John Moss with his brother Will as an accessory.

John Moss, Joe Moss, Will Moss and Charles Winters are now in jail awaiting a preliminary examination before Police Judge Bray on Saturday at 9 o'clock.

The House family has been unfortunate lately, a sister of the dead man having recently married a railroad man named Jones who was killed in an accident last night, the night before, while a brother of deceased lost his life in a collision not long ago in Texas.

The jury, composed of Virgil L. Walker, George A. Wrightman, W. S. Cammings, Charles Affleck, L. Portier and A. G. Mack, after hearing the evidence at the inquest, returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death "by one John Moss or William Moss, caused by a knife wound. We also find one Charles Winters accessory to the crime."

THE INQUEST.

There was a large crowd in front of White's undertaking rooms this morning when a Leader reporter sought admission for the purpose of viewing the remains of Fred House. His lifeless form was handsome even in the cold embrace of his last enemy—death. Upon his upper lip was a handsome coal black mustache and his features indicated that deceased was possessed of more than ordinary intelligence.

The wound which had produced Fred's death had been neatly stitched and there was no sign of blood oozing therefrom. The keen blade of the murderer's knife had penetrated the left breast about three inches below and a little to the right of the nipple, making an aperture one and a quarter inches in length, and being almost directly over the heart, death must have ensued in a very few moments after the knife thrust was made.

That Fred House was deliberately and cruelly murdered appears from abundant evidence given at the coroner's inquest.

Oliver Moss testified that his brother John "has been in the habit of carrying a dirk knife." Walter O'Hanlon's testimony is the most damaging of all witnesses sworn. He says: "I saw John Moss stick a knife in Fred House. John Moss said where is Fred House? I want him, wiped off his knife and stuck it in his pocket. Charles Winters and Fred Moss got into trouble and Fred acted as if he did not want any more of them. It was shown by several witnesses that both John and William Moss had dirk knives in their possession and that they intended to use them is abundantly proven by the evidence adduced.

Fred House was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William House, a highly respected member in a church in Foster, Cal., an graph operator, and had but recently returned to the city from Mexico, where he had been at work.

"tough young man." The inquest continuing, the remains were conveyed to the family residence at 12 o'clock today, and will be conveyed to their final resting place some time tomorrow.

A Father's Qualified Consent to his "Son's" Marriage.

Papers Know.

There were a couple of cases in the love bureau of the county today, in which some of the parties interested in suits of a tender nature presented themselves outside of the courts in such cases made and provided. It will be noticed that Mr. Hyler is very careful in avoiding any endorsement of the nuptials, except in a peculiarly laconic way, calculated to blind any thing less than an eagle, while Mr. Tillman (presumably of him to the South Carolina governor), was anxious that his license to wed Miss Catherine McNimara be suppressed for the present. Mr. Tillman is old enough to know that it is a compliment to any man for his engagement to a good lady to be made public, and that he won so far a bride as a reward for his personal merits.

Walter Hyler, of Pearl, and Miss Appie Hyler, of the same jewel of a town, have procured a license to marry and as Mr. Hyler is not of age, Mr. W. Hyler, presumably Walter's father, writes as follows to Recorder Wilson: "Mr. Clerk this is to certify that I am willing for my son to marry Miss Appie Hyler. Grant him license. It is all right as far as my part goes."

J. H. Tillman, of Rogersville, and Miss Catherine McNimara, of Springfield, have a license.

HISTORICAL
Parker Cox, Grand Army of the Republic, Co. 1, 1st Mo. Inf., 1st Div., 1st Corps, 1st Army, U. S. Army.
Mr. Parker Cox, of the Grand Army of the Republic, Co. 1, 1st Mo. Inf., 1st Div., 1st Corps, 1st Army, U. S. Army, is here for the funeral of his murdered nephew Fred House.
Mr. Cox was born in Indiana, and when Springfield was a struggling village of the western frontier. During these fifty-four years he has witnessed the wonderful developments made in the various departments of agriculture and manufacture and the building of a city of magnificent proportions. At the battle of Wilson Creek Mr. Cox was a volunteer guide to Gen. Lyon and earnestly protested with that general against his movement on the Confederate position. His protests being unavailing Mr. Cox consented to guide General Lyon in his movement on the right while he directed Baker Owen on the left with General Franz Sigel. The result of the battle is known to all readers of history. In its results the wisdom of Mr. Cox's suggestion to Lyon is well established.

In an interview with him this morning Mr. Cox stated to a Leavenworth reporter that two weeks ago Fred House visited his home in Christian county and told him that he had come home to stay, so as to take care of his father and mother in their declining years. Mr. Cox was greatly shocked when he received word of the difficulty which resulted in his nephew's death as he had always regarded him as a peaceable, harmless young man. Mr. Cox is a brother of Mrs. House, the mother of Fred.

CHARLES MOSS' SUDDEN DEATH.

Charles Moss, father of the three young men charged with the murder of Fred House, died suddenly at his home on Tuesday night.

His Three Sons in Jail on a Charge of Murder.—Deceased Was Once Marshal of the City.

At 7 o'clock this morning Charles Moss, father of the three young men now confined in the county jail for the murder of Fred House, on Tuesday night, died suddenly at his home on Jefferson, near St. Louis street. Mr. Moss had been in feeble health for several years, and was a familiar figure on the streets of Springfield. It is thought that the shock resulting from the arrest of his sons hastened his death. He had been an object of charity for some time, and has been aided in various ways by different people. Thomas White of the second ward, is circulating a subscription paper today for the benefit of the Moss family, which is being liberally signed. A request was made of Sheriff Grantham that the three sons who are in jail be allowed to visit their home to see, for the last time, the dead body of their father, whose sudden death they had been instrumental in bringing about. Sheriff Grantham kindly granted the request, placing a strong guard over the prisoners.

A FALLEN FAMILY

The peculiar circumstances surrounding the death of Charles Moss this morning are the legitimate climax of a series of misfortunes, taking the greatest development on Tuesday night when Fred House was stabbed to the heart by sons of deceased, or by one of them, three being now in jail, John Joe and Will, awaiting a preliminary examination.

The difficulty which culminated in

The difficulty which culminated in the tragedy has been set forth already in these columns. At a dance on Grant street the Moss boys became involved in a row, and a fight was started while some of the friends were getting home young House was killed by a knife thrust.

John Moss who is supposed to have done the cutting, was arrested by the sheriff the morning following the murder by the father and it was noticed by Sheriff Grantham that the unfortunate sire of wife and ungrateful son was in a very precarious state of health. It was even suggested then that he might be better he get back home.

Charles Moss, the father, died at 37 south Jefferson street. At the time of his death he was 52 years of age, and for some time past has been suffering from lung trouble and a complication of other ailments.

This morning when he was asked he had a coughing spell and he was asked if he needed anything, but his reply was that he was all right. Half an hour later he was discovered to be in a serious condition and although doctors were at once summoned medical aid was unavailing and the patient passed away.

The family is in poor circumstances and the sons are now where they cannot, if they would, render aid to their mother and sisters.

SOMETHING ABOUT HIM

Charles Moss was born in Walnut Grove 53 years ago, leaving two months, and his father, Joseph Moss, was a substantial citizen of Greene county and resided for some years on College street where the board of trade building now stands.

In 1865 Charles Moss was marshal of Springfield. He was a tinner by trade, but for several years past has not been able to make a comfortable living. He was a soldier in the Union army, but was not a member of the G. A. R., and it is probable that his remains will be laid to rest in the National cemetery. His wife has a lot in Hazelwood, however, and in case there should be any question raised as to the propriety of depositing his body among the Federal veterans he still has a place reserved for him.

When the funeral will occur has not yet been announced, but the fact that the death followed so close upon the commission of a bloody and fatal deed by at least one of the sons of the man, the probability is that three alleged murderers will be in the funeral procession.

Moss, of south Jefferson street, father of Will, John and Joe Moss, the three young men in jail charged with the murder of Fred House last Monday, died suddenly at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. At 5 o'clock he was attacked by severe coughing and physicians were sent for. Before they arrived, however, Mr. Moss expired. He has been in failing health for several years, but his misfortunes must have hastened his death. Mr. Moss had not been able to work at his trade as a tinner for a long time, and consequently his family is in a destitute condition. Yesterday a subscription was taken up by Thomas White for the benefit of the family.

Coroner Deimer viewed the remains and decided that there was no reason for an inquest. The immediate cause of the death was organic heart trouble. He had also suffered from la grippe.

The three Moss boys were taken once from the jail yesterday to see their dead father. They were heavily guarded.

Mr. Moss was born near Walnut Grove about fifty-two years ago and lived in Greene county until death. He was a lieutenant in the Union army but had never joined the Grand Army. That organization, however, may take some action in regard to the death. The funeral will probably take place this afternoon and the body placed in the National cemetery.

JOHN MOSS DENIES.

John Moss denies that he admitted that he had killed Fred House. Harrington A. Pepperdine represent the Moss boys and have held several conferences with them. Col. S. H. E. has been retained by Chas. Winters.

Yesterday Mrs. House, her daughters and son, all dressed in deep mourning, went to the Maple park cemetery and remained for a long time at the grave of Fred House. They attracted much attention as they passed through the streets and were universally pitied.

They Will Attend the Funeral Under Guard—Insisting That the Corps Be Kept.

About 7 o'clock yesterday morning Charles C. Moss, the well-known tin-ner, died rather suddenly at his home on Jefferson street, between St. Louis and Walnut. He is the father of John and Joe, who are in the city on preliminary examination on charge of murdering Fred Homan. About 8 o'clock Mr. Moss, who has been suffering from the grip, had a choking spell and his wife went to his bedside and did everything to relieve his suffering. Shortly before 9 o'clock she sent for a physician, but before he arrived Mr. Moss had ceased to breathe.

Coroner Diemer was notified and, after an investigation, decided that the cause of death was organic heart trouble, superinduced by the grip. He did not deem an inquest necessary.

Sheriff Grantham has consented to let the boys out of jail to attend the funeral this afternoon, with the understanding that they be well guarded.

Deceased is an ex-federal soldier but did not belong to the G. A. R. The remains will probably be laid to rest in the National cemetery.

The family is left in destitute circumstances. Yesterday some kind-hearted citizens raised a purse for the widow.

Many years ago a brother of Mr. Moss, George Benton, who attended school in the building on corner of College and Main streets, formerly occupied by Ely Paxson, went to Mr. McCluer's well across the street to get a drink of water. The lad's hat fell into the well and George climbed down after it. While down at the bottom the well caved in and he was killed.

Charles Moss was marshal of Springfield in 1893, and those days were very exciting. As it was just at the close of the war, Springfield was infested with many desperate men and murders were frequent. On the 25th of January James Coleman, a young man residing near the James river, was shot and killed on South street by a policeman named John Orr. Coleman accompanied by his brother, Samuel, and a man Bingham, rode into town that day and got on a spree. Bingham began whooping and yelling, when a policeman arrested him. Sam Coleman followed and seemed to be trying to effect Bingham's release. James Coleman, who had been left with the horse, came up, a scuffle ensued and he was killed by Orr, who made his escape and has never been heard from to this day. J. B. Haddock better known as "Wild Bill," the notorious Federal scout, was an eye-witness of the bloody affair and testified at the coroner's inquest. Charles Moss the marshal, was indicted but the grand jury acquitted him. There was much ill feeling on the part of the country people over the murder of Coleman and the next day a large body of mounted men came to town with the intention of wreaking vengeance on the police. The trouble was finally adjusted by the authorities discharging the police force. Orr was a desperate man and it is said that on one occasion he made "Wild Bill" "take water" and put up with a gross insult.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard's Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary.

Over Three Hundred People Pay Them Their Respects—Many Costly Presents Given.

Yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sheppard and about 300 of the leading citizens of Springfield paid them their respects and renewed their friendship.

Mrs. Sheppard and her charming daughter, Miss Fannie, received the young people in the afternoon, and there was a constant stream of carriages going to and from the elegant Sheppard residence on east Walnut street.

In the evening the older friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard gathered at their home and extended hearty congratulations on their twenty-five years of married bliss and wished their health and prosperity for the future.

The entire building was thrown open and lighted extensively, making a beautiful scene from the outside and especially on a night like last night in which nature herself seemed to do honor to the Sheppards.

Nearly the whole house, which was almost one solid room, being thrown thrown together by folding doors, was graciously decorated with fragrant roses, lilies and flowers of all kinds. The flowers were sent by their friends who seemed to be managing the anniversary more than the Sheppards. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Telford sent in a floral design which received many favorable comments. Another was a large floral horseshoe from Mr. and Mrs. David M. Noe. Lilies of the valley were more extensively used than any other flower.

One notable feature was the presence of many aged friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard. Many were there who scarcely ever go to a social function.

The refreshments were the choicest and daintiest which could be procured and were of course highly enjoyed. Music of a high order of excellence was furnished by Day's mandolin club.

It took nearly a whole room on the second floor to hold all the presents received. A large portion of them were sent by Mrs. Sheppard's brothers and sisters, who reside in New England. A fine silver clock was given by the ladies of the First Baptist church to Mrs. Sheppard.

Three of the guests last night, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Sheppard, of this city, and Miss R. N. Sheppard, of New Jersey, were present at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sheppard at Tewksbury, Mass., twenty-five years ago. Mr. Will Sheppard, the only son, is attending Harvard university and could not attend.

W. D. Sheppard is one of the leading financiers of the city, and is always among the leaders for progress, for improvement or for charity. Mrs. Sheppard is counted among the ladies of the city who are constantly doing acts of kindness and helping others. She is a leader in society and counts her friends by the score.

SILVER WEDDING.

At the Home of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Sheppard.

An Elegant Reception of Over Three Hundred Invited Guests.

Yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sheppard and the occasion was taken for a most elegant reception of their many friends in this city. During the afternoon Mrs. and Miss Sheppard were at home to their lady friends, and in the evening Mr. Sheppard gave his associates to the entertainment of the company, which had been augmented by the arrival of the gallantry of the city. Altogether there were present over three hundred invited guests.

Twenty-five years ago the young bride and groom came to this city from their former home at Tewksbury, Mass. Their life since then had been prosperous and happy. Fortune has favored them and they are now blessed with one of the pleasantest and most elegant homes in the city. The decorations for the occasion were elegant. Every mantle, chandelier and table presented tastefully arranged displays of potted plants, cut flowers and trailing vines. These were contributed for the occasion by friends and neighbors. In the front parlor was an elaborate home show made of plinks and linens, embracing a cluster of white roses, presented by Mr. and Mrs. New, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Peck and Dr. Telf.

Upon a table in one of the chambers was displayed a magnificent array of presents consisting of cut glass, silver dishes, and vases of such variety that it would be impossible to particularize fully. In the center of the table was an elegant clock, the gift of the ladies of the First Baptist church to Mrs. Sheppard. The lady's brothers and sisters of New England remembered her with a large number of choice

There were present yesterday about twenty-five who welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard to Springfield as many years ago. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Sheppard and Miss R. W. Sheppard who were present at the wedding in Tewksbury.

The school of the Sheppard name was a very interesting illustration of the family.

The name of the family was with much of the family. They were feasted with a sumptuous and elegant luncheon, and other refreshments, and after the departure of the heartiest well-wishers to their homes and families, the happy couple entered a period of twenty-five years upon their wedded life.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Deaths of Mrs. Joe Hoover and Mrs. Mattie C. Harris—Other Deaths.

News was received yesterday of the death of Mrs. Joe Hoover, who died at her home five miles southeast of the city. Deceased was seventy-two years of age, and an estimable lady, related to the Langbecks.

D. P. McCarthy died Monday evening at his home, five miles north of the city, age about 65 years, leaving a widow and two sons. He was a member of the T. A. Reed Post O. A. R., of Edenmont. His remains were interred in Mt. Comfort cemetery.

Mrs. Mattie C. Harris, wife of J. A. Harris, formerly a well known book binder of this city, died on the 12th inst. at her home in San Diego, Cal., after an illness of only two days of an affection of the heart. She was a sister-in-law of Capt. S. H. Epley and a cousin of Capt. James R. Milner.

John W. Walker, an old settler well known in both Greene and Christian counties, died of paralysis a few days ago at his home seven and one-half miles south of Sparta. He was buried with Masonic honors at Linden. He was a veteran of the Mexican war and a brother-in-law of Hon. John Hornebeck, of Sparta.

COME TO REST.

Capt. J. B. Homan, an Old Time River Man, Died at St. Louis.

Capt. James B. Homan, aged 40, died at his home 221 First street, St. Louis, of complications of dropsy, asthma and other complications, after an illness of a couple of months.

Capt. Homan is a brother of James Homan who lives a few miles southwest of Springfield, and father of Mrs. J. W. Mitchem of this city, and is widely known in this state, and in every river port from St. Louis to New Orleans, he having been a steam boat captain and river pilot on the Mississippi river, from his boyhood, over forty years, and at the time of his death was president of the Ohio and Mississippi River Pilots Association. Under the auspices of which association a grand funeral will be held at St. Louis, for many years his home, and where members of his family now rest. He is of a large family and several of his brothers survive him. He is the father of twelve children, ten of whom survive him, the six younger being still at home. The four oldest being daughters, are Mrs. Percy Smith, of Seattle, Wash., Mrs. J. F. Mitchem, of Springfield, Mo., Mrs. Dr. E. W. Hines, of St. Louis, and Miss Daisy Homan who is with Mrs. Smith. Her eldest sister is Seattle, Wash.

Capt. Homan was a loyal friend, kind husband and most indulgent and devoted father. He was a man of extraordinary ability being highly conversant with all topics of the day, and kept himself well posted reading and studying a great deal, and was known as one of the half dozen A 1 river men on the Mississippi river. He ran the Anchor Line steamer "City of New Orleans" from her first trip until about one year ago, when he began failing in health, and since that time he has been in the government inspection boat most of the time. His last trip being to New Orleans on the government steamer, Mississippi.

and for the last sixty days he has been able to leave his room, and enjoyed a great deal up to the time of his death. He was a member of the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows, and was known by the public as a member of the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows, and was known by the public as a member of the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows.

During his long experience and was known on the water, made them very interesting to his friends, to whom he would talk only.

Should space permit, a great many good and interesting things could be said of this venerable commander, who lived a life of great usefulness, and whose liberality in providing beautifully for his large family, only prevented him from accumulating wealth and property. He prided himself upon his sense of judgment, and his decision since he has been chosen president of the Pilots Association have elicited much praise from his brothers in the association. He was in the association was more admired and esteemed than he, and he has been kept upon the board of directors in the association for years.

He was one of the oldest and best known steamboat men on the Mississippi river, and no one will be more missed from the work of the association, or the wheel, or hurricane deck, than will the subject of this sketch.

Linked For Life.

W. D. Harkins, age 24, and Miss M. D. Highfill, both of Bolivar, were united in marriage in Recorder Willows office yesterday morning. The knot was tied by Judge Fath and the happy couple went their way rejoicing.

J. W. Kennedy and Miss Sarah Dulin, of this city, were married in the recorder's office yesterday afternoon by Justice Fath, and though the groom was small in stature yet he was so agile and had such high heels on his new boots that the judge made an attempt to steal a kiss from the bride.

T. A. Elm, of this city, and Miss Lena L. DeFriesse, of Marshfield, entered the matrimonial altar yesterday. The groom is a promising young man, and the bride is so accomplished and fair to look upon that any one might be pained to wish her.

just achieved his fortieth birthday and is therefore in the very prime and full vigor of manhood

Early in life Mr. Bigbee was thrown upon his own resources, but in no wise deterred from his studies. He battled with fate and was enabled to attend the State University and afterwards to finish his education in St. Louis, working during the day and going to school at night.

After a severe and painful illness with the fever and ague, occupying a position as clerk in a mercantile house, Mr. Bigbee began business on his own account in 1877 and soon had a trade involving the exchange of $100,000 per annum.

Owing to a too close devotion to duty his health became impaired and Mr. Bigbee spent some time in Colorado and California, and upon his return he went into the banking business, in 1887, organizing the Commercial Bank, an institution which was in no way affected by the late financial gale which wrecked so many enterprises all over the country.

The Democratic nominee for Mayor has been a member of the city council from a Republican ward for four years, and his majority has always been up in the century work. He was president of the council for three years and refused re-election to that body in order to be disencumbered in his race for the municipal executive chair.

Mr. Bigbee introduced in the council the communication from the Central Labor Union of this city, reducing the number of working hours from ten to eight, and having at least the effect of reducing the city.

Personally Mr. Bigbee is without fear and without reproach. He is everybody's candidate because he is the good friend of all. He is an instance and illustration of the idea that "nature broke his mold after his making." If there is any good deed to found leading the procession, and when he occupies the executive chair of the city, he will be the first to lead the procession to the South.

only to discharge the responsible position to the honor and advantage of the city. He will be the big red apple of the city, the apple of punishment and reprobation, but to occupy the chief chair of the nation. He will be the chief of the nation. He will be the chief of the nation. He will be the chief of the nation.

The Democratic Nominee For City Collector, and the Winner.

Among the political figures of Springfield none has made a better record than Lewis F. Pipkin, the nominee of the Democratic convention to succeed him self in the office of city collector.

Mr. Pipkin was born September 15, 1863, so that he is now 31 years of age. His education was obtained from the public schools, and afterwards he was a clerk in the mercantile business until 1879 when he became associated with the wholesale and retail house of Dolling & Pipkin.

In 1888 Mr. Pipkin bought the stationery store which he has for the past nine years conducted with success.

Mr. Pipkin's election to the position of collector was nothing but a proper compliment to and acknowledgment of merit, and the fidelity with which he has discharged the duties of his office is a guarantee of what he will do in the future.

Mr. Pipkin has the faculty of making friends and, having made them to keep them. This is due to the uniform courtesy which graces his official acts and it is on account of that trait of character as well as his unimpeachable integrity that his re-election may be considered assured. He is known by every citizen of Springfield who has dealings with the city and all along the line he has friends, cordially among the Democrats, and thickly sprinkled among the Republicans and Populists.

To say that Mr. Pipkin is handsome is unnecessary and to say that he is an honest, hard worker is superfluous. He has arranged his private affairs so that he can devote his entire attention to the discharge of his official duties, a fact which is not to be lightly considered in choosing an incumbent for a city position.

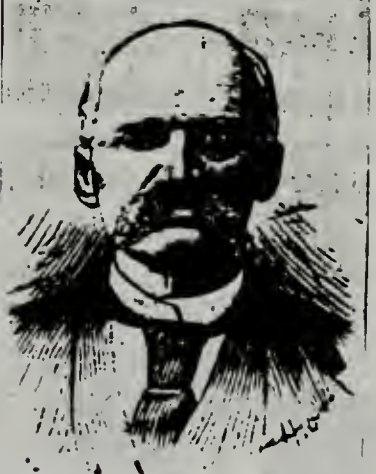

his father and family moved to Pike county Missouri and resided near Greenfield until the fall of 1882, when the family moved to Illinois and settled in Macoupin county where the father died November, 1884. Our candidate was the eldest of five children and devoted every moment of his life to the support of his widowed mother and brothers and sisters. As a natural result, his early education was limited to a few months attendance at district school, and he was to be the head of the family at the death of his mother in September, 1884.

In April, 1881, he entered the Federal army as a private, advanced to the rank of captain in 1883 and was transferred out as such in 1888. He was awarded a medal by congress for the capture of the headquarters flag of Gen. F. M. Cockrell, of the C. K. A.

At the close of the war returned to his home and to civil life, was married in 1886 and after was elected to the Democratic ticket as a member of the board of county commissioners and was chairman of the finance committee of that board ten consecutive years and one year the president of the board. While a member of that board the county was in litigation over a bonded debt that amounted to near $100,000, the collection of which he most stubbornly resisted until a compromise was effected which resulted in saving of over $20,000 to his county.

When this matter was fully and finally settled he refused to serve longer on that board and remained a private citizen except as engaged in business for four years. He has always been a stalwart Democrat.

The Public and Private Character of

is now living in the city of Springfield. His father was a farmer and the son followed in the footsteps of the sire until his fourteenth year when he stepped from between the pine handles behind the plow.

After the death of his father, the young man came to Springfield and in 1893 attended the Southwestern Business College. He then worked in the motive power department at the shops of the St. L. & S. F. R. R. in this city for four and a half years but feeling that a professional life would be more congenial to his tastes studied law in the office of A. J. Bowden, and upon the death of his brother W. K. Bowden, took the place in the firm made vacant by the death. The firm of which he is a member is one of the strongest legal concerns in the southwest and is considered one of the most important ones before the courts.

Mr. Bowden though always taking an active and prominent part in public life has never before asked the honor to give him an office. He has been a member of the city committee and was a delegate to the Massillon convention which nominated Judge Lind, of the court of appeals.

Two years ago Mr. Bowden was united in marriage to Miss Mattie Foote, a highly accomplished and lovely young lady, formerly of Springfield but at the time of the nuptials a resident of Kansas City. This happy union has been blessed by a little visitor who, like her father, has "come to stay."

Mr. Bowden lives at No. 441 east Elm street, in the first ward, and he has many friends not only in that portion of the city but in all the other wards, who if they are called upon in political faith, will vote for him on account of his sterling qualities as a man and a lawyer.

The Public and Private Character of

T. J. Wright, Democrat for city council, is a man of police who has been in the city for many years.

Mr. Wright, September 1, 1881, that he is at present 25 years of age.

Chief Wright, in his earlier days, was a fast plowboy but at the age of 17 he branched out to make his own way. He met disappointment after disappointment in his effort to greater exertion and he never met an obstacle in his path which he did not successfully overthrow, a fact illustrated by his continuously progressive career.

In 1897 young Wright went into the milling business but remained so occupied but two years, when he went to Stanbery, Mo., where he became apprentice to the plasterer's trade. After acquiring sufficient skill in this line Mr. Wright went to Kansas, but found that grasshopper-ridden part of the moral vineyard not suited to his genius and he returned to Missouri, casting his anchor to windward in Springfield in 1901 where he followed his trade for some time being a successful contractor until six years ago when he was appointed as a member of the police force by Mayor Ralph Walker. Serving two years under that administration he was reappointed by Mayor Haren, and was promoted to the position of chief of police, a position he has filled with ability and fidelity.

Chief Wright is a prominent K. P. and Odd Fellow, and has served for the past four years as representative of this district in the Grand Lodge of the state for the Odd Fellows society.

The Democrats fell upon a great man in choosing Chief Wright to succeed their former chief.

land he returned to America in 1893.

Mr. Nagler affiliated with the Republican party until 1888 when he became a Democrat and supported R.
Grover Cleveland in his campaign for governor.

He is now an uncompromising Democrat, true to his convictions and active in support of the principles of his party.

Though he is sincere and positive in all his opinions and bold and fearless in the expression of his views, still, like all broad and liberal minded men, he realizes that every man has a right to think as he pleases and consequently he never renders himself obnoxious by showing disrespect to the opinions of his fellow men.

The nomination of Mr. Nagler by the recent convention was not only a compliment to a deserving citizen but a recognition of all our German citizens of which he is a worthy representative.

Mr. Nagler is a man of sterling integrity, generous, a faultless liberal in thought and action. He is the alike. If merit receives its proper recognition he is a true and noble citizen.

Miss Lida Newberry Succumbs to the Ravages of Consumption

On Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock Miss Lida Newberry, daughter of G. C. Newberry, died at her home, No. 490 east Elm street, after a protracted illness. A year ago Miss Newberry was attacked by la grippe, and this strange disorder which has claimed so many victims, developed into consumption every care that love and science could lavish upon her proved ineffectual and she gradually slipped away from temporal things into the mystery of eternity.

Miss Lida Newberry was a charming young woman, 19 years of age and the center of a large circle of friends who saw her blossoming into beautiful womanhood, the future opening up with a cloudless and beautiful sky before her, but in a moment the heavens were overcast and so the fair young life went out in darkness.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the First Baptist church, a large concourse of mourners being following the casket to the place of interment.

The petition avers that she has faithfully demeaned herself as a wife and mother, but that the defendant has been guilty of adultery and other offenses, and that she is unable to cohabit with him.

Defendant is charged with having struck his wife with clenched hands and called her vile names. The wife states that in December 1893 he threatened her life and that the protection of officers was necessary. Plaintiff also prays for the custody of her two children, aged 4 and 2.

JUMPED INTO A WELL
Miss Kate Kepley Took Her Own Life.
No Cause for the Act Can Be Learned.
A Young Woman of High Moral Character--Investigation by the Coroner.
 Miss Kate Kepley, a beautiful and accomplished unmarried young woman, whose home was a short distance north of Strafford, committed suicide some time Saturday night by jumping into a well.
 Miss Kepley was a woman of high moral character, well liked by all of her acquaintances, and no cause has been discovered why she should become weary of life.

Miss Kepley resided with the family of her brother-in-law, J. B. Cummings, and had no relatives except a sister. She has been slightly ill for several weeks, but in addition, the family physician, thought her ailment was not serious.

Sunday morning when the family arose and prepared breakfast Miss Kepley was found to be missing from her room, and a search was instituted for her. A pair of shoes and stockings were found beside the well near the house. This led to the belief that the young woman had taken her life by jumping into the well, and it took but a few moments to prove that such was the case. Her lifeless body was at once taken out and word was sent to this city.

Dr. F. W. Deimer, the county coroner, was notified and went to the home of the deceased. A jury was empaneled and an inquest held. The coroner failed to find any reason for the suicide. So far as could be learned the girl has not been keeping company with any young man, and no family troubles were brought to light.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

The funeral services of Fred Hanna, who died Sunday morning, were held at the residence of his father, Mr. Hanna, at 10 o'clock. A large number of friends were present. The remains were taken to Maple Park cemetery by the side of his father and sister.

Deceased was a graduate of the public schools of this city and had for several years before his death been an employe of C. D. Miller, a wholesale grocer. He made a good reputation for himself and was well known to all who knew him. He was a victim of that seemingly uncurable foe of man—consumption.

DR. JOHN W. WEIR.

His Death This Morning a Most Unexpected Event.

This morning at 6 o'clock Dr. John W. Weir died at his home No. 1207 Washington avenue in the presence of his family, just as he was achieving three-score and ten years.

At the last convention of the Medical society here, Dr. Weir's condition was discussed and an operation was decided upon. The doctor was suffering from an obstruction of the bowels, and it was determined that unless the trouble was relieved he would die.

Several distinguished surgeons participated in the operation and it was discovered that one of the intestines had been bound to the spinal column by a muscular band, thereby suspending its functions. The patient was removed and it was hoped that the patient would recover, especially as he rallied and was much improved after the shock of the ordeal was supposed to be overpast.

The doctor, however, has been formerly weak for a long time and his death was looked upon as impending day by day. Yesterday afternoon it was evident that the end was approaching and this morning he passed away with the first gray and golden pencils that stole through the gates of dawn just ajar in the east.

Dr. Weir was a man whom all his acquaintances admired and his death is mourned by a circle of friends who reaches all over the country. At this writing arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

BIOGRAPHICAL

John W. Weir was born near Mobile, Alabama on January 9, 1824, and was educated in the college of the south, choosing to early and to devote himself to medicine as his life profession. He was a typical southern gentleman, of whole and generous impulses and during his life and successful career as a physician was never at a loss for warm friends.

At the outbreak of the civil war, Dr. Weir entered the Confederate army and served until peace was restored when he returned to his home, but remained only a short time on account of the unsettled condition of public affairs during the "reconstruction" period.

From his southern home Dr. Weir removed his family soon after the war to the bleak prairies of Kansas, where he followed his chosen profession until September, 1883, at which time he located in Springfield and has enjoyed a lucrative practice during his residence here.

He leaves a widow, two sons and two married daughters, one of whom resides in Aurora, Mo., the other in St. Joseph, all of whom were at his bedside at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be held at St. John's Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. Dr. M. M. Moore, Saturday afternoon. Place of interment will be announced later.

THEIR LIVES ENDED.

Death of J. G. Willeke and Dr.
J. W. Weir.

Both Were Prominent Citizens
And Universally Respected.

Heart Disease Carried Mr. Willeke Away—Dr. Weir Never Recovered From An Operation.

After an illness of eight weeks Joseph Willeke died quietly at his home on west Walnut street last night at 10:30. For a long time Mr. Willeke has been suffering from heart disease and death had been expected for several days.

Mr. Willeke was one of the leading jewelers of this section and was well known throughout the state. He was born in Germany forty-seven years ago, but came to this country when very young. He first located in Cincinnati, but moved to Liberty, Mo., just before the war. He served in the confederate army. Twenty-seven years ago he came to Springfield and opened a small jewelry house, but by industry and frugality he built up an establishment of much importance in the business world.

Mr. Willeke leaves a wife and three children. No arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it will probably be conducted by the Masons.

DR. WEIR IS DEAD.

Ends a Continuous Illness Since Last October.

Early yesterday morning Dr. John W. Weir died at his residence on Washington avenue after an illness dating back to the first part of October. Dr. Weir's intestines became bound to the spinal column by a muscular band and it was necessary to perform a difficult surgical operation. A number of eminent physicians were called.

Dr. Weir never regained strength after his illness and for a month it has been known that he could not recover.

Dr. Weir was born near Mobile in 1838 and was educated in Alabama. He was one of the first to espouse the cause of the South during the rebellion and remained in the service to the close. He left Alabama and located in Columbus, Kan., and in 1883 came with B. F. Hobart to this city where he had since resided.

He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. M. M. Moore and he will probably be buried in the Confederate cemetery.

Richard A. Ringo, salesman in a Kansas City dry goods house, fell dead in the store Wednesday morning, of heart disease. He was well known at Parkville, where he was engaged in business during and after the war.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ben Fay was conducted from the family residence, on Commercial street, yesterday afternoon by Rev. M. M. Moore, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, and was largely attended by sympathizing friends and neighbors. The interment was in Maple Park cemetery.

The marriage of Mr. Arthur W. Taylor and Miss Hester S. Robberson was solemnized last night by Rev. T. H. Cleland, at the home of the bride's mother, on East Walnut street.

The ceremony was witnessed by only a few members of the family and intimate associate of the bride and groom, owing to the recent death of the bride's father. The happy couple took the Frisco train eastward and will spend the honeymoon at Louisville and other Kentucky cities with the relatives of Mr. Taylor.

The bride is a daughter of the late Dr. Robberson and is not only one of the prettiest girls in Springfield society circles but possesses rare intelligence and numerous accomplishments. Mr. Taylor is connected with the wholesale grocery house of G. D. Milligan & Son and is one of their most valued attaches. He is closely related to the historic Taylor family of Kentucky, and has hosts of friends both here and in his native state.

FOR ASSESSOR.

A Short Biographical Sketch of J. H. Moore.

Capt. J. H. Moore, republican nominee for city assessor, was born in Giles county, Tenn., August 2, 1838, and died soon, he 45 years old. In November, 1860, his father removed to Webster county, Mo., then known as Pulaski county. After a residence of three years he came to Greene county, locating on a farm east of Springfield. Three years later he went to Boone county, where Capt. Moore served as county judge. At 22 years of age he commenced to learn the carpenter's trade in Arkansas, where he worked, until the fall of 1863. Then he went to Camville, Barry county, and engaged in the dry goods business. In 1865 the captain was elected sheriff of Barry county and re-elected in 1867, dying while in office when he was elected treasurer of the county. At the expiration of his term he removed to Verona, Lawrence county, and took charge of a hotel. He came to North Springfield in 1874 and has since resided with its growth ever since, having been mayor before the two cities consolidated. His military record is an honored one. During the war he was a lieutenant in the Stone county home guards and in 1862 was enrolled in company K, 73d regiment E. M. M., and served as captain about a year. Afterwards he was detailed as captain of a company in the 150th Missouri regiment and served until November, 1865. He has also served in the Fifteenth Missouri cavalry. On September 25, 1882, he was married to Miss Hester S. Robberson of Stone county. His home is in the Temple of Honor, a trustworthy, upright citizen and has the good will of all classes here.

GONE TO REST.

Mr. Joseph G. Willike died at his residence last night.

It is with deep regret that THE LEADER announces the death of Mr. J. G. Willike, the veteran jeweler. The sad event occurred at his late home, on West Walnut street, at 9:30 o'clock last night. Mr. Willike had been afflicted with the grip twice within a year, which left him in an enfeebled condition, and he had been confined at home for several weeks. The best medical skill was enlisted, but failed to give him more than temporary relief, and he passed away in the presence of his family and a number of intimate friends. Mr. Willike was born in Germany forty-seven years ago. After residing at Liberty, Mo., for four or five years he came to Springfield twenty-seven years ago and has been a prominent citizen ever since. He was of a retiring disposition and had many warm friends. About six years ago he was nominated on the democratic ticket for councilman from the Harbord ward and elected. A brother in Cincinnati has been notified by telegraph, and no funeral arrangements will be completed until his arrival, but the remains will probably be laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery, west of the city.

DEATH OF DR. WEIR.

A Good Citizen Goes - Brief Sketch of His Life.

Dr. John W. Weir, after a protracted illness, died yesterday morning from the effects of an internal disease which required resort to a surgical operation six months ago. The doctor improved for a short time after wards and it was supposed he would finally recover, but this condition did not last long and he gradually grew weaker until the end came yesterday.

John W. Weir was born at Mobile, Ala., January 6, 1838, was educated in the south, entered the Confederate army and served until the war closed, when he returned to his home. Owing to the unsettled condition of public affairs he determined to remove to Kansas. That state did not satisfy him and he located in Springfield in the fall of 1863, and he has always been regarded as a most estimable citizen. Deceased was a member of the county medical society, belonged to St. John's Commandery, Knights Templar and leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters.

The funeral services will be conducted at St. John's Episcopal church by Rector M. M. Moore. It is probable that the remains will be laid to rest in the Confederate cemetery.

Miss Tina Rogers, 30, died Friday at Fair Grove and was buried there.

The wedding of Miss Helen Robertson and Mr. A. W. Taylor, on Tuesday of last week was quite an event in society, as the bride alone has, several years ago, had been one of the most popular of Springfield's many well-known society girls. The wedding was an extremely quiet and simple affair, yet elegant in every detail. The bride and groom were unattended, save by little Miss Mary Don, who preceded them bearing the wedding ring on a small silver tray. The Rev. T. H. Cleland met the party at the bay window in the drawing-room, and as the strains of the wedding march, from the skillful fingers of Miss Shipp, died away, a short instruction followed by the ceremony pronounced them man and wife. The bride in her dress of white silk tulle, with sleeves and trimmings of satin, with white gloves, shoes and ruche and the groom in full evening dress presented a charming picture against the black ground of Easter lilies, palms and ferns and the same strain of music that was effectively carried out in the reception room as well as the dining room. Miss Mary Don looked very sweet in her blue silk with white dress and shoes and those of our congratulations were followed by an elegant wedding feast, which was concluded in time for the happy party to catch the first train for St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, after a short visit with relatives in St. Louis, will be at home at Mrs. Br. Smith's, on College street. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Muligan, J. T. Kent, Dick Johnson, Lee Howard, Walter Robertson, Mrs. Shipp, Misses Shipp, Gustott, Clara, White, Cleland, and Messrs. Cleland, Clark, Shipp, Todd and Mr. S. Jones of Hartwig.

HAD BEEN DRINKING HEAVILY.

Reasons as to Domestic Intelicity—Relative in Polk County notified of the Tragedy.

Sanford B. Affleck, 37 years of age and owning a comfortable home at 1411 North Grand street, in another victim of strong drink and an unfaithful wife. Affleck had been a moral wreck for several years and had at last put an end to his earthly misery by taking his own life.

For three days prior to Saturday night last, he had been on a drunken spree. On that evening he went home and went to bed without eating any supper, and on getting up yesterday morning asked his wife to forgive him, which she agreed to do. He then said that if he had a revolver he would blow his brains out and asked his wife if there was any carbolic acid in the house and she told him there was not.

About 9 a. m. Affleck started to go up on Commercial street and his wife handed him twenty-five cents and told him to bring her some bananas. He got the bananas, ten cents worth of steak and bought a bottle of carbolic acid from Dr. N. P. Van Zandt at the drug store. He then went to the bank, saying that he had a letter to write, and returned at 11 a. m. It was about 11 a. m. when he arrived at his home and handed the steak and bananas to his wife, walked out on the back porch, and, smiling, shot himself in the chest with a revolver. He then fell back to his knees and was lying on the floor, smiling, when his wife entered the room.

Mrs. Affleck screamed in a loud voice which brought the neighbors. When the immediate neighbors, and those who knew him, saw the body of Affleck just found her husband in a dying condition he had taken off one shoe and asked her to take off the other, and when she did so he immediately expired, not more than ten minutes after the moment the deadly shot was taken until dissolution came.

Dr. J. Delmer, the coroner, was called and soon afterwards commenced an investigation, developing a number of facts and a verdict rendered accordingly.

THREE TIMES BEFORE

This is the fourth and successful effort at self destruction by Sanford B. Affleck, the third being at Marshfield some time last fall, by the morphine route.

HIS LIFE.

Sanford B. Affleck belonged to a highly respected family. He was born and raised at Belleville, Ill., and moved with his father's family to Bolivar, Missouri, in 1871, where his father and the three sons engaged in the milling business. Sanford finally drifted to Kansas and a few years ago married in Independence in that state, all the time working at his trade, that of a miller, when not on a spree. Two years ago he came to Springfield with his wife and was employed at the Sprague mills on Commercial street whenever sober enough to work.

As stated in the outset Affleck had been a moral wreck for several years. About 1887 he was arraigned in the Polk county circuit court for forgery and after passing through two jury trials barely escaped a sentence to the penitentiary, the last jury giving him the benefit of a doubt and rendering a verdict of acquittal. He was charged with forgery in the name of the Republic National Bank, and was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year. He was released on bond and the money was paid by John P. Campbell.

From that time on, his downward course was rapid. He was arrested by the police for vagrancy and sentenced to the workhouse for a few days. He was released and, by the unfaithfulness of the woman who should have been his principal stay, and tried to help him turn his back upon life's evil ways. It is a sad and terrible thing that there are no children left fatherless by

THE UNFORTUNATE FAMILY.

Both parents of the unfortunate suicide, and two brothers residing at Bolivar, are people of the highest responsibility. His father R. G. Affleck has retired from active life on account of age. His oldest brother F. A. Affleck is circuit clerk of Polk county at the present time, and is a prominent member of the Masonic order. Harry Affleck, the younger brother, is a prominent merchant at Bolivar.

THE FAMILY NOTIFIED.

The family at Bolivar were notified by wire of the death of Mr. Affleck and F. A. Affleck, circuit clerk of Polk county, and his mother arrived on the afternoon train, yesterday.

Undertaker J. M. White was called in and embalmed the body of the deceased and it will be taken to Bolivar tomorrow morning for interment.

Some of the family of Mrs. Sanford Affleck are expected to arrive from Independence tonight as they have been notified by telegraph.

James W. Boren, a Veteran Printer Passes Away.

Yesterday morning, soon after breakfast James W. Boren died of heart disease at his home No. 713 N. Jefferson street.

Mr. Boren was one of the veteran printers of the city. He learned his trade in Knoxville, Tenn., and coming to this place, became interested in the Springfield Journal. At the battle of Springfield, fought January 8, 1862, he left the case for the conflict and was slightly wounded in the head. In the same battle Major Graves, who was also on the Journal, received a mortal wound.

Mr. Boren worked on THE LEADER for fifteen years and was employed on various other city papers.

He was an honorary member of Springfield Typographical Union No. 124, and though 74 years of age, until quite recently, was able to work.

The funeral took place this afternoon, the remains being deposited in Maple Park cemetery.

J. W. BOREN DEAD.

Sudden Removal of the Old-time Printer in Southwest Missouri.

Last Sunday morning about 8 o'clock James W. Boren ate breakfast at his home, 713 North Jefferson street, and a few moments afterwards was a corpse, having died of heart trouble. Deceased was a native of Tennessee and learned the printing business in Knoxville, Tenn., many years ago. He was well acquainted with Parson Brownlow, the famous journalist, and came to Springfield prior to 1844. He worked on numerous papers in Springfield, among the earliest being the Texas Democrat. Later he started the Mirror and in 1863 he was connected with the Journal. Since that time he has worked on nearly every paper published in Springfield. A few years ago he and Mat Sims published the Republican at Ozark. After retiring from that paper he led a quiet life and remained at home most of the time. Deceased was about 70 years of age, a staunch republican and an estimable citizen. During the war he participated in the battle of Springfield January 9, 1863, when the late Governor John S. Marmaduke and General Joe Shelby, now United States marshal, were repulsed and driven out of the country. Mr. Boren was a corporal in company D, 7th E. M. M., Lieutenant George S. Patterson commanding, and was slightly wounded on the head. He was employed on the Springfield Journal at the time and there were four printers who quit their cases and went on to the battle field. Major Chauncey Graves of the same paper, was mortally wounded. Mr. Boren was an honorary member of Springfield Typographical Union No. 124. The remains were laid to rest in Hazelwood Cemetery yesterday afternoon. The pall-bearers were H. W. Conway, George Pratt, A. Peters, Giles Ferria, R. C. Dixon and George Collins.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

Sanford Affleck Ends His Earthly Existence.

He Was a Victim of the Drink Habit. His Third Attempt at Suicide.

Sanford B. Affleck, an industrious young man whose home was at 1017 north first street, gave up his life Sunday morning because he was unable to control his appetite for strong drink. Affleck committed suicide about 11 a. m. Sunday by swallowing two table spoonful of carbolic acid.

For a number of years Affleck has been a slave to the drink habit, and this has led him into numerous difficulties. This was his third attempt to take his life, the last one being about three months ago when he went to Marshfield on a drunken spree and took an overdose of morphine, which came near end his earthly career.

Affleck had been drinking heavily for a week and it is rumored that he has also had some domestic difficulty. After being out nearly all night Saturday night he went home and slept late Sunday morning. Upon rising he was seized with a fit of remorse. He begged his wife to forgive him for his waywardness and intimated that he was tired of life.

He went to Commercial street about 9 o'clock, bought a bottle of carbolic acid at J. W. Crank's drug store and returned home. Going out onto the back porch he swallowed a large quantity of the deadly drug and was soon a corpse.

His wife, alarmed, called the neighbors as soon as she found him, but help arrived too late to be of any avail.

Affleck was a miller by trade and bore the reputation of being a competent and industrious workman. He worked for the Sprague mill company for two years, but has of recent date been traveling for a St. Louis mill machinery firm.

The young man came of a good family. His father is a highly respected citizen of Bolivar, and his brother F. A. Affleck, is circuit clerk of Polk county.

Sanford Affleck has been the source of a great deal of annoyance to his relatives. Some years ago he committed a forgery in Polk county and about a year ago he assaulted and came near killing an officer in St. Louis while resisting arrest.

The remains were embalmed by Undertaker White and will be taken to Bolivar for interment to-day. The mother and brother of the deceased came up from Bolivar Sunday in response to a telegram.

Dr. F. W. Diemer, the county coroner held an inquest over the body Sunday afternoon and a verdict of suicide resulted.

Mr. William A. Bouck and Miss Emma Mattocks were married last night at the home of the bride's father on East Commercial street.

WAS FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED.

known Without Even the Cold Comfort of a Watcher.

John Ragland, who lives on Weaver street, found John Ragland, aged 61, dead in his bed at No. 809 Weaver street. The coroner was notified and he visited the home but did not deem it necessary to institute inquest proceedings, there being no indication that either suicide or murder had been committed.

It was developed that deceased, a colored man, had been sick for some time, perhaps a month. He came here from Maynard county, Miss., and was employed upon the sewers and it was while thus engaged that he contracted the disorder which finally terminated his life.

Jacob Garrett sat up with Ragland. His condition is considered very critical and even yesterday afternoon it was thought that he would not survive until this morning.

There seems to have been some neglect on the part of the city officials in the matter as when a half dozen or more deputy constables and policemen were notified that night that they had no authority to take action in the matter and it was finally suggested that Mayor Paroe be appealed to.

As a matter of fact the negro, who seems to have been a very decent fellow, and who paid his bills regularly, as indicated by receipts found on his person, was in no condition yesterday to be carried to a hospital, and if he had a doctor at all it has not yet been ascertained.

Further, the body was on a board in the house No. 809 Weaver street today, and it is said that the robbery was looted as soon as the man was cold, though that statement must be taken with a great deal of salt as the man had very little if anything to be looted.

Coroner Dr. Deimer has been active in looking after the affairs of the dead man today and it is probable that the remains will be interred at the expense of the city.

The marriage of Miss Madeline Carruthers, of Cincinnati, and Mr. Sam McCluer, of this city, Wednesday evening was a surprise to the most intimate friends of both parties. Mr. McCluer and Miss Carruthers started from the home of Mrs. Luke Crutcher, where the latter has been visiting for the past month, for a drive, which ended at the residence of Rev. Criss, of the Benson Avenue M. E. church, and there, in the presence of the minister's wife as witness, and Mr. T. Ashby Simms, a friend of the groom, the solemn promises were spoken which made them one for life. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCluer drove to the home of Mr. McCluer's mother, five miles south of the city, where they will remain until the middle of this week, after which they will be at home at Mrs. Webster's on College street. This wedding is the result of a pretty little romance extending back over five years to the time when the bride was a resident of this city.

A PRETTY BRIDE WEDDING

Epithets of Miss Madge Pinkerton and Mr. Ernest Ferguson.

The South Street Christian Church, the scene of the ceremony, thronged with wedding guests.

The marriage of Miss Madge Pinkerton and Mr. Ernest Ferguson, at the South Street Christian church at 8:30 o'clock yesterday evening, was one of the prettiest weddings witnessed this season. The church was elaborately decorated in palms, lilies, ferns and amilax, a fence formed of amilax and roses outlined the space in front of the altar, and the bride and groom stood upon a large white rug of fur.

Promptly at the appointed hour Mrs. Lloyd sent forth the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and the party entered. First came the ushers, Messrs J. B. Russell and Gay Mitchell, Stanley Booth and Otto Hall followed by Miss Florence Ferguson, a bride of pink silk mail, square neck, long sleeves, gloves and shoes on suit, and a large bouquet of pink roses. The bride entered on her father's arm, wearing a gown of white awiss, simply made, with puffed yoke, full long sleeves, with lace trimming near the shoulders, skirt short with trimmings of Swiss ruffles, white gloves and shoes and bride's roses. At the altar the bridal party was met by the groom and his attendant, Mr. Carl Morris.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Maherton, father of the bride, in a solemn and impressive manner. The families of the contracting parties occupied the first pews and the Kurian society those directly back of them.

Following the ceremony a reception from 9 to 12 was held at the bride's home; only the Kurians and the immediate families of the bride and groom being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will make their home for the present with Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton, on West Walnut street.

The Ceremonies Attended by a Good Assembly.

The Deceased Was a Leading Aurora Merchant--A Brief Sketch of His Life.

The remains of S. Levistein, proprietor of a millinery and dry goods store at Aurora, arrived in the city yesterday morning and were conveyed to Pearson's undertaking establishment on South Street, from which place the funeral took place in the afternoon, the remains being interred with the customary Jewish rites in the section of Hazelwood cemetery purchased by the congregation known as "Temple of Israel" a few months ago.

The following account of the death of Mr. Levistein appeared in the Aurora Advertiser of the 25th:

"After one short week of sickness, Mr. L. Levistein, proprietor of the Mercantile block store, passed from this life last night. He was taken ill with peritonitis one week ago yesterday, and from that time grew steadily worse until yesterday afternoon, when as a last resort to save his life an operation was performed by Drs. Teft and Barrett of Springfield, and Drs. S. H. McMaingle and F. S. Stevenson of this city. But the disease had secured too firm a hold upon the patient, placing him beyond earthly aid, and before the grey in the eastern sky had heralded the coming day the suffering spirit took its flight.

Deceased was about 35 years of age and a native of Germany, his birthplace being Klien Bockenheim, Palatinate, Bavaria. He had been a resident of Aurora since October, 1892, at which time he purchased the stock of goods owned by the Bloch Bros., and since which time he has been one of Aurora's leading business men, proving himself possessed not only of fine business qualifications, but also those of a thorough gentleman, and his untimely end is regretted by all alike. Just before the operation was performed yesterday afternoon the deceased made his will, in which he appointed M. T. Davis, of this city, as executor of the property left. Mr. Emil Weiss, of Springfield, a cousin of the deceased, arrived in the city this morning and will attend to the removal of the remains to that place tomorrow morning for interment in the Jewish burial ground there.

THE FUNERAL

When the train bearing the remains left Aurora yesterday morning a crowd of several hundred friends of the deceased assembled at the depot, many of whom came to Springfield to attend the funeral.

The funeral took place at 1:30 p. m. Some of the rites were performed by Benj. Hirshland at the undertaking establishment. At the cemetery Jake Marx, president of the Temple of Israel, officiated in the absence of a rabbi. He read the regular Jewish prayer in English and made a few appropriate remarks touching the life of the deceased closing with some eloquent observations on the uncertainty of life and the necessity of preparation for death. Those present then concluded the rites in accordance with the customs of their forefathers.

This is the first burial that has taken place with the Jewish rites since the cemetery was bought, and the second interment that has been made, the former being that of a child six years old.

L. LEVISTEIN LAID TO REST.

The First Interment in the Jewish Necropolis Conducted Under the Ritual of Rabbinical Customs.

Yesterday afternoon the remains of S. Levistein, late of Aurora, were deposited in that portion of Hazelwood cemetery recently purchased by "Temple Israel" from the city.

In reference to Mr. Levistein, who was well known in Springfield and who was the proprietor of a dry goods and millinery store in Aurora, the Aurora Advertiser says:

"After one short week of sickness, Mr. L. Levistein, proprietor of the Mercantile block store, passed from this life last night. He was taken ill with peritonitis one week ago yesterday, and from that time grew steadily worse until yesterday afternoon, when as a last resort to save his life an operation was performed by Drs. Telford, Harrel, of Springfield, and Drs. H. H. McMaingale and F. S. Stevenson, of this city. But the disease had secured a firm hold upon the patient, placing him beyond earthly aid, and the gray in the eastern sky had heralded the coming day.

The surviving spirit had look its right. Deceased was about 35 years of age and a native of Germany, his birthplace being Ellen Bochenheim, Palatinat, Bavaria. He had been a resident of Aurora since October, 1895, at which time he purchased the stock of goods owned by the Bloch Bros., and since which time he has been one of Aurora's leading business men, proving himself possessed not only of fine business qualifications, but also those of a thorough gentleman, and his untimely end is regretted by all alike. Just before the operation was performed yesterday afternoon the deceased made his will, in which he appointed M. T. Davis of this city as executor of the property left. Mr. Emilio Weiss, of Springfield, a cousin of the deceased, arrived in the city this morning and will attend to the removal of the remains to that place to-morrow morning for interment in a Jewish burial ground there.

The remains were laid to rest with the rites of the Jewish church, Benjamin Herschland and Jake Mark officiating in the absence of a rabbi.

This is the first interment in the Hebrew quarter of Hazelwood cemetery with the rites of the church, and the second since the property was acquired a couple of months ago.

A NOTABLE EVENT IN THIS week's social life was the wedding of Miss Margaret Pinkerton, daughter of Reverend and Mrs. J. P. Pinkerton, to Mr. Ernest Ferguson, that occurred Wednesday evening at the South street Christian church. The church was handsomely decorated by the Kurian society, of which society the bride is one of the most popular members. The altar of the church was decorated with palms and lilies and pink and white flowers; beautiful magnolias were mingled with the palms in profusion; the altar rail was covered with wreaths of amillax and marguerites. The archway through which the groom and best man entered the church was draped with amillax and lilies. At half past eight the notes of the Lutheran wedding march, as played by the orchestra, announced the coming of the bride.

Hal and Stanley Booth coming first followed by the maid of honor Mrs. Florence Ferguson sister of the groom then came the bride Mrs. Margaret Pinkerton with her father Rev. J. P. Pinkerton. They were met at the altar by the groom Mr. Ernest Ferguson and his best man Mr. Carl Morris. The ceremony was impressively performed by the bride's father Rev. Pinkerton pastor of the church. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party left the church the triumphant notes of Marseilles and the march ringing the bells of the happy couple. The bridal party repaired to the residence of Rev. and Mrs. Pinkerton on Washington street. The reception was given to the bride and groom. The house was beautifully decorated, the parlors with cut flowers and amillax in large vases and palms in one corner where the happy couple received congratulations was especially beautiful with its lovely flowers. The dining room where an elegant wedding feast was served was also a charming picture. The table was wreathed with amillax and a large crystal bowl of roses at either end of the table. The loveliness by the bouquets of carnations scattered over the table. White satin ribbons draped from the center of the table with carnations. Many handsome and useful gifts were presented Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, tokens of the love and esteem of their host of friends who joined so heartily in the congratulations so generally extended this happy occasion. The bride looked very pretty in a charming gown of white satin over satin with her hair of white ribbon and the bride's train of exquisite bride roses completed the dainty toilette. The maid of honor Mrs. Florence Ferguson wore a dainty gown of pink silk with over pink silk trimmed with satin ribbon and a bouquet of La France roses. The bridesmaids Mrs. Pinkerton, were a handsome gown of black satin rhodanais trimmed with jet. Mrs. John R. Ferguson, the mother of the bride, wore a white some toilet of lace and lace with lace. Mrs. Pinkerton was assisted in entertaining by Misses Agnes Dade and Anna Bell. The guests present at the reception were, Misses and Messrs. John R. Ferguson, L. L. Lord, John Smith, R. G. Johnson, Bert White, Ben Murray, Misses Mamie and Ida Haldeman, May and Luez Oldham, Annie Ingram, Jennie Powell, Birdie Anderson, Emma V. Dade, W. IN SOCIETY'S GAY HEROINE

 The marriage of Miss Margaret Pinkerton and Mr. Ernest Ferguson Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's mother 744 Mt. Vernon street, was a decided event in society circles. Long before the appointed hour the church was so great as the church that it became necessary to close the doors while the late comers thronged the walks to see the arrival of the wedding party. The floral decorations were unusually beautiful, pink and white, the general legs colors against the background of ferns and palms, and there were lilies, marguerites, azaleas, and roses; most of all roses in profuse abundance. The bridal party entering by the north door was led by the ushers, Messrs. Jack Russell, Guy Mitchell, Otto Hall and Stanley Booth, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Florence Ferguson, in a costume of pink silk and mull, draped skirt, bodice with square neck, long full sleeves, gloves and shoes of pink and large bouquet of La France roses, hair dressed very high. The bride entered with her father. Her gown was simplicity itself; white silk over white silk, plain skirt with trimmings of ruffles of the same, puffed yoke, banded with narrow satin ribbon, high crush collar, sleeves long with short puff, lace bracelet white seeds gloves and slippers completed the costume. A bouquet of lilies of the valley in her dark hair were the only ornaments. The groom, assisted by Mr. Carl Morris, met the party at the altar; the short ceremony consisting of the formal pledging of the vows, preceded by a brief instruction, was performed by the Rev. Mr. Pinkerton, pastor of the South street Christian church and father of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father on West Walnut street, to which only the members of the Karian society, the attendants and a few intimate friends of the bride were invited. An elegant china dinner set and all the necessary were among the many handsome and useful gifts received.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, parents of the groom, gave a 6 o'clock dinner to the bride, Mrs. Ernest Ferguson. The parlors and dining room were decked in the colors of the recent wedding, pink and white. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ferguson received the guests in the front parlor. Mrs. Ferguson was clad in a handsome black silk, the bride wearing a handsome street costume of green and gray wool, trimmings of green duchess satin and cream lace. The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton; Misses Bell, Anderson, Oldham, Dade, and Messrs. Russell, Hays, Mitchell, Booth, Morris and Pinkerton.

SHE WAS OVER THE BIBLE AGE

The Mother of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Cloud Dead.

She Was a Relative of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

On Saturday Edgar P. Cloud received a telegram from his mother, Frank K. Cloud, of Springfield, Mass., who is a well known resident of this city, thought that as it was impossible to reach the bedside of his dear mother before she passed away, and as her loved remains would remain to be consigned to the grave prior to his arrival, he and his wife concluded to abandon the trip though they both, had they been notified in time, would have been present at the sad ceremony of interment.

Mrs. Mary C. Russell, the mother of Mr. and Mrs. Cloud says in a letter to them: "You are aware of my great age, 182 next October, 1888, seventy being the allotted time for man to live; consequently I am trying to put my house in order, and fearing I may never see you face to face, my precious ones, I wish to ask you if you will meet me in Heaven? I have been having some sweet fore-glimpses of Heaven of late, since my thoughts have more frequently on spiritual things."

In the matter of pedigree Mrs. Russell lays claim to being the descendant of royalty, and better than that to be a relative of one of America's most distinguished poets. In the letter referred to she says, in writing to Mr. and Mrs. Cloud, but especially to her son: "Your father's father married into one of the first and best families in Vermont, a titled gentleman being at the head. One of his daughters married Governor Bingham's son and another married Judge Burke, of York, Penn." "On the Russell side I have heard my father say you children have royal blood in your veins. He told us that he was a relative of Lord John Russell." "We seldom spoke of our ancestry, but we felt the blood as you did when you commanded the window shut down." "My mother was the only sister of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the poet."

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Shutt, that occurred Thursday night at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Burks of Mt. Vernon street. The house was handsomely decorated for the occasion.

At 7 o'clock the wedding party entered the house of the bride's parents.

The wedding march rendered by Miss Gussie Brown accompanied the coming of the bridal party. They were preceded by Rev. Skillman. The maid of honor, Miss Kate Fink, and the best man, Mr. John Shutt, came first, followed by the pretty bride, and a handsome groom. They passed near the front door and Rev. Skillman performed the impressive service of the Baptist church. The bride, dressed in a beautiful wedding gown of pink satin, was charmingly trimmed with pearls, amethysts and carried a large bouquet of pink and white roses. The bridesmaids wore a delicate gown of pale blue cloth.

A LIFE CRUSHED OUT.

Engineer Ross Kelsey, of the Memphis, Killed.

Wreck.

Some Box Cars and the Engine Derailed--The Local Wrecker Called Out.

Near Bandville, a few miles this side of Thayer, at 6:30 yesterday morning there was a wreck on the Memphis which resulted in the death of Engineer Ross Kelsey, one of the best known engineers on the road. A cow got on the track and could not or would not get off. The train was a little behind time and was coming this way. It was the first section of No. 52. The cow caused the engine to leave the track and turn over. Five box cars followed. The engineer and fireman both jumped for their lives. Engineer Kelsey somehow got caught by a box car loaded with sugar and was crushed to death. No one else was injured. The track at that place was in good condition, having just been repaired.

The matter was the subject of considerable talk on the streets yesterday as Mr. Kelsey lives on West Walnut street opposite the street car barn in this city and was extensively acquainted. He had been on the Memphis a few years, having previously worked on the Frisco for a long time. He was about fifty years old and had a son who is a fireman on the Memphis. His wife is very sick at present and the news of the death of her husband was a fearful shock to her.

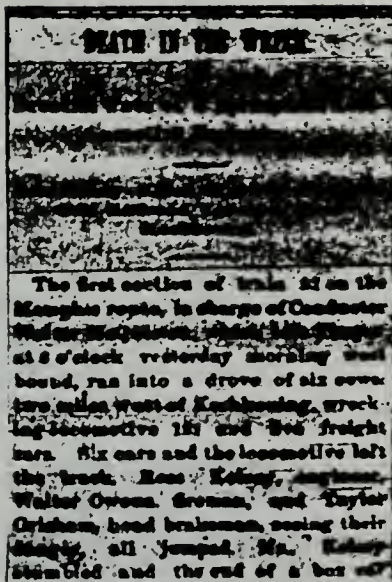

The steam wrecker was sent to the scene from this city. Division Superintendent H. W. Diggins went along to make an investigation. He did not return until late last night when the body of Kelsey was brought in.

loaded with 60,000 pounds of sugar, ran over him and he was instantly killed. He was wedged in so tight that the body was not extricated until 3.15 yesterday afternoon. The fireman and brakeman escaped serious injury.

Mr. Kelsey was one of the oldest engineers on the road, having commenced work in August, 1883. When Kelsey's body was recovered it was found to be badly mangled. One ear was almost severed and the nose considerably scratched, but otherwise the face was not much disfigured.

The remains were shipped to Springfield, arriving on No. 4 late last night when Undertaker J. M. White took charge. The interment will be in Maple Park cemetery today.

The deceased was about 50 years old, married and leaves a widow and several children, a grown except one son. Mr. Kelsey resided near the street car barn on West Walnut street and it is said that his life was insured for $3,000 in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which order he was a member. The deceased was greatly respected by all who knew him.

Miss Emma Carr, of Marshallfield, was quietly married at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. A. Hamill, on West Walnut street. The groom was Mr. W. A. Galbraith, formerly of Springfield, now of California. The wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Spallman, of the Baptist church, officiating. The bride wore a simple street suit of cloth, there were no attendants, and only a few most intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith left on the midnight train for their new home in Marysville, Cal.

by scores of "fired, free and faithful" friends was administered to the noble little sufferer, and though the very best medical skill was in attendance the patient grew continually worse, and the ravishing and dread disease took stronger and stronger hold on the childish body. The throbbing young heart grew weaker at each round of the hand on the dial. At intervals the fairest face would show some sign of life, but only for a moment.

Guy was one of the brightest scholars in his school and had won the esteem and admiration of all who knew him. He was as handsome as a picture and his bright and happy face was an open index to a kind and generous heart, always courteous to his playmates, by whom he will be easily missed.

Why Guy should have been taken is not given to the strictest parents and loving friends to understand, but an All-Kind Providence has called Guy to him for its own wise purpose.

The funeral services will take place in Christ church today at 3 o'clock p. m. Burial at Highland Cemetery.

Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the young soul of Master Guy departed took its flight from earth to the God who gave it. Guy was born in January 1881 and died at his home in Marshallfield, Cal. He was a sweet and gentle child, and his death was a great loss to his kind parents. On last Wednesday he was taken sick with consumption of the lungs and at once became unconscious, and though every kind attention of loving parents and friends

The ceremony was the distinction of a quiet wedding at home from Drury college. The couple departed last night for their Western home with the good wishes of the numerous friends of the bride residing in Springfield who have known her from childhood.

Charles R. Stoneman who died yesterday at his home on New street near Walnut, was a valued employe at the K. C. F. & M. railroad shops in this city. He had been sick for more than a year, and leaves a wife and two children. The funeral services will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Stoneman for interment. Mr. Stoneman was a worthy citizen and had many friends here who mourn his death.

BOB CRENSHAW DEAD.

Probably Killed While in Discharge of His Duty.

A telegram was received in the city this afternoon to the effect that Robert Crenshaw, of this city was killed this morning at 9:45 o'clock, at Hot Springs, Ark. It is supposed that Mr. Crenshaw was the victim of an accident as he was engaged in constructing rail roads in the region where he met his fate, and that he was a pleasant man and a good man goes without saying, for he was well known here.

There are rumors of all sorts in the wind, but it is hoped that young Bob, as his friends believe, has gone over the river without discourtesy to himself or his family.

A PREMATURE BLAST.

It Ends the Life of Robert S. Crenshaw.

One of His Workmen Was Also Killed.

An Inquest Held Over the Remains. He Is To Be Buried in This City.

Luke Crutcher yesterday received a brief telegram from Hot Springs saying that his brother-in-law, Robert Crenshaw, had been killed. He was very sorry and there was much inquiry for particulars.

The bodies of both men were blown high in the air by the terrible force of the explosion and were mutilated almost beyond recognition.

Bob Crenshaw, as he is more generally called, was a contractor, and had a contract to build 2 1/2 miles of road on the Little Rock, Hot Springs & Texas railroad. A dispatch to THE DEMOCRAT says he was engaged in blasting on the road 10 miles from Hot Springs yesterday when a premature explosion occurred and Crenshaw and one of his workmen named Robert Mc Connolly, of Jackson, Miss., were instantly killed. The bodies were taken to Hot Springs late yesterday afternoon and an inquest held. After listening to all the testimony the coroner's jury returned a verdict attaching no blame to any one. Crenshaw's remains were embalmed and forwarded on a train last night to this city where they will be buried.

Robert S. Crenshaw was a young man about 28 years old and unmarried. He was a son of L. A. D. Crenshaw, one of the wealthiest men in Greene county. He had been in the contracting business for several years and was quite successful in that line of work. He was a brother of John Crenshaw and Mrs. L. F. Crutcher, of this city, and Walter Crenshaw, of St. Louis, and was quite well known throughout Southwest Missouri.

Mr. Crenshaw was a member of fire department No. 1, of this city, for several years and his companions in the department assert that there was no braver or more efficient man for such work in the world. His services were considered so valuable that his place as hoseman had been supplied only temporarily, in the hope that he would return to fill it again.

The news created a sensation in Springfield, where Mr. Crenshaw lived and favorably known. Deceased was about 25 years old and the youngest son of the late Col. L. A. D. Crenshaw, who was one of the wealthiest men in Greene county before the war. The remains will reach here this evening, when the funeral arrangements will be perfected.

DAVE MARLEY KILLED.
An Attempt to Board a Freight Train and Fall Under the Wheels.
Some time yesterday morning David Marley, a colored youth of this city, aged about twenty years, while attempting to board an east-bound freight freight train at a water tank two miles from Conway, missed his hold and fell under the wheels. When picked up he was discovered that his left arm and both legs were covered from his body.
The unfortunate fellow was brought to Springfield as soon as possible and taken to his home at 441 Phelps avenue, where he died at 7 o'clock last night.

The deceased is better known as Dave Horn, and it is said that he was trying to beat his way to Rolla or St. Louis at the time of the accident. He was accompanied by Tills Layton, a colored man of this city, who returned with Marley.

Coroner Diemer decided to hold an inquest and deputy constable Hill empaneled the following jury: F. M. Doanell, W. T. Morrow, Hester Day, Pete Daily, B. F. Newman and Perry Potts.

After viewing the body the coroner adjourned the inquest until 10 o'clock Friday morning, when the taking of testimony will commence in the rear of Justice Chien's office.

THE BONES REMOVED

An Ancient Graveyard Has Been Abandoned.

The Remains in Fulbright's Cemetery Taken Up.

They Are Reburied in Hazelwood. The Memphis Railroad Wanted The Ground.

For over fifty years there has been a private graveyard known as the Fulbright cemetery in the western limits of the city. It was just behind the Dingeldale brewery and close to the Memphis shops. The Jordan passes right by it and its location is one of the landmarks of the city. It is now a thing of the past and the bones of those buried there were yesterday moved to Hazelwood cemetery.

Col. Marion Weaver, who is conducted with the Fulbright family, went to the graveyard yesterday with a force of men and began taking up the remains. There were about twenty graves in all. In most of them only a few bones were found. Teeth and jewelry were also unearthed. The bones were placed in new wooden box and carried to Hazelwood where they were again buried.

The tombstones showed very great age and some were almost impossible to read. The oldest grave was probably one which bore an indistinct date of 1835. Eli Fulbright was buried there August 16, 1839. W. M. Fulbright was buried in 1843 and Dr. S. M. Henderson about the same time. Eli son Fulbright was laid at rest in this little cemetery in 1852. Rutha Fulbright was probably the last person buried there. The stone over her grave bore date of 1874 and none later was noticed.

The removal was caused by the Memphis railroad company which will probably purchase the land, as its representatives have been holding conferences with Col. Weaver in regard to purchasing it of late and offered to remove the graves at its expense.

Page 3: Son born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett residing near the national cemetery.

A. J. O'Bryant, who moved to Springfield a year or two ago from Republic, died Thursday and will be buried at Phillips cemetery.

C. H. Speake and Miss Cora Culbertson, both from Greene county, secured a marriage license at Bolivar.

REMOVING THE REMAINS
The remains of the Fulbrights being interred in Hazelwood Cemetery.
For some time past, the remains of the Fulbrights, on the banks of the Jordan, near the Memphis shops, has been neglected and the tombstones broken and destroyed by vandals.
Recently some of the relations decided to re-inter the remains in Hazelwood cemetery and erect a suitable monument. John Mack, mason, yesterday completed the work of removing the remains of twenty-two members, who had died at various times, and Major Weaver assisted and directed him, being a relative of the Fulbrights. The old burial grounds will be conveyed into a lot and placed on sale.

The Fulbright family is one of the first to settle in and around Springfield. In 1819 William Fulbright passed through what is now Greene county, but went back east and settled in what afterwards became Crawford county, Mo. In 1816 he returned with his brothers, Levi and John, removed to Springfield and they erected their tents in the wilderness. They brought their families, among whom was "Aunt Hannah," the old colored woman, who died a few years ago aged about 100. William Fulbright died in 1843, after spending a useful and energetic life. His third son, Henry, served one term as receiver in the United States land office here.

THE FULBRIGHT ASHES

Removed From an Old Cemetery to a New One.

A Private Necropolis Which Has Become a Monument of History, and is Preserved from the Records.

For about half a century this has been a graveyard near the old brewery in the western part of the city, which has been objected to on various grounds. The bones of the Fulbrights who have been there interred were yesterday removed and conveyed to the Hazelwood cemetery where they were re-deposited.

The dates on the tombstones go back almost sixty years so that there was very little left of the bodies to transfer except teeth and some jewelry.

The removal of the bodies was probably influenced by a deed in which the E. C. F. & M. K. H. purchased the land which the yard has heretofore occupied.

The removal of the remains was superintended by Major Nathan Weaver and Dr. Wm. M. of the United States Army.

A WEDDING of interest to a number of Springfield friends of the bride occurred in Ash Grove Wednesday evening when Miss Laura Boone was married to Mr. Harry Cook of St. Louis. TO BUILD A MONUMENT

The Fulbright Family Will Honor Their Ancestors.

Col. W. M. Weaver Speaks of a Pioneer Family.

Built the First House in Southwest Missouri--The First Death From Cholera.

It is the intention of the descendants of William Fulbright to erect a monument in remembrance of him and those buried in the Fulbright cemetery, who were moved to Hazelwood Friday. The monument will be a beautiful one, although all the details concerning it have not yet been arranged. Col. W. M. Weaver, a grandson of Wm. Fulbright, who is the leader of the movement, in speaking of the matter said:

"After sixty years, the little cemetery established by the first settlers that ever settled in southwest Missouri, known as the Fulbright graveyard, and situated on the historic banks of the Jordan in the western part of the now city of Springfield, was removed by the grandsons of the old man who established it. There were about twenty remains disinterred and removed to Hazelwood.

"Our grandfather moved to the now city of Springfield in 1829, with part of the family, and in 1830 the balance of the family came, and the first house ever built on the soil of southwest Missouri, was built just where the Memphis shops now stand, there being a fine spring of water just west of the house, which is now no more, having been destroyed by blasting in the main where sewers were put in last spring a year ago.

"William Fulbright, our grandfather, had erected the first house in this part of Missouri; was born in North Carolina in January, 1775, and died September 22, 1843. His wife was born in the same state September 24, 1797, and died April 30, 1874. They had born by their union twelve boys and one girl. That girl was the mother of W. M. Weaver, who was her only child and the only survivor who lives on any part of the old homestead of this numerous family. There are still living four of the sons, three of the eldest and the next to the youngest. The three eldest are: L. H. Fulbright, being 85 or 86 years, who lives at Bath Springs, Ark., father of John Y. Fulbright. The next eldest is Levi Fulbright. He lives on the Dry Glade, Laclede county. He is 81 or 82 years old. Then comes the daughters Rhody, the mother of W. W. Weaver. She died April 25, 1830, the day of her son's birth. Then comes Henry Fulbright, who lives at Battle Springs, Ark., and Col. D. B. Fulbright, who is 64 years old. All the rest of the family are dead.

"Alconia, the baby, who was born November 2, 1893, and died July 30, 1895, was our baby, and he was the first person that ever died with cholera in this part of the country. His grave was the first grave put in the old cemetery. His brother, Eli, was the next. He was born in 1820 and died in 1832. We have moved them and now their remains rest in one common grave, where I hope and trust that all dear living members of this once numerous and honorable family will see to it that a suitable monument shall mark the resting place of their loved ones."

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.
 Reported Death of J. L. Lee Through a Second Stroke of Paralysis.
 Last night about 6 o'clock J. L. Lee was taken with a stroke of paralysis and died. This is the second stroke Mr. Lee had suffered. The first was three years ago last February in Lead Hill, Ark., when his left side became paralyzed. Since that time he has been unable to do any work, being confined to his bed most of the time. At the time of his death there was no one at home but Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Clara. Ed Lee is at Arlington on a fishing trip and will reach home this morning on the Frisco. Miss Nellie is at Lebanon, and will come in on the same train.

and George is camping out down on the James. He has been sent for to look after the place, where he has charge of his father's business at that place. He will drive through to Springfield at once.
 Yesterday afternoon Mr. Lee was feeling as well as usual except that he complained of the heat. He said that he felt better yesterday morning than he had since he had been sick. Mrs. Lee left him in the sitting room and stepped out a moment and when she came back he was helpless and never regained consciousness.
 Mr. Lee founded the J. L. Lee Tie and Timber company, which operates at Chadwick and Sparta very extensively. He was born in Thomasville N. C., fifty-six years ago last May. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity who will take charge of the funeral arrangements.

HON. S. H. BOYD DEAD

Col. Boyd's Illness Developed into Peritonitis.

THE BODY BROUGHT IN TODAY

On on Saturday the body was brought in. Disorder Developed—General To-morrow Evening.

Col. S. H. Boyd is dead. A gentleman and one of nature's noblemen has drawn the drapery of his couch about him and adjoined to pleasant dreams. He went on a fishing trip last Tuesday enjoying unusually good health apparently, with Bud Coleman and Jamie Delaney, intending to have an outing at the mouth of the James river.

On Wednesday the colonel was suddenly taken ill with a pain in the right side of the lower part of the abdomen, but he thought it was only a temporary affair. This, however, proved to be a good prophesy wrongly applied, for Col. Boyd became worse and Dr. Delahoy and Mr. Delaney were called. On Thursday night but Dr. Delaney being engaged, Dr. A. A. Johnson went to the bedside of the patient as rapidly as he could be carried, arriving there yesterday morning.

Upon arrival, however, it proved too late for successful medical treatment. Col. Boyd had been attacked by acute appendicitis which had rapidly developed into general peritonitis. Yesterday morning the patient was in a state of extreme collapse, and the doctor, in spite of all possible efforts, only succeeded in alleviating the excruciating pains. The colonel died in the collapse at 5:30 yesterday afternoon.

Last night Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Delaney were sent for and both started, hoping to meet the husband and father alive, not apprehending that he had been dead over six hours before they were able to leave.

Mrs. Delaney met the college en route to the city but Mrs. Boyd, who took another route was recalled by messengers.

Col. Boyd was one of the most genial gentlemen in the city and the honors which have been showered upon him were worthily bestowed. He was affectionately known as "Pony" Boyd, and he did not seem to object to the nickname.

That he was an able lawyer none can dispute and since his return from Spain where he was minister under the Harrison administration he has been doing excellent work in the courts.

Mrs. B. C. Kennedy, wife of the United States consul in Malta, is a sister of Col. Boyd and she will hear of his sudden death with sorrow in her far away home.

The firm of Boyd & Delaney has been one of the most successful in the state, and the many admirers of the dead orator, soldier and diplomat will shed tears over his ashes.

The body is expected to arrive in the city this afternoon. There was no coffin to be obtained where the colonel died, so that he has been brought back home in an improvised box. He has had honors in life, and in death they will not be forgotten.

This afternoon the remains arrived and were carried to the residence of his son-in-law, T. J. Delaney, on Washington avenue. Undertaker Ell Paxson was summoned at once and the body was embalmed. It is not known at this writing what arrangements have been made for the funeral, but presumably the Masonic order will take charge of the ceremonies, while the bar and other organizations will take part.

HIS LIFE.

Col. S. H. Boyd was born May 23, 1829, in Williamson county Tenn., so that at the time of his unexpected and sudden death he was sixty-six years of age. His parents were Marcus and Eliza (Hamilton) Boyd, and his father was a native of Tennessee. The paternal grandfather of Colonel Boyd was William G. Boyd, a native of Mecklenburg county, Va., and a son of a Scotchman John Boyd, who was the founder of the family. There are many members bearing the name now in Kentucky and Tennessee, but Marcus Boyd came to Greene county, Mo., in 1810 and with his family settled on a farm two miles east of Springfield.

Several of the brothers of Col. S. H. Boyd were identified with the South in the late war, Dr. E. H. Boyd being a surgeon in the Texas regiment, Audley a sergeant in Campbell's regiment, and Rufus who was secretary of state in Alabama for several years.

In 1849 went to California, being infected with the gold fever, and he remained there until 1853 when he returned and began the study of law with Judge William C. Price of this city being admitted to the bar in 1857. In that profession he engaged until 1861 when he organized the twenty-fourth Missouri volunteer regiment of infantry, and was after a term of service given an independent position in southwest Missouri and the state of Arkansas.

He was elected to congress in 1867, but he retained command of his troops until December 1867, believing that he could do more for the country in the field than in the forum.

He was appointed minister to Venezuela by President Lincoln but the premature death of that distinguished man prevented him from accepting the position.

Col. Boyd organized the forty-fifth Missouri regiment of infantry during the war and accepted the position of judge of the circuit court of the twenty-first judicial circuit.

In 1869 he was chosen a member of congress for the second time. In 1877 he operated with Col. John C. Fremont in purchasing the Southwest Pacific railroad and after building a few miles of railroad, operations suspended, only to be resumed after another company had been formed, Mr. Boyd assisting to operate it until 1878, he then founded ed a wagon factory in Springfield to which his attention was devoted for two years, after which he practiced law until 1890 and then was appointed Minister Resident and Consul General to Siam but his health becoming so impaired, he returned home on leave of absence July 12, 1892. He has been two times mayor of Springfield, has been city clerk, city attorney, and prosecuting attorney of Greene county. His late home at the corner of Washington and Chestnut streets, where he has lived since 1866, is one of the most substantial and beautiful residences in the city. He has long been a Republican in politics and has been a Mason of 37 years standing. He was married to Miss M. McElharg, daughter of Robert J. McElharg, and by her has two children: Mrs. Thos. Delaney of this city, and Robert M. Royd, who was Consul General to Siam in his father's stead. He (Robert Royd) was born in Springfield in 1870, was educated in Drury College, and graduated from the Chicago Medical College in 1892. He is socially one of the most companionable men, and is a head ideal citizen, for he is enterprising, public spirited and law abiding.

FUNERAL SERVICES

The funeral services of Col. Royd will take place at the residence on Washington avenue tomorrow afternoon at twelve o'clock. Interment at Hazelwood.

THE WEDDING of Miss Annie Rominger and Mr. Gray Burlingame was quietly celebrated Thursday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Rominger, only a few friends and relatives being present. At 4:30 o'clock the bride and groom entered the parlor preceded by little Miss Ada Rominger and Master George Rathbun carrying the wedding ring. The parlor where Dr. Hughey performed the wedding service was handsomely decorated with pink and white roses and smilax most artistically arranged. After the ceremony the bridal party and guests were ushered into the dainty dining room that was an alluring picture with its charming array of pink and white sweet peas and smilax draping the curtains and massed on the table from which the elegant wedding supper was served.

The bride wore her handsome traveling gown of brown cloth, and Mr. and Mrs. Burlingame, left on the 6 o'clock train for Wichita, where they will spend a few days previous to going to their new home in Perry, Ok.

THE NUPITAL CEREMONIES of Miss Clara Sumner and Mr. Earnest Loran was celebrated Thursday evening at the residence of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sumner of east Commercial street. The home was prettily arranged to grace so fair an occasion. The parlor was handsomely decorated with white roses and smilax, the wedding march was exquisitely played by Miss Mamm McDonald and to its rhythmic strains the bridal party entered the parlor and Dr. Leavitt united the happy couple with the solemn services of the Baptist church. The wedding supper that followed the ceremony was served in the dining room that was prettily decorated with smilax and carnations. The feast of good viands was daintily served and well enjoyed. The bride wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine and satin and trimmed in lace and carried bride roses. Mr. and Mrs. Loran will be at home to their many friends at 617 east Commercial street.

MONETT to Death By a Negro.

LIKELY TO OCCUR.

Town With a Bright Future
Awaiting It.—A First-class Race Track to Be Established.

Correspondence of THE LEADER.
MONETT, June 13.—Bob Greenwood a brakeman on the Texas and Arkansas division, running south from Monett, was shot by a negro last night while down in town. The ball entered his body just under the left arm. He was carried home by his friends on a stretcher. This shocking case has much pain, although the reporter was informed later every indication was favorable to his recovery. His many friends look anxiously to his speedy convalescence. Among his sympathizers are Col. C. M. Liversay and wife, brother-in-law and sister of the unfortunate man. The Leavitt man desires to express many thanks to Col. Liversay for courtesies tendered to him while in Monett.

Monett is a thriving town situated 44 miles west of Springfield on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad. The citizens are just completing one of the best race tracks in Southwest Missouri. As soon as finished a good force of the choicest race horses will be added and if the people of Southwest Missouri want to see first class races they are invited to call on Monett in the near future where excellent racing will be exhibited daily.

There are a great many buildings going up and many others will soon follow. The good people of Monett are enterprising and will not stop short of developing the beautiful town into a large city. The new ice plant is running full force and the grade of ice manufactured here is superior to anything previously produced in this country.

Birch Ferrell leads the mail in the barber business. He is located on Fourth street with the best outfit in Southwest Missouri. He runs an elegant three-chair shop and his parlor is equipped with the latest improvements. The bath rooms are elegantly furnished and if you want good accommodations in the barber line call on him at his neatly arranged shop where you will get a share from the skilled hands of experienced barbers.

Ed. Greenwood, the gentleman who was shot in Monett Wednesday night, struggled to escape at ten o'clock today (Friday) when the All Supreme called and Ed passed away. He belonged to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and was insured in the order. He has been married for and was buried by the Brotherhood of our crew Saturday at Bentley.

Dining and the Many Extraneous ments of the Week.

A BEAUTIFUL home wedding was that of Miss Augustine Fricke and Mr. Tom Johnston that occurred Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fricke, on South street. The house was a marvel of exquisite decoration taste. The hall was decked with vines and nasturtiums. The parlor was arrayed in wild roses and pink and white carnations and anemones. The mantels and grates basked with dainty wild roses and the archway between the parlors was wreathed with anemones and wild roses. The second parlor was redolent with a wealth of lovely sweet peas. At 7 o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the exquisite strains of the wedding march rendered by Miss Lena Homan. They paused in the archway between the parlors and Rev. Dr. Hughey performed the impressive marriage service. After receiving the cordial congratulations of the many friends present the bridal party and guests repaired to the dining room where the wedding feast was daintily served. The dining table forming a lovely centerpiece with its polished surface reflecting exquisite bowls of pink and white carnations on pretty doilies and wreaths of anemones entwining the beautiful flowers. The bride, one of Springfield's fairest daughters, was daintily robed in a lovely white French suit trimmed with white satin, and carried a bouquet of bride roses tied with loops of white satin ribbon. Mrs. George Fricke wore a handsome black silk gown trimmed with lace. Mrs. Johnson of St. Louis, mother of the groom, wore a pretty gray silk and white lace jacket. Mrs. Harry Fricke was attired in a heliotrope crepon and lace. Miss Lora Fricke wore daintily white and green organdie trimmed with lace and ribbon. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home to their many friends at Mr. Milton McClure's residence on College street.

HIS DAYS ARE ENDED.

Col. S. H. Boyd Dies While Out Fishing.

Remains Brought Fifty Miles
On a Cot.

Story of His Life—To Be Buried To-Day—G. A. R. and Bar Associations to Meet.

In the highest spirits and best of good humor Col. S. H. Boyd on Tuesday departed for Ants creek in Stone county on a fishing expedition and at 2 o'clock yesterday his badly decomposed remains were brought to this city in a wagon. He died almost entirely out of civilization and yet within 50 miles of Springfield. It was impossible to secure a coffin where he died and he was brought back to his home stretched on a fishing cot which was hastily boxed up with planks.

Col. Boyd had been in bad health for the past three years but he had steadily improved for the last eight months to such an extent that he thought he could safely take a trip to Stone county and fish and enjoy the wild scenery of the Ozarks which was his favorite pastime. After all he was the creature of circumstance and the disease he suffered from so long and which he dreaded was in no way responsible for his death and he might have met with the same fate even if he had remained at his home.

Col. Boyd was accompanied on his trip by D. M. Coleman, the attorney, who has gone on numerous excursions of the kind with the deceased, and Jamie Delaney, Col. Boyd's grandson. After their arrival at Ants creek they went into camp and all were enjoying themselves to the greatest extent. Col. Boyd was well known in that part of the country having been to Stone county frequently, not only as a sportsman but as a lawyer and a politician. His friends were joking him about political matters and one engaged Col. Boyd to go on the stump for him in case he should run for constable in Stone county, which he gracefully promised to do and made what he called a sample speech right there. Shortly afterwards on Wednesday afternoon, Col. Boyd was suddenly seized with a sharp pain in the lower right side of the abdomen which caused him considerable suffering but he paid little attention to it at the time, supposing that it would soon wear away. Thursday, however, he had grown worse and his friends became alarmed. A runner was sent into this city to notify Thomas J. Delaney. Col. Boyd's son-in-law. Mr. Delaney at once went out to find Dr. William Reinhoff, the family physician, but as he was out of the city he took Dr. S. A. Johnson and departed in all haste for Stone county.

When Dr. Johnson arrived he found Col. Boyd beyond all hope and he advised that Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Boyd be sent for at once. A runner was sent with a telegram to Marionville, the nearest telegraph station, with a dispatch to that effect and the ladies prepared to start. They left Friday night, six hours after Col. Boyd had breathed his last and met the party returning to Springfield with the body.

Dr. Johnson found Col. Boyd completely collapsed and could do nothing but relieve him from his suffering which was intense. A country physician was already on the scene doing everything in his power for the dying man. At 10 o'clock Friday evening Col. Boyd breathed his last and shortly afterwards he was placed on a fishing cot which was boxed up and taken to this city on a wagon.

The body was taken to the family residence on Washington avenue. Ely Paxson, the undertaker, and Dr. William Reinhoff arrived shortly afterwards. Dr. Reinhoff made a post mortem examination and found that death had resulted from acute general peritonitis, brought on by acute appendicitis. The examination developed the fact that a perforation had taken place at the base of the vermiform process, whereby some of the contents of the bowels had been discharged into the abdominal cavity. The inflammation leading to the perforation was caused by some substance lodging in the beginning of the process near the blind intestine.

The news of the death soon spread all over the city and expressions of sorrow were universal. Friends at once began calling at the residence to express sympathy.

The funeral services will take place at the residence at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and the body will be laid at rest in Hazelwood cemetery.

The Bar association will hold a meeting at the courthouse to-day at 2 o'clock and make arrangements to attend the funeral.

The following was issued last night:

"The comrades of Capt. John Mathews post, No. 69, are requested to meet at their hall this afternoon at 3:30, for the purpose of attending the funeral services of the Hon. S. H. Boyd, which will be held at the residence, on Washington avenue, at 4 p. m. It is sincerely hoped that all comrades will attend."

J. P. TRACY, P. C.

The Boyd family used to be one of the most numerous in this city but in late years they have drifted to other sections. Col. S. H. Boyd was the son of Col. Marcus and Eliza Boyd. He was born in Williamson county, Tennessee, May 28, 1828. The family moved to Missouri in 1840 and Col. Marcus Boyd at once took an active part in the political affairs of this section. He represented Greene county in the legislature several times, was receiver of the United States land office, a colonel in the late war and postmaster of Springfield when he died in 1866.

The family divided on the war question, Col. Marcus Boyd and his son Col. S. H. Boyd, siding with the Union cause, while the other sons joined the Confederacy. Rufus K. Boyd went to Alabama where he was secretary of state for several years.

Col. S. H. Boyd when quite young became active in the affairs of men and remained so up to the time of his death being connected with nearly every matter of importance in this city for fifty years. He was educated in this city in the English and classics and when quite young showed a desire to be doing something and took a load of bacon to Texas which he sold at a big profit, which was considered quite a feat in those days before the iron horse.

When 19 years old he became a merchant and in 1847 was placed in charge of the store of D. Johnson & Co. at Forsyth. Two years later the days of '49 opened up and he naturally caught the gold fever. He crossed the great plains in California in August of that year. He mined in the places of the Yuba, Feather, Mokelumne rivers and then taught school at Valcano.

He returned to Springfield and entered the law office of Judge William C. Price. His political career had been of national reputation to this time. His office was probably that of clerk of the probate and common pleas court of Greene county. From 1855 to 1857 he was mayor of Springfield and was twice city attorney.

When the war broke out in 1861 he was a major in Gen. Phelps's home guards but in a little time afterwards was made colonel of the Twenty-fourth Missouri volunteers, which he organized, and was in several engagements. In 1863 he was elected to congress over Governor John S. Phelps. While in congress he was a member of the committee of postoffices and post roads and was active in reorganizing the postal service of Southwest Missouri. He was chairman of the committee of revolutionary claims and pensions.

Next he went on the bench and was elected circuit judge of the Fourteenth judicial circuit but he did not like the passive life of a jurist and after one year resigned to take part with John C. Fremont and others in a gigantic task—building a railroad from St. Louis to the western border of the state. The road was called the Southwestern Pacific railroad but is now known as the St. Louis & San Francisco.

Once more he is back in politics and in 1868 was elected to congress as a regular republican. Those were the days of reconstruction, when the south was feeling the avenging hand of the north. Col. Boyd boldly defied his party and protested against southern persecution. He supported B. Gratz Brown. He was ostracised by his party in consequence but Col. Boyd never regretted his action. He has held scores of honorary positions and was the Missouri member of the national republican committee from 1861 to 1863. Coming down to later years he was the republican nominee for election at large in 1888.

In 1872 he founded the Springfield Wagon Company and in 1874 began to practice law actively. He was elected prosecuting attorney in 1880. In 1876 he created a national sensation by addressing an open letter to Whiteley

Reid, declaring that Samuel J. Tilden had been fairly elected president of the United States and he protested against awarding the place to Hayes. Col. Boyd for sometime after this took but little active interest in politics, but in 1893 again became a candidate for congress but was defeated for the nomination by Col. William Wade.

In 1886 an old hope was revived in Col. Boyd. He wanted to enter the diplomatic service. When Lincoln was president he tendered Col. Boyd the position of envoy extraordinary minister plenipotentiary to Venezuela. Col. Boyd started to Washington to accept the place, but when he arrived in Terre Haute, Ind. President Lincoln was assassinated and he was not appointed. This is why he asked Harrison to appoint him as minister to Venezuela, and Secretary Blaine, his personal friend, promised him the place. Blaine and Harrison had their first fall out about that time, and the first thing Col. Boyd saw in the papers when he arrived home was that William S. Scruggs, of Georgia, had been appointed minister to Venezuela.

He did not give up hope, however, and a year later was appointed minister resident and consul general to Siam, which position he held until a few months ago. Dr. Robert M. Boyd, Col. Boyd's son, is on his way home from Siam, and is expected to arrive this week. His sister, Mrs. D. C. Kennedy, in Malta.

party discipline that demanded absolute concurrence and obedience—rather than to the absence of ability or lack of sagacity. His earlier political life was cast in a mould of relentless partisanship, but as he advanced in years, he tempered the asperities of his political wrinkled front of bitter memories born of the troublous period of national life in which his public career had its beginning, he advanced to a broader outlook which, though it did not demand the surrender of an iota of honorable loyalty to party, inspired him with a generous consideration for the opinions of others.

His career in Congress, his subsequent high place in the councils of his party and the crowning honor of his life as the diplomatic representative of his country in an important capacity all testify to an order of ability which wrung recognition that would have been freely accorded in larger measure had he been more amenable to dictation and less fretful under the exactions of a partisanship that made blind, unreasoning acceptance of every dogma the gauge of reward.

But it is in social life—in the daily commingling between men on a plane of good-fellowship which ignores the petty barriers of political differences and class distinctions—that he will be missed. Uniformly considerate, genial and cheery, he was everywhere and at all times a welcome companion. The kindly side of his nature was always exposed, and the humblest man, whether black or white, appealed as confidently to his sympathy and generosity as the one who wore the badge of place and prosperity. While the community in which he was honored and esteemed may not by expressions of condolence mitigate the home sorrow that is rendered doubly poignant by the sad surroundings of a death so widely mourned, it will to-day with one voice in a silent testimony of affectionate remembrance more to be prized than eulogy that finds expression in words alone.

Death of S. H. Boyd.

The death of Hon. S. H. BOYD leaves a void in the political circles of Springfield and the State which will be recognized and keenly felt by all, and especially by those who through years of intimacy had come to appreciate his many superior qualities of mind and heart.

That Col. BOYD failed to attain the position of a conspicuous political leadership was due to his independence of thought, word and action—to his impatience at the impositions of a

Col. S. H. Boyd, after a brief illness, died yesterday morning at 5:30 o'clock of inflammation of the bowels, in the presence of his wife, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Delaney, Dr. Johnson and others. His death occurred at the home of Phil Finnegan, fifteen miles from Harrison, Ark., who contributed every possible comfort to the dying man.

The remains arrived in Springfield yesterday afternoon in a special conveyance and were taken to the family residence on Washington avenue, where the funeral will be conducted this afternoon, after which the interment will be in the National cemetery.

Dr. Robert Boyd, son of the deceased, has been cabled at Bangkok, Siam, but is not expected home until next month.

Col. Sempronius H. Boyd was the son of Marcus and Eliza Boyd. His mother's maiden name being Hamilton, and was born in Williamson county, Tenn., May 28, 1828. His parents came to Missouri in 1840, and his father shortly after took high political rank as a leader, representing Greene county several times in the legislature, being appointed receiver of the United States land office at Springfield and a colonel in the militia during the civil war, death closing his career in 1864. His son, S. H. Boyd, was educated at Springfield in English and the classics. After completing his education he made a trip to Texas with a train loaded with horses. He sold the entire outfit, except the negroes who accompanied him, and returned to Springfield. He then accepted a situation as clerk in the store of D. Johnson & Co. In 1847 the firm established a branch store at Poyryth, Taney county, Mo., and Mr. Boyd, then nineteen years old, was placed in charge. In 1849 he crossed the great plains, arriving in California in August of that year. He mined in the placers of the Yuba, Feather and Mokelumne rivers, taught school at Volcano, Amador county and returned to Springfield in 1853 via Nicaragua and New Orleans. The colonel studied law under Judge Price; was mayor of Springfield in 1856-7; was the first clerk of the probate and common pleas court of Greene county and was twice elected city attorney. In 1861 he was major in General Phelps' regiment of home guards and afterwards colonel of a regiment of United States volunteers, and participated in several engagements. He was elected to congress over General Phelps and took his seat in December, 1863, and was active in reorganizing the postal service in Southwest Missouri, being a member of the committee on postoffices and post roads, as well as chairman of the committee on revolutionary claims and pensions. In 1855-6 he was circuit judge of the fourteenth judicial circuit, which office he resigned to interest himself in the completion of the Southwestern Pacific railroad. He was again elected to congress in 1868 as the regular republican nominee, running largely ahead of his ticket. While in congress he took an independent stand and was ostracized by his party for advocating the enfranchisement of colored people. He also supported H. H. Brown, who was elected governor of Missouri in 1872 by liberal republicans and democrats. He was not a partisan and with him principles were never subordinated to position. From 1864 to 1866 he was the Missouri member of the republican national executive committee. In 1871 he founded the Springfield wagon factory and resumed the practice of law in 1874. Col. Boyd has also been prominent attorney of Greene county. During his service in congress he was a warm personal friend of the late James O. Miles and during President Harrison's term Mr. Miles used his influence in appointing Col. Boyd as consul and minister resident to Bangkok, Siam, where the colonel remained over a year and was compelled to return home on account of ill health, leaving his son, Dr. Robert Boyd, in charge.

Col. Boyd was suffering from ill health when he returned from Siam, but by careful nursing he greatly improved in health and was able to resume the practice of law with his son-in-law, T. J. Delaney.

Last Tuesday he accompanied a party of old friends to Boone county on a fishing outing, and while there he was suddenly attacked with the disease which caused his death. The state and Greene county and Southwestern Missouri especially, lose a valuable citizen and will long honor his memory.

COL. BOYD'S FUNERAL.

It Was Largely Attended by Sympathetic Friends.

Services at the Washington and Grand Army Meeting of the Local Bar.

The funeral services of Col. S. H. Boyd took place from the residence on Washington avenue yesterday afternoon. It was one of the largest attended funerals that ever took place in Springfield and the house as well as yard was full of friends of the deceased. The casket was in the upstairs parlors and was almost buried in flowers sent in as a tribute of sympathy and respect. The services were ample but very impressive.

A choir, comprising Misses Lyle Clapp, Josephine Amoth and Messrs. Ed Tefft and H. A. Nelson, sang "One More for Jesus," after which prayer was offered by Rev. G. W. Hughey. Dr. Criss read a psalm and the choir sang "Abide With Me." A prayer by Dr. Criss closed the services and the body was borne to the hearse by the following pall bearers: J. H. Duncan, E. C. McAfee, Judge James T. Devine, Perry T. Allen, George Pendernine and B. U. Massey.

At the grave the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," and Dr. Hughey read the burial service after which the multitude dispersed.

The bar and Grand army were fully represented and previous to the funeral the bar met at the courthouse where a few eulogistic speeches were delivered and a committee appointed to draft resolutions. The committee will report at 3 o'clock to day.

to Honor the Memory of the Deceased.

The funeral of the late
Col. Boyd.

General theme of the service all hearts were united in prayed sorrow at losing a kind-hearted, estimable who always had the welfare of vision, yet "with gentlest touch and charity for all."

Early in the afternoon the streets were thronged with people on their way to the late residence of Col. Boyd, and when the hour arrived for the funeral services to take place a vast crowd had gathered to pay their last respects to the distinguished dead.

The body was enclosed in an elegant casket and there was a profusion of flowers in the parlor, some of the designs being very artistic, while the fragrant roses were especially noticeable.

Miss Lyle Shipp, Miss Josephine Amoth, Ed Tost and Henry A. Nelson sang "One More for Jesus," in a manner that thrilled every one present.

Rev. G. W. Hughey offered prayer.

after which Rev. C. V. Criss read the 90th Psalm.

The choir then sang "Abide With Me," and Rev. Hughey read selections from the 18th chapter of John and 15th chapter of First Corinthians.

After prayer by Rev. Criss the services at the house were concluded.

The pall-bearers were from the bar and bench and consisted of the following intimate friends of Col. Boyd:
Judge James T. Neville, R. U. Massey,
J. H. Duncan, George Peppardine, P.
T. Allen and E. C. McAfee.

The body was borne to the hearse, followed by members of the family, relatives and a long line of friends, the various Grand Army posts being well represented, together with the Springfield bar.

The march to Hazelwood cemetery was tedious, owing to the unusual length of the procession, and by the time the remains arrived there was gathered at the cemetery quite a number of friends residing in the country.

The ceremony at the grave was very brief, consisting of the burial service by Rev. Hughey and singing by the choir.

A meeting of members of the Springfield bar was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the court house. After several members had spoken in tender tribute to the memory of Col. Boyd a committee was appointed to draft resolutions of respect, consisting of Judge W. D. Hubbard, Almus Harrington, George S. Rathbun, George Peppardine and Judge M. Oliver. The committee will meet in the circuit court room at 2 o'clock this afternoon and report to a full bar meeting.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 27, 1894--LEADER

COL. S. H. BOYD AT REST.

His Funeral Yesterday An Elegant Tribute to His Memory.

Two Hundred Vehicles Followed the Honored Ashes to Their Final Rest.

All that was mortal of Hon. Samuel H. Boyd was yesterday afternoon committed to earth in Hazelwood cemetery in the presence of a throng of people gathered together to do honor to the memory of a distinguished man who had closed the book of life and drawn the dark drapery of his dreamless couch about him.

The public manifestations of regard for Col. Boyd was an eloquent tribute to his abilities as well as to those other qualities for which the dead soldier, statesman and diplomat was celebrated.

Long prior to the hour set for the funeral the streets around the home residence of deceased were crowded with vehicles, while the procession itself was packed with ladies and gentlemen so that it was difficult to move about.

The body was encoined in a handsome casket which lay in a front room upstairs, and there was a profusion of flowers not only on the casket but on the floor and in various parts of the parlor, some of the designs being artistically constructed while the room diffused a grateful perfume on the oppressively warm atmosphere.

The choir, comprising Miss Lyie Shipp, soprano; Miss Josephine Anmoth, alto; Ed Tefft, tenor, and Harry A. Nelson, basso, sang "Nearer My Home is Jesus" in the most touching and tender way, the voices being perfectly attuned and effectively sympathetic.

Rev. George W. Hughes gave a brief prayer after which Rev. Dr. Crist read the 90th Psalm, which is a prayer of Moses touching the frailty of human life.

The choir sang "With Me" impressively, and Dr. Hughes read from the 14th chapter of John and 16th of First Corinthians.

Dr. Crist delivered a prayer, and the services at the house were concluded.

The legal profession was out in full force, the pall bearers being from the local bar and bench as follows: Prosecuting Attorney John H. Duncan, Ernest C. McAfee, Judge James T. Neville, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Perry T. Allen, George Pepperdine and Hon. R. U. Munsey.

The body was borne to the hearse followed by members of the family and relatives, and then the procession started for Hazelwood cemetery more than three miles away. The distance and dust deterred a great many from walking, but it is estimated that there were two hundred vehicles in line. It was an imposing spectacle and one that will not soon be forgotten by those who saw it.

At the grave Dr. Hughes read the burial service and the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," one of the most pathetic poems set to the tenderest music in the world, after which the multitude dispersed and left the ashes to their repose.

Members of the G. A. R. were present in large numbers, but took no active part in the obsequies.

BAR RECEPTION.

The Springfield bar held a meeting in the circuit court room yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Pepperdine called the meeting to order and after stating that the object of the meeting was to take some action on the death of Col. S. H. Boyd who had so long been an honored member, he asked Mr. J. C. Cravens to take the chair. On taking the chair Mr. Cravens in a short address paid a fitting and heartfelt tribute to the memory of Col. Boyd, whom he had known from early manhood.

Col. Almas Harrington also rose to pay a tribute to the man under whom he had served in war, and with whom he had long been associated in professional life. He closed by suggesting that the bar meet at 3:30 o'clock in the court room, where they had so often met Col. Boyd in life, and go in a body to the residence. On motion of Mr. Love the suggestion was adopted. Pursuant to a motion by Mr. C. W. Hamlin the clerk appointed Messrs. Harrington, Rathbun, Pepperline, Oliver and Judge Hubbard a committee to draft resolutions to be presented to a meeting of the bar tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Recess was then taken until 3:30 o'clock when about fifty members of the bar formed in front of the court house and walked to the Boyd residence.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

Chicago and Springfield Will Probably Grow Up Together Hereafter.

Yesterday at 2:30 o'clock p. m., H. H. Herrin, of Chicago, was united in marriage to Miss Myrle A. Morgan, of Greene county, at the residence of Mrs. Elson, No. 1201 Summit avenue, the ceremony being of a private nature, only intimate friends having been advised.

Rev. H. H. Hoads tied the nuptial knot as gracefully as though he had been in training for the pretty ceremony, and everything passed off as delightfully as a south wind blowing over banks of violets.

The groom is an ex-secretary of the late Jay Gould, while the bride, being of Missouri and of Greene county, needs no further endorsement.

ED WATSON'S SUICIDE.

He Takes His Life in Stone County.

Bad Health Was no Doubt the Cause.

Great Shock and Surprise to the Family—He Was Taking A Rest.

Broken down in health and despondent B. Edward D. Watson, son of Dr. L. T. Watson, took his life yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Harvey Marcey, his uncle, near Galena, Stone county.

As Galena is remote from a telegraph station it is impossible to obtain details, and a brief dispatch from Marionville conveyed the information to the family at 507 South street. The information was a great shock to the father and mother of the young man as it came like a thunderbolt, no one ever suspecting that Ed Watson had even dreamed of such a course of action.

The body will be brought here overland and will arrive to-day, when the funeral arrangements will be made.

Ed Watson had been in bad health for the last ten years and about six years ago suffered a sun stroke necessitating extensive medical treatment and it was feared at one time that the result would be much more than it was. Being more or less an invalid he at times would become gloomy and despondent but it was not suspected that he was tired of life.

He was a young man about 26 years old, popular and had lived all his life in this city. He was educated at Drury college and Fayette and had an extensive acquaintance in the city and state, although his disposition was retiring.

This week he was riding a bicycle, which was his chief recreation, when he fell and was badly bruised, although not seriously injured. He decided to take a vacation and rest up, going to his uncle's farm in Stone county where the tragedy took place.

Of late he had been engaged in the bicycle business and through his industry and energy was making the Watson cycle company a firm of some importance in the business world.

Dr. Watson, as is well known, is one of the wealthiest and most substantial citizens in Southwest Missouri and deceased was his only heir. As soon as the news of his death became known a number of friends of the family called to console them in their darkest hour.

Less than two months ago Col. S. H. Boyd's startling death took place in the same county and not a great distance from where Ed Watson died.

A later dispatch says that a pistol was used.

HIS BODY BROUGHT IN.

Ed Watson's Funeral Will Take Place To-day.

He Had Been Hunting Just Before Death.

Was in Low Spirits and Complained Of Severe Pains in His Head.

The remains of Ed Watson arrived in the city from Stone county yesterday and were taken to the family residence at once. The funeral will take place from the residence at 2 o'clock this afternoon and be buried at Hazlewood cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. R. S. Hunter and Rev. W. L. Winton.

Hervey Massey, uncle of deceased, accompanied the remains to this city which were brought up in a spring wagon. As Mr. Massey keeps an ice house on his farm it was possible to bring the remains here in good condition. No coffin was obtained until Springfield was reached.

It seems that on Friday morning Ed Watson and a number of others decided to hunt for awhile.

An old pistol was fired up which was used by the deceased. The party went out on a road and sat down to rest. Ed Watson finally got up and walked around to a tree top which was on the ground and which completely concealed him from view. He had not been there long before a pistol shot rang out and some one in the party said, "Let's go around and see what Ed has killed."

It was only a few steps and when they got there the deceased was just gasping for his last breath. He had shot himself through the head and death was almost instantaneous. It looked as if he had taken a seat on the ground before he fired the fatal shot. He had deliberately taken off his hat and placed it on the ground.

All the time deceased was at his uncle's he seemed depressed and dejected. He complained often of trouble with his head and he shot himself almost exactly where he said the pain was located.

Efforts to get him into conversation were futile. He simply answered "yes" or "no" in most cases, although at times he would brighten up for a few minutes, but would then drop back into silence. He received his injuries in the bicycle races held here on the Fourth, but it was only a few days before his death that he let it be known that he was ill.

The body was wrapped in blankets and ice and brought to this city at once. No inquest was held.

At the Dodson cemetery on Thursday afternoon, July 19, the remains of Mrs. Maud Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Patterson, were laid to rest in the presence of a large attendance of loving relatives and friends. The deceased was approaching her ninth birthday when death spoke the respiteless summons and called the little sufferer from the scene of earth. For about three months Mrs. had been suffering from a stroke of paralysis which no human skill could relieve. Slowly, patiently, bravely, the bright young life yielded to the fatal attack and at last rest and peace came to the body and soul. Within the cemetery near the old Dodson school house, where many of the families of the southern part of Greene county have buried loved ones in years gone by, stood a weeping group as the last rites of affection were paid to the remains of the departed. Tommy Cload conducted the singing of a hymn and Mr. W. K. Cox, grandfather of the deceased, spoke a few words of comfort to the bereaved family as the grave received its own. Among the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Patterson who attended the funeral were Mrs. William Homan and Mrs. Emma McCauley, of Springfield and Mrs. Mary Lowry, of Henderson. Mrs. Homan and Mrs. Lowry are sisters of Mrs. Patterson. Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of Mr. W. K. Cox, one of the pioneers of southwest Missouri, who lives near Clark in Christian county. She married Mr. Stanton Patterson, a member of a numerous and very respectable family, about 25 years ago. Several lovely children were the result of this union. Little Ed was next to the youngest.

MURDERED BY JOHN LIGHT

Robert Hodges slain Near His Home in Webster County.

Witnessed the Killing Under Arrest at Seymour.

SEYMOUR, Mo., July 23.—Robert M. Hodges was killed near his home, five miles southeast of here, by John W. Light last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Hodges was struck on the head with a rock, which fractured his skull, when he fell on his hands and knees and only lived a few minutes.

It appears that last February Hodges married a daughter of Albert Goforth, residing about five miles southeast of Seymour, and accompanied by George and William Goforth, sons of his father-in-law. Last winter John W. Light, a young man, aged 23 years, boarded with the Goforth family and shortly afterwards Hodges resided in the premises of Light that the Goforth family was milking his (Hodges) cow, which started a family feud.

Last Saturday morning John Light, accompanied by William and George Goforth, went to the house of Hodges to "clear up" the scandal. It was known what passed between the parties but shortly afterwards one of the men halloed to Mrs. Hodges, who was about 100 yards away, to come to the house. When she arrived the men were endeavoring to keep Mr. Hodges sitting up. Mrs. Hodges assisted them in the house with her husband, who breathed only twice after being placed upon a bed. Upon examination it was discovered that Hodges' skull had been crushed in on the left temple.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon John Light went to Seymour and surrendered, claiming that he had killed Hodges in self-defense. George and William Goforth were arrested, as the coroner's jury held that they were accessories before the fact. The preliminary examination of the three men will take place this morning, and in the meantime they are held under guard.

Hodges' marriage with Goforth's daughter was against the wishes of her father, and there has never been good feeling between them.

The Goforth boys deny having had anything to do with the affair, further than accompanying Light to "clear up" the scandal, which they claim was started by Hodges.

George and William Goforth are 19 and 25 years old respectively, while Light is about 22 years old. Hodges was a little over 40 years of age.

There is considerable excitement over the murder, and the outcome may result in other arrests.

Mrs. Martha A. Owen Found Dead In Bed.

Coroner Diemer Holds an Inquest. Heart Trouble.

Mrs. M. S. Nickell, Who Resided Near Jones Spring, Also Passed Away Suddenly.

Mrs. Martha A. Owen, wife of Wade Owen and mother of George Owen, deputy recorder of deeds, died suddenly Wednesday night at her home about six miles north of the city, age 58 years. Mrs. Owen had for over twenty years been afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism, and of late has been subject to smothering spells. Wednesday, however, she appeared to be in better health than usual, and at night retired in the best of spirits. At midnight she complained that she could not sleep on account of being disturbed by the howling of a dog. At 5 o'clock, when the girls went to call her, they were horrified at the discovery that during the night she had expired.

Coroner Diemer held an inquest yesterday afternoon before the following jury: A. M. Ritter, A. L. Diggs, James Miller, Wm. H. Fulbright, Homer O. Ritter and L. T. Kelson. The evidence was in accord with the above facts, and the jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to her death from organic disease of the heart.

Mrs. Owen was possessed of amiable and womanly qualities that won for her the esteem of all her acquaintances, who sympathize deeply with her sorrowing relatives.

about a month ago. After suffering untold privations the crew, becoming desperate, killed him in a fit and ate him. Three men, including the captain, were saved and returned to San Francisco, where they related the horrible details. Austin was 18 years old, an intelligent young man and was born in Christian county.

When the wreck came, on May 15, Captain Huntley and twenty-five men got in two boats and fifteen men in another. The boat in which the fifteen men were got separated from the other boat and the men have not been heard from since.

Captain Huntley's boat was started for Des Moines, which was 120 miles distant. Their provisions were very low. Captain Huntley writes this story:

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

"My boat captured May 20, and the crew and myself, thirteen men, were thrown into the sea. The other boat came quickly, but too late to save John White, William Fitzgerald, George Loy and Frank Murphy. May 21 we landed at Unwak Island, living there by gathering shell fish and catching and drying books of wire. Between May 21 and June 5 six men died of starvation. They were William Dory, Joseph Posa, Sam Mastafich, Austin Gideon, Henry Taylor and Pat Connolly. June 5 I selected a crew of five men, provisioned our boat with a fresh haul of cod fish and several gallons of fresh water, and reached Oonah-lash June 12. I reported to the Bear and Capt. Healey took us back to the island, where we found our men just able to crawl about."

WILLIAM ANDREW'S STORY.

"This part of the story I would rather not relate, for I found them in

The experience of the men on Unwak Island is thus described by William Andrews, one of the survivors: "After the Captain left for Oonah-lash we had but two fish books left. We could not depend on them for food. Shell-fish then became our food. We scoured the island for bivalves and soon exhausted the supply. There was a spring of water next to the dug-out. We almost died of water. June 10 our fishing line got caught in the rocks and was lost. We were so hungry that we were desperate, and we planned to exhum the body of Austin Gideon and devour it."

A PIONEER IS GONE.

Judge J. T. Morton Died At His 844 Home Yesterday.

WAS PROMINENT IN COUNTY HISTORY.

A Member of the County Court and Favored a Compromise of Railroad Bonds When That Issue Was Up.

Judge J. T. Morton died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, H. H. Westmoreland, six miles northeast of Springfield, aged 84 years. The funeral services will be conducted at the residence of Mr. Westmoreland at 4 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. Dr. Witt, after which the remains will be interred in the family cemetery.

Judge Morton was born in Rutherford county, Tenn., May 9, 1808. He received his education in Rutherford and Williamson counties. On June 21, 1838, he married Miss Lucinda Hancock, daughter of county, Tenn. Their union was blessed with one son, John A. Morton, who married Miss Margaret V. Logan, and died June 11, 1888, leaving three children. Soon after his marriage Judge Morton began farming in Marshall county and also owned a mill. In 1830 he came to Greene county, Mo., and settled upon the place where he died. Before the war he was extensively engaged in stock raising. During the war his sympathies were with the south, though not favoring a disruption of the union. For many years he was a director of the branch at Springfield of the State bank, where the Greene County bank is now located, and for four years was its president. In the fall of 1874 the judge was elected upon the democratic ticket one of the associate justices of the county court. In 1878 he cast in his resignation to Governor Phelps, but it was not accepted. He tendered his resignation a few months later and it was accepted. Ben Kite, the presiding justice, and Judge Morton favored a compromise on the railroad bond indebtedness by which they could have been settled for much less than the face value of the original bonds, by new bonds bearing six per cent interest instead of eight per cent, the original interest. A mass meeting was called by citizens opposed to the measure, and, as strong opposing action was taken by the meeting Judge Morton, believing his plan was best, resigned his position.

DEATH OF J. T. MORTON

The Judge Passes Away In His 87th Year.

He Will Be Buried In a Coffin
Selected By Himself.

He Was One of the Men Who Knew Greene County Must Pay Her Bonds.

After an illness of only three or four days Judge Joseph T. Morton, at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon, breathed his last at his home on the old Morton farm near the city, where he had resided for fifty-eight years, and on which he will be buried at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Last week he was stricken with the cholera morbus, and on account of his advanced age, little hope was entertained for his recovery from the start.

Judge Morton will be buried in a coffin selected by himself years ago, which he had stored away in his barn and covered with straw. The coffin was made of cedar, was lined and very substantial. Yesterday when H. H. Westmoreland and others went to the barn to get the coffin they found it in good condition and just as it had been left by Judge Morton many years ago. The linings had molded and decayed, but Ely Tasson soon repaired this and Judge Morton was placed in the coffin which he had selected for his long rest.

There were few men better known or better liked in Greene county than Judge Morton. He was born in Rutherford county, Tenn., May 9, 1808, and was therefore over 86 years of age. He received such education as was possible in Tennessee in those early days. On June 21, 1832, he married Lucinda Hancock, of Maury county. Their only son John A. Morton died in 1864, leaving three children. After farming and operating a mill in Marshall county Judge Morton in 1836 came to this county and purchased the old Morton farm where he resided until his death and where he will be buried to-day.

He engaged in stock raising and built up a reputation in the occupation. When the war came up his sympathies were with the South though he opposed a disruption of the Union.

For many years he was a director of the branch at Springfield of the old Missouri State bank, now the Greene county bank, and for four years was its president.

Although an earnest democrat and always interested in public matters Judge Morton was not a politician of the office-seeking kind and he held only one political office and in that stood for what he thought was right and which proved right in the end, although it made him very unpopular at the time and he resigned it rather than go against the interests of the county and pander to public favor.

In 1874 he was elected associate justice of the county court. Greene county was then in the midst of its railroad bonded debt excitement. The bondholders made the county court a proposition to compromise the payment of the bonds for much less than their face value and at a reduced rate of interest. Judge Morton believed the bonds would have to be paid and favored accepting the compromise.

A strong and mighty voice went up all over the county against such action and the people demanded that the county fight the bonds until the last. A monster mass meeting was held and Judge Morton was denounced in the strongest terms.

He saw that he could not convince the people and he would not do what his foresight into the future told him was wrong.

Judge Morton, therefore, resigned in 1878 but Gov. John S. Phelps positively refused to accept it. Judge Morton continued to serve a few months longer but there being no change in public sentiment on the bond question he again resigned and Gov. Phelps accepted it. If Judge Morton's views on the bond question had prevailed Greene county's debt would not be so large to-day.

His funeral will be conducted by the Masons and will be largely attended.

AN OLD CITIZEN GONE.

Wilson Edwards, 91, of Walnut Grove is Dead.

More About That Coffin
He Purchased.

Wilson Edwards, another old resident of Greene county, passed away at Walnut Grove Saturday night and was buried Sunday. He was 91 years old.

Judge Joseph T. Morton was buried at the farm on which he lived so many years Sunday. A large number of prominent citizens and old settlers were present. It took Eli Paxson twelve hours to get the coffin, which Judge Morton had bought and stored away, in order. In speaking of the affair yesterday, Mr. Paxson said that Judge Morton's idea for buying a coffin for himself first occurred at the funeral of William H. McAdams, a friend of Judge Morton, eight years ago. At the funeral Judge Morton was a pall bearer. He asked Mr. Paxson to prepare him a coffin for use on his death. "You can come around and trim it up," he said, "whenever it is necessary."

Ely Paxson moved from his stand about that time and another undertaker moved in. Judge Morton went into the old place one day and ordered his coffin. Nevertheless Ely Paxson fixed it up for use according to instructions.

ONE OF MANY CASES.
William A. Sarver was a veteran volunteer soldier in Co. I, 10th Regt. Ohio Vol. He applied for a pension but his claim was rejected and he died in this city on July 28th, 1894. His wife is left with three children and no means of support, except what she could earn, and that amount, in these times, was quite limited. Application was at once made by the widow for the pension the law provides for her and for her minor children—but the policy of delay, protraction and the pension is still withheld—for what reason no one can find out.
Last Friday, one of the children, Addie, aged 14, died from sickness, and was buried yesterday. Had the pension due them been granted to the widow as she had asked repeatedly of the pension bureau, it is very probable the life of this little girl might have been saved, as the money which is their due would have enabled the mother to procure the needed medical relief.

If "pardon and dishonor" attach to the legislation of congress under this "reform administration," in God's name what must attach to the administration of the pension laws? If the tariff law just passed is tainted with "pardon and dishonor" in deeper, darker stain must rest on the pension bureau for its robbery of the old veterans of their just dues, and the policy that deprives widows and orphans of what the law justly provides for them. This is a case about very dear that proves the unjust treatment of the soldier, his widows and orphans by this so-called "reform administration."

Injuries Sustained By a Fall.

He Was Badly Bruised and Broken Up.

The Interment Takes Place To-Day in the Confederate Cemetery.

Joseph Marple, the unfortunate man who fell from the scaffolding at the High school building Thursday morning, died yesterday afternoon just before 3 o'clock from the effects of his injuries. He was in a partly unconscious state during the morning, though every breath was a groan, and he seemed continually in intense agony. While the numerous wounds tended to weaken the system, internal injuries along the left side, caused by falling brick, was probably the cause of his death.

The accident, as viewed in retrospect, seems to have been due entirely to Marple's neglect in the construction of the scaffolding. When he first began its erection Thursday morning Building Inspector F. M. Shockley was on the ground and asked him if he knew anything of the state law relating to the construction of scaffolding and wooden supports of all sorts. Marple replied in the negative and Mr. Shockley took particular pains to impress upon him the method to be followed. Marple acquiesced in all that was said, and made several distinct changes in building, being careful to join the uprights with cleats on either side.

He followed out his painstaking method until the last cross-board was reached, and then, in his haste to finish, failed to nail it on tightly. But two nails on either end were used where at least a half dozen were necessary, and the split planks showed where they gave way under the strain. Marple himself after the accident spoke of his negligence in this respect.

The neighbors and sundry members of the teachers' institute are especially to be commended for the kindness and consideration they showed in caring for Mr. Marple and for their sympathy toward Mrs. Marple shown in word and deed.

Mr. Marple was 58 years of age; he has been married nearly thirty years and has two grown sons now in Texas. He was a member of the celebrated 33d Virginia regiment, known as the "Stonewall Brigade," and commanded by Stonewall Jackson of Lexington. Members of Camp L. C. Campbell, Confederate veterans' association, will meet at the residence, 953 north Jefferson street, promptly at 3 o'clock. H. B. Boudé, chaplain, will conduct the services at 3 o'clock and the interment will take place in the Confederate cemetery.

Before his death, Mr. Marple requested that the following to act as pall-bearers: T. J. Carter, T. H. Cox, J. W. Harris, M. D. Miller, X. Hawkins, J. E. Elliott.

Page 4: The first permanent settler in what is now Jasper county is said to have been Thacker Vivian who came from Kentucky and located where the Sarcxie railroad depot now is in 1830. About 40 years ago he moved to Texas. In 1833 more pioneers settled at Sarcxie. Abraham Onstott, father of Judge John Onstott, arrived from Indiana and settled south of Carthage. Judge Onstott has lived in the county longer than any other man.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Interesting Extracts from the Old Newspapers.

The City's Advantageous Geographical Location.

Even as a Country Town the Queen City Was the Market of a Wide Stretch of Country.

Mr. Paul Roulet has, at the request of THE DEMOCRAT prepared the following article on the history of Springfield, taken largely from pen pictures of the town published in various old newspapers of Missouri. It will certainly be interesting to the readers of to-day to know how Springfield looked in the thirties, forties and fifties. These antebellum pen pictures of the infant city were written in the spirit of perfect candor, no doubt, and they present the features of the Queen of the Southwest as they appeared to observers of that time.

VIEW TAKEN IN 1835. From the Neosho Herald.

"The editor of this paper in the fall of 1835, when in his seventeenth year, took a trip overland from Howard county, via Springfield, Mo., to Alexandria, Louisiana, and made the attempt to keep a daily journal. For the information of our Springfield contemporaries, who recently published very interesting statistics in regard to the growth, business and prospects of that flourishing young city, we make this extract from our Journal.

We arrived at Springfield on Wednesday, September 10, 1835. There are some eight or ten log cabins forming the place. There are three or four stores, two groceries, two blacksmith shops, and one tan yard. This is the first town ever seen in which the postoffice was kept in a grocery and this is the first postoffice we found after leaving Boonville. We remained in Springfield one night and part of one day, and were entertained by J. P. Campbell, the tavern keeper, whose table was as well supplied, we suppose, as the markets of the country afforded. The people seemed to have but little to do, and bustled about and did it.

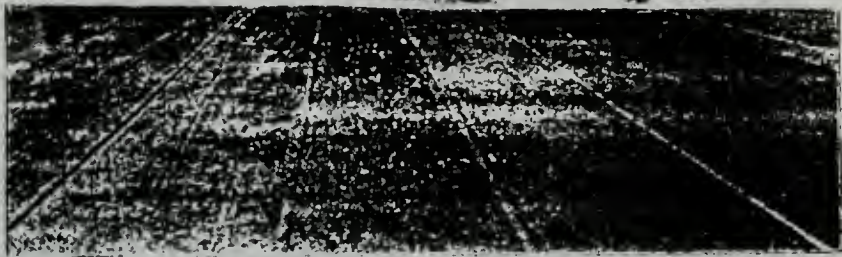

RAINY FISH IN THOSE DAYS.

When I awoke on the morning of the 17th I stepped out on the porch to wash, and found a heavy rain falling. A gentleman, a doctor, whose name I did not learn, came in haste from the extreme end of the porch, having in his hand a wash pan of water, which he had caught from the roof, and in this pan was a fish two inches long. The circumstance struck all with astonishment, and I never till then put any confidence in the stories of the clouds raining fish; but Mr. Campbell, the innkeeper, assured us he had witnessed a shower of snakes eighteen inches in length. And we believed it. By this time breakfast was announced, and the snake and fish stories were forgotten.

OLD DELAWARE TOWN.

Twelve miles from Springfield we passed an old place called "Delaware Town." This place was once an Indian village of considerable size and strength, but is now in a state of dilapidation and bears but a few evidences of its former greatness. There is a large creek (Wilson creek), running by this old town, and it is said that Indian graves are to be seen for four or five miles along the banks.

WEST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE.

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE.

PUBLIC SQUARE IN 1861.

THE NATIONAL CEMETERY.

Filed Oct. 10, 1867.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 10, 1867.

This flourishing town is situated in Greene county, near the Kickapoo Prairie, and on the road leading from St. Louis, Jefferson City and Boonville to Van Buren, Arkansas. It is handsomely located, and its streets and public square very judiciously arranged. The court house is placed in the center of the public square. It is a neat building, two stories high, and presents a handsome appearance. Around the square are located stores and various shops, together with a large hotel and the banking house. The hotel is kept by Gen. Smith—by the way, a very gentlemanly and clever man, and worthy a generous patronage.

The banking house is built of brick, facing the court house, and presents quite a splendid appearance. The building was put up under the superintendence of our townsman, William O'Young, Esq., and Mr. Birch, of Linn. As we have seldom, if ever, spoken favorably of banks, we rather looked at the building more on account of its beauty of architecture than for any particular love we had for the operations inside. However, we heard many speak of the very judicious, and at the same time, accommodating manner in which this institution is managed.

From the great amount of commerce and speculation in raising stock, which seems to be carried on in this section of our state, we are led to believe the branch bank at Springfield is the means of extending great facilities to the southwest.

A NOTED MAIL CENTER.

At this place, we were informed thirteen different mail routes entered and departed for various points in southwest Missouri and Arkansas. There are eight stores in the place, and all appear to do a very handsome business. As a commercial point, Springfield is the center of trade for much of not all of southwest Missouri, and in this respect has a decided advantage over other small towns in the location of the branch bank. The country around Springfield has a very good proportion of timber and prairie, and is every way adapted for the raising of stock for farming purposes.

The Springfield "Mirror," edited by James W. Borer, published December 12, 1887, a very interesting article on Springfield taken from the "Missouri Tribune." It will be observed from this sketch that Springfield in the 50's was a stirring inland town, had plenty of money, furnished abundance of employment to all at good wages, possessed a good moral sentiment which had banished all the saloons, reformed nearly all the tipplers, and was looking forward to a bright and prosperous future, even if its streets were not paved. Following is the sketch:

SPRINGFIELD.

In writing of this city it is not possible to say much in its favor as a town if we speak exclusively of its buildings, streets, etc. We have noticed in the other two journals published here articles on the town, its growth, new houses going up, etc. We have but little knowledge as to the number of new houses built during the past season. Springfield is, however, a place of note at a distance and strangers coming here are disappointed in not finding macadamized streets, paved sidewalks, a fine court house, and gorgeously decorated churches. On the other hand they see the residences of the citizens, not magnificent, are comfortable and contain an intelligent population.

The inhabitants of the city number about two thousand. It is built of pitchy pine lumber, and should a spark ever unfortunately wander in the wrong direction it may be the means of wiping out two-thirds of the pretty city. The business houses appear to have been built more to answer present wants than with a view to the transaction of the heavy business of the future.

In writing of this city one must to do it justice, say more than give the number of houses, population, etc., it contains. It is as a business point we desire to speak of it. The country surrounding it is far ahead of the town and has pushed it up to its present state without any effort at its advancement on the part of its own citizens. No steam mill is to be found here, and no enterprise is being carried forward to concentrate business at this point. Yet the location is such as to draw to it a large trade.

THE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.

"The citizen, however, should know that by a little effort and without sacrifice they could double the trade of the city. The business of Springfield amounts to about fifteen hundred thousand dollars annually. In this estimate is included its professional, mechanical, mercantile and stock transactions. There are here some dozen or fifteen dry goods stores, several of which do a forty thousand dollar business and on that realize a profit of about twelve thousand dollars annually. Think of that! Twelve thousand dollars made on a forty thousand dollar business year after year! At that rate we may expect to hear of merchant princes at no distant day in Springfield. The mechanics and merchants are all prospering, and most certainly they ought to, as they have for their customers as fine an as is to be found in any country. The business men are not surpassed by those of any city in the union. They answered the urgent and imploring calls of their creditors in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and St. Louis by paying their debts before they were due. There is a reason for Springfield having a celebrity and a name from home, when its business men are such as to cause the great cities of the seaboard to solicit its mercantile custom.

FARMERS WERE THE MONEY LOANERS.

"There are no private bankers. A branch of the Bank of the State of Missouri is located here. The farmers are the principal money lenders. Green county has sent to the southern market within three months five thousand head of mules and horses for which they are sold at one hundred dollars per head, the farmers will realize by the 1st of July five hundred thousand dollars. This sum will be paid in money, in gold and silver, as the farmers will not receive the "rags" of the banks for their property. Large returns are now being made in gold and silver for live stock sent to California last spring. Our readers will judge from what we have said whether or not Springfield is a place in which to do business.

ROOM FOR MORE MECHANICS.

"The town has a fine set of mechanics but there is room for more. Those that are here are kept constantly at work, and cannot answer the demands of the community. No country presents so good an opening for all descriptions of mechanics as this. They are paid liberal prices for their work, and in gold and silver. The misfortune is, the temptations of the rich soil are so great that most of the mechanics who come to this country abandon their trade and engage in agricultural pursuits.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

"With all the wealth of which we have been writing, there has not yet been erected college edifice in which to educate the young men. This is not for the want of a love of education, but it arises—and we are sorry to say so—from a spirit of rivalry, from two or more religious denominations. This declaration may not be acceptable to some, but we feel compelled to make it, because we believe it to be a fact.

"There are two good female schools here, one of which will equal any in the state, as it is taught by as ripe scholars as are to be found in the Mississippi valley. These schools are well patronized, and are making their impress upon the country.

"The young men are orderly and apply themselves to business. They spend their leisure time in reading and preparing for the active and busy scenes of life. There are to lure them from the paths calculated to lead them to the goal of prosperity and happiness.

"With the education of female society in the community a bright future awaits Springfield and the surrounding country. Upon the ladies depend the character of the men. They are the great regulators of human society—they wield their influence silently, but with effect.

The following statements are taken from the files of the Springfield "Mirror," January 2, 1858:

"In Greene county 2,044 persons paid a poll tax for the year 1858. The county paid revenue on 303,700 acres of land. There 1,389 negroes owned in the county besides $687,000 worth of personal property, and $413,944 of bonds, notes, bills, etc., making an aggregate of nearly $4,000,000. The tax paid to the State is $5,250, to the lunatic asylum $204, leaving for county purposes nearly $13,000.

"The amount of land may seem small to those unacquainted with the area of the county. It must not be forgotten that within the county the railroad claims 168,000 acres, while some 15,000 acres are classified as swamp land and can neither be entered nor considered as entirely vacant. Still there is a much larger amount of vacant land than we had supposed in the county.

"Over 1,000 yoke of oxen were collected and driven out of the county, mostly sold to the Santa Fe and Utah freighters at from $75 to $82.50 per yoke.

"Of horses and mules sold, the number approximates 1,400. Most of these have gone south to the cotton fields and sugar plantations of Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana. A portion of them accompanied the expedition to Utah to make and leave their bones to bleach upon the hills of the modern "Zion," while the residues have gone into the service of Uncle Sam in transferring his mails. The average price per head will not vary much from $140. The aggregate amount received from this live stock will probably reach $300,000. The almost total failure of the oat crop and an unusually short crop of corn no doubt materially lessened the number going south, as the stock could not be put in order for the trip without more cost than the prospective price would justify.

"No hogs have been driven out of the county. Pork has sold at $5 per hundred pounds, with a sufficient but not abundant supply. The crop of tobacco was about 25,000 pounds and will bring from 7 to 12cts in the leaf.

"Within the county are seventeen post offices. At Springfield there are 35 arrivals of regular mails each week with a corresponding number of departures.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE

"Our county court has lately determined to build a new court house and jail, and the contract has been let for $40,000. They have also appropriated $3,000 to Charles Sheppard and J. H. Kimbrough to purchase of Mr. Madden the lot on the northwest corner of College street and square for said court house."

The Springfield "Mirror" of December 25, 1858, has the following article on the population and business of the town:

"The population as reported falls short of 1,500, though many regard that as below the real number. In the mercantile line, we have sixteen houses doing an aggregate business of over three hundred thousand dollars, among which are included two drug establishments.

"Within our city limits are some ten carpenters, working upon average about fifty hands, unremittingly employed at remunerative wages. To these may be added one cabinet shop and one furniture establishment, both finding constant work and ready sale for their labor and wares.

"Seven blacksmith shops, employing over forty hands, with their ceaseless din and in full blast are within the corporation. Two tin shops with adequate force and constant business supply our wants and accommodate our necessities in that line. Two saddle and harness makers, with full stocks of material and supply of laborers meet the demands which their trade supplies. Wagons and buggies are made and repaired at three different establishments. Three taverns board the transient resident or minister to the weary traveler. There are three jewelry establishments in operation, at which everything in their line is fixed up. Two printing offices are doing a fair business, and supplying the community with the various news items of the day. At three churches is dispensed, or spiritual discipline enforced. There is Morgan's tailor shop, where the most unorth specimens of humanity can be rigged up so they will look like other people.

"We also have milliners, where the ladies can have their dresses made, old bonnets made new, and all the et ceteras pertaining to the business, done up in handsome style.

"There is a daguerrean gallery, where those desiring to change their ugly faces for a real handsome, life-like likeness can be accommodated.

"Farmers will be gratified to learn that Capt. Julian still keeps his carding machine in operation, and will be happy to accommodate them.

"There are also house and sign painters, one or two brick masons, a gunsmith and several plasterers.

"Then there is friend Hackney, who furnishes coverings for the head, and is doing a good business in making new hats out of old ones.

"Our butchers furnish us with meat, and three confectioneries do a good business. We have only one livery stable and another in course of erection, a land office and a bank. Three boot and shoe shops, where the barefooted can be shod and the "old shoe" renewed.

"There are the usual number of land agents who are ever ready to accommodate the public, either in selling a land warrant or paying taxes on land.

"Those wanting a new set of 'grinders' have only to call on Dr. Hinson, who will accommodate them."

"Of that useless commodity known as loafers we are extremely happy to say we have but few. Our people are a business people and but little use is found for such idle folks."

AT FIVE DIFFERENT SCHOOLS

the young idea is taught to shoot. Wholesome instruction is freely administered and the necessary flagellation is not withheld. Ten lawyers are intensely engaged in getting us into scrapes or out of them, while five doctors prescribe for our health, or physical disease, and four clergymen follow in their wake, encouraging us to hope for the best, at the same time cautioning us to prepare for the worst. The mystic brotherhood of Masons have set up their temple in our midst and the Odd Fellow has made his encampment here also. The Sons of Temperance weekly assemble to pledge anew their fidelity, while the Good Templars maintain the independence of their order, and by the aid of the smiles and well wishes of the fair sex are steadily moving forward in their great and good undertaking. We get along admirably without a dram shop. Those, however, who yet thirst can be comforted at an establishment just over the line of the corporation, beyond the "Dead Sea."

"Though the wheat crop of the year was good and large quantities could have been shipped we suppose very little wheat or flour has left the county. The cost of transportation forbids our merchants from attempting to compete in the market with those favored with railway facilities. Some dried fruit has been bought up and forwarded to St. Louis this fall. One house informed us they sent about 400 bushels. Tobacco, although much more abundantly raised here than formerly, is not shipped to any great extent. Our own citizens have turned their attention to the

and have driven off almost all other supplies. Messrs. J. H. Caynor & Co., of this place, have some $15,000 invested in this business. During the past season they employed some thirty hands, bought some 175,000 pounds of the raw material, and turned out nearly 800 boxes and half boxes of tobacco not surpassed, if equalled, by any tobacco sold in the west.

Our town is sadly in need of building mechanics. Not over half the jobs offered can be executed in time to suit those desiring to build. The most of the business houses around the square and on the principal streets are mere temporary structures and would be at once superseded by more handsome and durable edifices of brick or stone were it in the power of the owner to procure their erection.

"The city authorities are taking the first feeble steps toward permanent improvement of our streets, crossings and sidewalks, and we hope ere long to be relieved of the incessant watch imposed upon the pedestrian by mud holes, slits and mire."

"We are not yet in

to this place. When that event occurs a new era will draw upon our section. No part of our State will prosper more rapidly under the vivifying influence of railroads than the southwest, and no portion of the southwest would advance faster than Springfield. The transactions in real estate for the past year have reached $50,000, and with an assurance that a railroad would reach here in any reasonable time they would have been quadrupled. With her genial climate, her fruitful soil, her mineral wealth, her hardy, industrious, temperate and energetic people added to our ~~immense territory~~ ^{section} our section would in a very short space of time combine more of the substantial comforts and enjoyment of life than any portion of the west."

But a few years after this bright picture of Springfield was published the city passed through a baptism of fire, the terrible ordeal of civil war.

The war of secession broke out and Springfield, as the key to all Southwest Missouri, became the central point of attack and defense, and was in consequence exposed to numerous raids by Union and Confederate forces who held it in turn, inflicting great loss of property and even of life. All who could leave, escaped with what they could carry with them.

VIEW OF PUBLIC SQUARE IN 1861.

The view here reproduced appeared in "Harper's Weekly Magazine" in October 1861, and was furnished publication by a photographer whose studio can easily be seen in the picture, being the second story of the two-story frame now replaced by the Exchange bank, just across College street from the new court house, which will be easily recognized. In the center of the square stands the charred ruins of the old court house burned on the evening of October 28, 1861, by a poor maniac who had been arrested and confined there for raising a disturbance by cheering for Jeff Davis, Jesus Christ and the Devil. The attractive two-story brick building on the north side of the square, facing south, is the branch office of the Bank of Missouri, previously mentioned, now the site of the Greene County bank. This time, October, 1861, Springfield was a military camp. The dwelling houses of the citizens who had fled were occupied by soldiers. The civil powers were all paralyzed and interrupted. The county court had adjourned on the previous August and did not convene again until the following April. The battle of Wilson creek had been fought. Price had been master of the city after this battle until driven back by Gen'l Freemont in October, whose successor was in turn forced to withdraw on Dec. 28, 1861, by the return of Price. Again on Feb. 12 and 13, 1862, Price made hasty retreat from Springfield pursued by Gen. Curtis. At last the final raid was made. Security was again secured and prosperity returned to Springfield.

Mr. A. F. Ingram, publishing the Springfield "Weekly Gazette," gave, his readers May 28, 1864, the following article on the town from the Fort Scott "Press."

"SPRINGFIELD, MO."

"Last week we visited Springfield, Mo., and were surprised to witness the rapid and permanent progress of the place since the close of the war. We had not visited it since 1860. Then it was a small but flourishing little city, peopled in great part by worthy and enterprising citizens. Some of these are there now while others have never returned. The population they tell us is 5,000. If it were to judge by the appearance of the city as we approach it, we would put the number higher. The reason is this: The dwelling lots are all much larger than the majority of lots in cities, while the property holder holds as the case may be from two to four lots. This, of course, gives the city the appearance of being much larger; and this is no fault, for those owning the property, as a general thing, have built handsome dwellings, and are taking more than common pains to decorate and beautify their grounds.

This spring there is quite an effort, we should judge, on the part of citizens each to surpass his neighbor in beautifying his premises. This kind of improvement seems to be general. It is not only a credit to the city, but speaks volumes for her citizens. We do not know a city in that has the enticing appearance that Springfield has. We were pleased much beyond our expectations, not with the appearance alone, but with the bona fide worth of its citizens.

Scarcely have we ever met a more cordial and genial people than at Springfield. It is gratifying to a stranger to enter a place, especially in this western country, where he is made to feel in a short time perfectly at home. The people of Springfield we must say are exceptions. A stranger is taken by the hand and welcomed most heartily. They spare no pains to extend to him a cordiality that immediately places him upon a comfortable footing. In fact after a three day's stay in Springfield you almost feel like you had lived there for years, so agreeable are its people. Springfield is destined to be the metropolis of Wealth and capital, enterprise and intelligence are concentrating their forces at this point and ere long its guns will be heard all over this western country making the walls of older and larger cities tremble. We wish her every success. She deserves it, and may hope to be long and be happy enjoying the rich harvest that they must and will reap."

SOUTHWEST MISSOURI.

REMINISCENCES OF SPRINGFIELD.

Stories About the Town in an Early Day.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 1, 1894.

EDITOR BRIMFIELD DEMOCRAT: I was very much interested in yesterday while reading the Sunday Morning Democrat, some of the early history of Springfield. I am a living witness of some of the incidents you mention. I shall never forget the old wooden hotel building which stood on the north side of the square just where Roonville street begins. It was kept by a man named Lamb in the spring of 1857, when quite a number of us from Fayetteville stopped with him. We had started east to buy one year's supply of goods and had gone from here in a wagon to Springfield, thinking we could get from there to Jefferson City on the stage, then plying three times a week between the two towns.

To our great disappointment Mr. Lamb informed us that the roads were in such terrible condition between there and Jefferson that only mud wagons were being used and the best way for us to get there would be to get horses at a livery stable and ride on their backs to the mouth of Linn creek where we would be just in time to catch Capt. Vaughn's boat, the Regulator, which was plying between St. Louis and Osceola, Mo. So we got each man a horse and started out East street on our long and wearisome ride. I had not been on a horse for more than two years and I had a hard trotting pony and had $1,000 in gold belted around me (wish I had it now) and the ride came very near killing me. Such was life at that date. Then again I remember my next stop at Mr. Lamb's hotel, the memory for which will linger with me forever.

It was in March, 1858. I had staged it from Jefferson City to Springfield, being three days and three nights on the route, crowded up with eight other men in a very uncomfortable old stage coach, and when we arrived at Lamb's hotel I could not walk upstairs to my room but had to be carried, as my limbs were so badly cramped, and I am yet suffering from the effects of that terrible ride from Jefferson City and will never be well of it. I remember friend Hackney, the hatter, and love his very name for his kindness to my brother, P. P. Van Hooser, who was taken from here to Springfield as a prisoner in 1862 and died there in March, 1865. I shall never forget friend John H. Canor and McAdams and many other good people of that city who were once leading business men of the town. I shall never forget one other stage ride I took in February, 1865, from Springfield to Rolla in company with John Abbott, a merchant of the town, who was on his way east to buy his goods. He and I were the only passengers on the stage and we had a guard of federal soldiers to keep the "bush whackers" from capturing the mail, and Mr. Abbott and I sang songs within the coach to keep our courage up, while the soldiers galloped along behind the stage, where they could hear our songs, and occasionally they would cheer us and call for more. We rode all day and all night, and the next morning just before reaching Rolla we found a dead man lying on his face in the road with a bullet hole in the back of his head. Such was life in those days.

I notice you make mention of a crazy man setting fire to your court house during the war, and from your description of him he must have been the same crazy fool who set fire to our court house in Fayetteville in the spring of 1862. After Price and McCulloch had fallen back to the Boston mountains, south of this town, the first federals came in one night just about 8 o'clock, and as the advance guard was coming down our street this crazy man, whom no one here knew or from whence he had come, ran out in the street and called out in a loud voice: "Halt!" The soldiers called to know who he was, and he answered: "Jesus Christ," and started to run when they fired at him but missed him and he fell down in the street and yelled at the top of his voice, "Oh you have killed your grand mother." Several nights after this event he climbed up in the tower of our court house and built up a fire to warm by and when he found he was getting too warm he began to yell for help to get out of his prison, and the only way of escape for him was to climb down the lightning rod to the ground and he tore nearly all the skin off his hands in his descent. We never knew who he was or where he went to from here but from your account of him he must have been the same one who set fire to your court house.

Your paper is read here by a goodly number of our people, especially by those who desire the very latest news, which is sure to found in your columns each day. Your obedient servant,

J. H. VAN HOOSER.

P. S.—I have lived here fifty-five years, and I have often heard my wife's mother say that as she came from Springfield, Mo., in the spring of 1830 she only saw one house on the road between Springfield and Fayetteville. She was coming from Tennessee to this country and came by Springfield, Mo.

A LONG LIFE ENDED.

Chas. W. Crawford Dies in His 69th Year.

He Was an Old and Respected Citizen.

Was Once Collector of Greene County.
A Brief Sketch of His Life.

Charles W. Crawford died yesterday morning about 7 o'clock after an illness of several weeks. His death was not a surprise and Sunday afternoon it was known that his end was near. He was one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Greene county and his death is greatly regretted by his friends throughout this section. His funeral will take place to-day at 3 o'clock. He will be buried in the family cemetery.

Charles W. Crawford was born October 14, 1825, and was, therefore, 69 years old. He was the son of Charles and Lucy (McNeill) Crawford, of Robertson county, Tennessee, where he was born and where his parents rest. The deceased was educated in the public schools of Tennessee and at Walnut academy in Robertson county. Much of his life was devoted to school teaching. He first taught school in 1832 and continued until 1857 when he closed his last school in Cheatham county, Tennessee, and on April 28, of the same year he came to this city which has practically been his home ever since. Soon after his arrival here he married Sallie M., daughter of John H. and Nancy M. Holland's Jernigan and then went back to Tennessee but in November, 1857, he came back to Springfield and remained with his father-in-law until June, 1858, when he went down to Washington county and took charge of a school there called Union Institute which he conducted until 1861. In the first part of 1862 he came back to Springfield and lived upon a farm until 1864 when he became clerk in the quarantine department of the United States army whose headquarters were then in this city. He retained this position until the close of the civil war. After the war and until 1875 he was again engaged in teaching school. In 1871 he bought a farm two miles east of town and on the St. Louis road on which he has resided ever since and on which he died. Mrs. Crawford died in 1882, leaving six boys and one girl. In 1880 he was elected collector of Greene county and filled the place to the satisfaction of all. A. B. Crawford, his son, acted as his deputy. Mr. Crawford was a Mason and a man of high standing and strict honor. Of late years his health has been bad and much of his time has been spent in traveling.

Walnut street and was buried in Maple Park cemetery.

Marriage license: James Brand, 21, and Miss Artelia Crane, 13, both of Mumfords. Mrs. Phebe Foster, mother of the bride, gave her consent.

Frank Eastman, 32, died yesterday in Kansas City. He will be buried in Peoria, Ill. He was an engineer on the Memphis route.

DEATH OF C. W. CRAWFORD

One of the First School Teachers in Springfield.

Was Elected County Collector in 1890.
The funeral took place at the Masonic Fraternity.

Charles W. Crawford died about 7 o'clock yesterday morning of complications resulting from a attack of the grip last winter. In the sixty-ninth year of his age. A short time after temporarily recovering from the grip Mr. Crawford went to Florida and from there went to Nashville, Tenn., his native city. His health was not improved and he returned to Springfield. After remaining here a short time Mr. Crawford went to Denver, where it was hoped the mountain air would prove beneficial. During a stay of two months he gradually grew worse and returned to his farm two miles east of this city.

The funeral will take place from his residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon under auspices of the Masonic fraternity, assisted by Rev. C. V. Criss, of Grace M. E. church.

GEOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Charles W. Crawford was born in Robertson county, Tenn., October 14, 1825, and his parents are buried there.

Mr. Crawford received most of his education at Walnut academy in his native county, and began teaching school in 1845, continuing until 1857, when he closed his last school in Tennessee in Chestnut county. On April 28, 1857, Mr. Crawford reached Springfield, where he shortly afterwards married Mrs. Nannie M. Holland, daughter of John H. and Nancy M. (Holland) Jernigan, and then returned to Tennessee. In November, 1857, he returned to Springfield, stopping with his father in law until June, 1858, when he removed to Keokuk, Iowa. Washington, D. C., where he taught in a private school and in the Union institute, which he conducted until 1861. In January, 1861, Mr. Crawford returned to Springfield and remained on the farm of his father-in-law until September, 1861, when he accepted a clerkship in the quartermaster's department, then at Springfield, where he remained until the war closed. Mr. Crawford then taught school in and around Springfield until 1871, being one of the first teachers in this section, but did not move into the city until 1884. In 1884 he sold his property and purchased a farm two miles east of Springfield on the St. Louis road. Mr. Crawford was a staunch republican and in 1880 he was elected county collector on that ticket; was a prominent Mason, has been secretary of lodge and was regarded by all as an upright official and a thorough gentleman. Mr. Crawford leaves five sons and one daughter, the most prominent sons being A. R. Crawford, late cashier of the American National bank, and Rev. Charles D. Crawford, of Crested Butte, Col. Mrs. C. W. Crawford died July 17, 1897.

JOE WALTON DEAD.
An Inquest Held—Post-Mortem Examination—The Funeral
Joseph Walton, who was shot by the Applebys October 31 near the Gulf depot, died in St. John's hospital about 4 o'clock yesterday morning from the effects of his wounds.
Coroner Diemer held an inquest in the criminal court room yesterday afternoon before a jury consisting of J. H. Houston, J. C. Freeman, R. C. Vines, E. W. Watta, Joe Pollock and C. Greenlee.
His witnesses testified. Tom Appleby told R. H. Edmonson he had shot Walton. Witnesses said the deceased was unconscious when he reached him.

When Clyde Mack reached the scene the boy had a shot gun and his father a Winchester rifle.

Dr. J. K. Tefft held a post mortem examination and stated that the immediate cause of death was the shot which entered through the left eye lid.

George W. Arnold said Mr. Appleby admitted that he shot the boy.

Near Shanahan, a drummer on the Memphis route, testified that the Applebys shot first.

John Moran, a German, stated that Walton fled after the boy shot. They first used revolvers, when the boy went to the buggy, procured a shotgun and shot Walton. Mr. Appleby's last shot struck near the foot of the tree. Mr. Appleby used nothing but a pistol. The witness for the defense stated that the jury, after deliberating a few minutes, returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by the wounds at the hands of the boy, without any fault on the part of the defendant. In the afternoon, Mr. ex-federal soldier and his wife made last night to the funeral in the M.

FELLOWS' FUNERAL.

It Will Be Held at His Late Home This Afternoon.

Universal Sorrow Caused by His Death.

A Sketch of His Early Life and His Work in Springfield—Independent in Politics.

The funeral services of Col. H. F. Fellows, whose death was announced in THE DEMOCRAT yesterday morning, will be held at the family residence, 729 north Main street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will be at Maple Park cemetery.

Perhaps the death of no other citizen of Springfield would have caused more universal sorrow than that of Col. Fellows. He was universally loved by all classes of people, and was noted for his charitable acts. The poorer classes of the city, the laboring people especially, regarded him as a warm friend.

Homer Franklin Fellows was born in Tioga county, Pennsylvania, July 30, 1832. Johnathah Fellows, grandfather of Homer F., came from England prior to the revolution, and settled first in Connecticut, where Erastus Fellows, father of Homer F., was born. In 1815 they moved to Pennsylvania, where Erastus married Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, widow of Moses Johnson, who became the mother of Col. Fellows. Homer passed his early life in Wellsborough, where his father was hotel keeper and farmer. He worked on the farm in spring and summer and, during winter, attended the schools of his native town. He spent one year in a general merchandise store at the age of 18, then taught school one term at Osceola, Pa., at the conclusion of which he entered Genesee college, at Lima, N. Y., remaining one year. In 1853, at the age of 21, he started with a party to Texas, but changed his mind and went to Iowa. He had procured letters of introduction to some prominent gentlemen, including Gov. Grimes. Procuring an engagement as traveling salesman for Greer & Baum, of Burlington, he remained two years, till the firm dissolved. He then, on both sides, was in the mercantile business, and in 1854, was sent by Mr. Baum with a stock of goods to Charlton, Ia., where he remained a year and wound up the business when Baum sold out. He then came to this state and went into the real estate business with Messrs. Scheller & Baum, in Plattaburg, where he remained till 1857, when he established two other offices, one in Warsaw, Benton county, and another in Springfield, the firm then being Fellows, Todd & Robinson, he taking charge of the Springfield office. Col. Fellows was married November 18th, 1859, to Miss Vidle, daughter of the late Maj. R. J. McElhanev, of this city. She died at Springfield, October 10, 1859, leaving three daughters—Emma, Clara and Adah. He was again married August 18, 1872, to Miss Minnie L. Boyden, daughter of Capt. Ezekiel Boyden, of Peoria, Illinois. During the civil war Col. Fellows was engaged in the mercantile business at Rolla, Phelps county, but left there in 1864 to engage in the wholesale grocery business in St. Louis. He was associated with several different firms in St. Louis till the spring of 1867, when he moved to Arlington, then the Southwest Pacific railroad terminus, where he was interested in business. When the road was completed to Springfield he moved to this city, engaging in merchandising and erecting an elevator, which was burned in 1872. In December of that year he became superintendent of the Springfield wagon factory. Two years later he and his brother bought out the concern, assuming all liabilities. They are still conducting the factory, and the reputation of the "Springfield wagon" is well and most favorably known throughout the southwest. In 1865 Col. Fellows was a director of the Missouri Loan bank, and also of the Occidental Insurance company. He was lieutenant colonel of the 63d Missouri militia, called into active service on Price's raid into this state. In 1861 he was appointed register of lands by President Lincoln. He was elected mayor of Springfield in 1877, and re-elected by an increased majority in 1878. Few men had more of genuine public spirit than Col. Fellows, or were more ready to further public improvements by purse and personal action. He took a leading part in the construction of the Springfield street railway, and when the water-works question was agitated he led out in that enterprise, and paid for the carriages, out of his own pocket, to bring voters to the polls the day the question was carried in favor of the Perkins proposition to supply the city with water. He was a Mason and an Odd Fellow, and a member of the Brotherhood of Druids and Knights of Honor. He was liberal in his religious opinions, and willing that all men should do their own thinking.

In politics Col. Fellows was noted for his independence. He was originally a republican, but of late years had affiliated with the various third party movements, being an earnest advocate of a paper money system independent of national banks. Every acquaintance of all political beliefs accorded him respect, and although his party was always in the hopeless minority, he came near being elected state senator from this district at one time, and also run a remarkably strong race for congress. He was several times elected as a member of the city council, and was once mayor of Springfield.

It was often related by Col. Fellows, with justifiable pride, that at the time Abraham Lincoln first ran for president he cast one of the three votes cast for that great man in Greene county. The other two were the late John M. Richardson and a man named Ragdale.

After the death of his second wife Col. Fellows was married a few years ago to Mrs. Jackson, who is still living.

Col. D. Wishart and L. M. Combs, of St. Louis, who are partners in the Springfield wagon company and warm friends of Col. Fellows will arrive this morning to attend the funeral.

Col. H. F. Fellows Died Yesterday Morning at 3:00.

He Was Born in Illinois and Settled in Springfield for a Number of Years.

Every heart was saddened yesterday by the news that Col. H. F. Fellows was dead. He was only five days, and death resulted from ulceration of the stomach. In his death Springfield lost one of its most public spirited and progressive citizens. The funeral was held from his late home on North Main street at 2 o'clock this afternoon, after which the remains will be laid to rest in Maple Park cemetery.

Col. Homer Franklin Fellows was born in Wellsboro, Tioga county, Pa., July 27, 1837, where he passed his early life, his father being a farmer and hotel keeper. At the age of 15 years Col. Fellows clerked in a store, taught school a year at Illinois, Ill., and afterwards entered Geneva College at Lima, N. Y. In 1853 he started with a party to Texas, but changed his mind and went to Iowa. He had prepared letters of introduction to some prominent gentlemen, including Governor Lincoln, and secured a situation as traveling salesman for Green & Thurman of Burlington. The colonel afterwards removed to Harrison, Ia., and in 1855 he located at Pottsville, Mo., and engaged in the real estate business. In 1857 he established two other offices, one in Warsaw and another in Springfield. On November 18, 1859, Col. Fellows married Miss V. die, daughter of the late Major G. J. Hollingsworth. She died in Springfield October 10, 1893, leaving three daughters—Emma, Clara and Ada. He was again married August 18, 1872, to Miss Minnie L. Boyden, of Peoria, Ill., daughter of Capt. E. Boyden, who recently died at Neosho. During the war Col. Fellows was engaged in merchandising at Keokuk, but he left there in 1861 to engage in the wholesale grocery business in St. Louis. In the spring of 1867 he removed to Arlington, then the terminus of the South west Pacific railroad. When the road was completed to Springfield he located here, engaged in merchandising and erected an elevator, which was burned in 1872. In December of that year he became superintendent of the Springfield wagon factory. He was lieutenant colonel of the State militia. In 1862 he was appointed register of the United States land office here by President Lincoln, he being one of the forty-two Republicans who cast their vote in Greene county for the president at that time. The Colonel was elected mayor by the Republicans in 1877 and 1878. Years afterwards Col. Fellows was an ardent grandfather, ran for state senator and was defeated. He took a leading part in the construction of the Springfield street railway line and the present water works is due to his energy and enterprise. The deceased was a member of several secret societies—a Mason, an Odd Fellow, Brotherhood of Druids and Knights of Honor. He was liberal in his religious opinions and willing that all persons should do their own thinking.

THE DEMOCRAT: SPRINGFIELD, MO.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 14, 1894.

CYRUS PEABODY DEAD

A Lifetime Printer and Newspaper Man.

With the Springfield Press Since 1887.

Was an Honored and Respected Citizen and an Ex-Member of the City Council.

Cyrus Peabody died at 3:15 yesterday morning at his home on north Campbell street of Bright's disease after a lingering illness that has confined him bed for several weeks.

An official call has been made for the officers and members of the Gate of Temple Lodge A. F. and A. M. by E. M. Doolittle, W. M., and W. M. Dyer, secretary, to meet at their hall on Commercial street this afternoon at 1 o'clock and attend the funeral in a body. The remains will be buried in Hazelwood cemetery.

Cyrus Peabody, born September 28, 1823, and was the son of Thomas Peabody and grandson of John Peabody, of Lebanon, N. H.

In the fall of 1840 he was apprenticed to Cyrus Barton, editor and proprietor of the New Hampshire Patriot and State Gazette, published at Concord, N. H., and worked as a printer in Boston, Worcester, West Brookfield, Cambridge, Mass., Bradford and Newberry, Vt.

In 1846 he married Francis Ann Locke, of Boston, at Newberry and removed to Concord, N. H. In 1850, with wife and two children, he removed to a farm in Clayton township, Genesee county, Mich., where he resided until the spring of 1883, when, in connection with Royal W. Jenoy, he assumed the publication of the Genesee Democrat, at Flint, Mich., in the capacity of editor, and vigorously supported the candidacy of James Buchanan for president in the campaign of 1856. He originated and published the first daily newspaper ever printed in Flint called The Daily News.

In 1860 Mr. Peabody bought the Pontiac Jacksonian, published at Pontiac, Oakland county, Mich., and supported Stephen A. Douglass in his agency against Abraham Lincoln. In 1864 he sold his interest in the Jacksonian and accepted editorial charge of the Detroit Daily Union, an evening paper then just started as the organ of workmen, but soon made a democratic paper. For nearly seven years Mr. Peabody had editorial charge of this paper, when, through what he considered ill treatment by its proprietors, he resigned and removed to Walled Lake, Oakland county, and bought a hotel, converting it into a pleasure resort. It was a losing business, and in the summer of 1870 he succeeded in exchanging it for a small farm at Rolla, Mo., which he occupied with his sons and their families for some three years, when he removed to West Plains, Howell county, Mo., where for a year or two he was employed as editor of the Journal, and subsequently one of a company of five that owned and published the Gazette, he being its editor, and the paper democratic. Some of the partners were political aspirants and wanted the paper run in the interest of a "ring." Mr. Peabody demurred, and a quarrel ensued, the result of which was his withdrawal, and purchase of the Index at Willow Springs in the same county. This he published, as also for a short time a paper at Mountain Grove, Mo., in connection.

About 1887 he sold out and removed to Springfield, Mo., and engaged as writer for various daily papers, and for a year or two being part owner and principal editor of the Journal, an evening paper.

Mr. Peabody never aspired to or held many official positions. He was prominent in conventions of his party; was a delegate to the Louisville "straight out" democratic convention that nominated Charles O'Connor for the presidency to run against Greeley and Grant, and a candidate for auditor general on the O'Connor Michigan state ticket; was mayor of West Plains, and a member of the city council of Springfield for two or three years.

December 2, 1894

On Tuesday afternoon the wedding of Miss Mary P. Harrell and Mr. J. Armistead occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Spivey on Main Street. The house was prettily decorated with potted plants and smilax the front bay window being effectively banked with blooming begonias and geraniums and trailed with smilax, while vases of roses and ferns here and there heightened the effect. The dining room was embellished with chrysanthemums and smilax, the table being entirely in white and green with these beautiful fall blossoms and foliage. At three and a half o'clock the simple but impressive wedding service was read by Rev. Houde of Westminster church in the presence of only the immediate family. After the loving congratulations the family and Rev. and Mrs. Houde sat down to an elaborate wedding supper which was served in courses daintily and excellently. The newly married couple received a number of lovely remembrances from the friends who were allowed to share of the happy event. The bride as Mrs. Spivey's sister and guest for a couple of months has made a number of new friends who extend their most sincere wishes. The groom is a nephew of Mr. Armistead, of Arkansas, and as deputy secretary of state in Little Rock justly claims a large circle of friends who will welcome his fair bride most cordially. Mr. and Mrs. Armistead departed on the evening train for a brief wedding trip and after December 10, will be at home in Little Rock. The bride was attired in a becoming and exquisite dress of cream china silk with trimmings of filmy lace and ribbon, the draped skirt being caught with bows and loopings. She wore in her hair a single white rose and carried a huge bunch carelessly tied with ribbon. Her going away gown was of green and brown cloth with trimmings of green velvet, with hat and gloves to correspond.

A. S. Sweet died and was buried in Maple Park cemetery.

bad habits, and he was of an economical nature, never spending money foolishly. His parents are well to do, and are influential people. He has a brother, who is president of a bank at Paducah, Ky. He himself used to be the manager at Sedalia for the R. G. Dunn company, and while in their employe was regarded as a capable and honest employe.

"We supposed," continued Mr. Young, "that when he left here he had gone directly home, but if he had been in the North Springfield hotel for some days when his body was found it cannot be that he went home. As to the poison theory, if any traces of poison are found when a chemical analysis is made of his stomach, you may be sure no one but Guy Cope put it there. He had not an enemy on earth that I know of. It may be that despondency, with which he has been suffering ever since his trouble last spring, drove him to suicide. For a young man—he was only 24 years of age—he had as bright prospects as anyone, but he seemed to fear not the outcome of his trial next January, but the fact that the imputed crime would hang over and to some extent, at least, blight his whole future life. This was the only thing that worried him, and it may be that it drove him to self-destruction."

Members of Mr. Young's family all spoke in the highest terms of Guy Cope and expressed the most sincere regret at his untimely death.

THE EMPLOYER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. McKittrick Speaks of Cope's Alleged Defalcation.

Thomas H. McKittrick, vice president of the Hargadine-McKittrick dry goods company, said Sunday night to a St. Louis Republic reporter, that young Cope formerly held a confidential position with that corporation. A few months ago it was discovered that he was a defaulter to the amount of about $1,000. When confronted with the fact, Cope behaved in such a way that his employers felt that there remained no other course than to institute criminal proceedings and a warrant was accordingly procured and Cope was arrested. He confessed his guilt in the presence of Mr. McKittrick and Chief Desmond and was released on bond. The case is still before the criminal court, the trial having been postponed once or twice. No compromise of any sort has ever been made, and the affair remains in the shape in which it was when the arrest was made last September.

Mr. McKittrick says that Cope was in St. Louis a few weeks ago and had an interview with him, in which promises were made that the shortage would soon be adjusted, but nothing definite was done about it. Cope has not been connected with the Hargadine-McKittrick company since the discovery of the defalcation last September.

he held until September 13.

The testimony of Dr. J. E. Tefft at the coroner's inquest yesterday morning was as follows:

"I held a post mortem yesterday at 2 p.m. of the body of Guy Cope. The body was quite fresh and a considerable quantity of frothy mucus was discharged from the mouth. The skin was livid and the brain showed an enormous congestion. I am unable to state the cause of death. I can give no opinion as to the cause of death as I did not examine the contents of the stomach. I discovered no marks of violence nor were there any indications of violence or fatal disease."

When asked if congestion of the brain could have caused the death Dr. Tefft said:

"Had death been caused by congestion of the brain there would probably be arterial congestion effusion into the ventricles or in the subarachnoid space or a deposit of lymph upon the external or internal free surfaces which was not present."

The funeral services of Guy Cope will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Dr. E. H. McInnis, 121 South Grant street. Miss Edith White, to whom Guy Cope was to have been married December 13, and her father have arrived from Pierce City to attend the funeral.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

Cope Was Arrested Last September, But Was Released on Bond.

One night about three months ago, says the St. Louis Republic, Chief of Detectives William A. Desmond received a telephone message calling him to the office of the Hargadine-McKittrick company. After an absence of two hours he returned with Guy Cope as a prisoner, and a member of the firm, who had preferred a charge of embezzlement against the young man. The story of the arrest given out at that time was that Cope was in custody because his accounts showed a shortage of $1,000 that he could not explain. He had been with the firm for some time and held the position of accountant and collector. About the middle of August the young man was sent southwest among the customers of the firm on a collecting tour. When he returned and made an accounting the alleged shortage was discovered. The arrest followed.

Cope denied that he was guilty of embezzlement, but could not or would not explain the shortage. Finally, as a last resort, after the young man had spent a night in the "holdover," a warrant was sworn out against him.

When Cope was arrested it was known that he was engaged to be married to the daughter of a prominent Missourian. His friends gave out the story that he had taken the money to furnish a home and that he had intended to replace it before the embezzlement could be discovered. Another story given out was that the young man had been speculating in real estate. Becoming involved in some complication which needed money to straighten out, just at a period when he was without means, he had appropriated the $1,000 as a loan and intended to replace it in a day or two, but failed to secure money that he had been expecting.

Cope was well known in the social world of St. Louis. He lived at 1727 Wagoner place. His arrest and the subsequent developments created a sensation among the people who knew him. He had always been regarded as an honest and trustworthy young man. He did not drink or gamble and cared nothing for the society of fast men or women. As far as known he had no vices.

Cope is well connected. His father is one of the leading financiers of Springfield, Mo. He has a brother who is president of one of the leading banks of Paducah, Ky.

Cope was an expert accountant and had a good education.

TOLD BY A FRIEND.

J. H. Young Speaks Highly of Cope's Character and Habits.

When a St. Louis Republic reporter called at 1727 Wagoner place Sunday night, J. H. Young, who occupies the beautiful residence at that number, had just finished reading a telegram from Springfield, signed by a member of Guy Cope's family, and conveying the intelligence of his death. The message simply said:

"Guy is dead. Come down if possible."

"I don't know when I have received any news that was as great a surprise to me or that affected me as much as this," said Mr. Young. "Guy came to our house about 18 months ago, and has lived here ever since. He always made periodic visits to his home at Springfield, continuing them since his trouble with the Hargadine-McKittrick Company last September. About two weeks ago he left here for his home, and we have heard nothing from him since that time until to-night. He was to have been married Wednesday to a young lady of Pierce City, Mo. She is a daughter of one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens of that place, and the fact that her parents were willing to have the marriage ceremony proceed in spite of the cloud that was hanging over the young man's head is, I think, a good evidence of his general good character and trustworthiness. The young folks were to have been married last October, but when this trouble came up he insisted that the affair be postponed for awhile."

"During the time that Guy lived with us," continued Mr. Young, "his behavior was most exemplary. He scarcely ever went out at nights, and when he did he returned to the house early. He was reticent about his private affairs, and I know hardly anything about them. When his trouble came up he merely told us that he was innocent of any wrong doing, and that the truth would come out in time, and that was all he said about it. I even learned from other lips than his that he had employed Attorney Thomas Harvey to defend him, and that he had been released from custody under $800 bond, Mr. Theodore Shelton being his bondsman."

"Ever since his trouble he has been despondent. He has, so far as I know, made no attempt to secure other employment, and seemed to put in the most of his time brooding over his troubles. He has, as I have said, no

HE WAS FOUND DEAD

Guy Cope Passes Away in a Hotel

A Congestive Attack Was Probably the Cause

It Was a Great Surprise and Caused Suicide Rumors.

Spoken of Very Highly in St. Louis.
A Talk By His Former Employer.

At 10 o'clock Sunday morning when the porter at the Ozark hotel was making the last call for breakfast repeated raps at the door of the room occupied by Guy Cope were unanswered and, as is customary at that hour, the porter entered the room where he found the corpse of Guy Cope in the bed. There was no evidence of violence nor indications of suicide. The body was warm when discovered which showed that life had not long been extinct and though all indications are that death came from natural causes there is some mystery surrounding the circumstances which have caused a rumor that suicide was the cause of the death.

When the body was found Coroner Ormabee was notified, who summoned J. E. Atkinson, Z. T. Brady, M. D. Dillard, James Robbins, Amos Reed and D. H. Nichols on a jury and began taking testimony, but before the investigation had gone far the jury adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock yesterday morning to await the result of a post mortem examination.

The report made by Dr. Tefft, to the coroner's jury yesterday, who conducted the post mortem examination, disclosed nothing to indicate what caused the death. There was no sign of poison discovered and Dr. Tefft advanced no opinion to the coroner as to the reason of the death. A chemical examination of the stomach will probably be held, but Prof. E. M. Shepard, of Drury college, the only person in Springfield who is capable of making such an examination, refuses to do so unless ordered by private parties, as the last examination of the kind he made at the request of the coroner the county court refused to allow his bill. It is likely the relatives of the deceased will have the examination made.

It is not believed by the friends and relatives of Cope that other than natural causes were the reasons of the death although known to be in trouble. He went to the Ozark hotel last Thursday night. He had been in the city visiting his parents and intended to go to St. Louis Thursday night to meet the senior member of the Hargadine-McKittrick dry goods company, who had promised to publish a statement in the Sunday morning papers exonerating him of charges which had been made against him by that company and Cope was to read the statement before it went to press. He arrived at the Frisco depot Thursday night too late for the train and consequently went to the Ozark hotel and being in ill health the St. Louis trip was postponed from day to day. Saturday afternoon Cope was complaining of ill health and did not leave the room. He was repeatedly requested by the hotel employees who attended him to send for a physician but he refused to do so.

The most probable cause of the death is an acute attack of congestion of the bowels and stomach. He has been subjected to such attacks for some time and just fourteen days before the lifeless body was found in the Ozark hotel he was most seriously stricken with congestion in Oswego, Kansas, and was unconscious for several days. Physicians say that such an attack may have caused the death Sunday morning.

Guy Cope, who at the time of his death was about 37 years old, had lived in Springfield most of his life, having come here from Paducah, Ky., with his parents about thirteen years ago. He was educated at Drury college and entered business life as a clerk in the local office of the R. G. Dunn Mercantile company. By close business methods and strict confinement to duty he was soon promoted to manager of the office of that company at Sedalia, Mo., which position he held until about two years ago when he resigned to accept a position as traveling collector for the Hargadine-McKittrick dry goods company which position

DEATH OF GUY COPE

Found Dead in Bed at the Ozark Hotel.

Cause of Death Not Yet Fully Determined.

Was to Have Been Married Tomorrow —Troubles Weighed Upon His Mind—Coroner's Inquest.

The city was shocked on Sunday morning by the report of the sudden death of Guy Cope at the Ozark hotel. He had been in the city visiting his relatives, and had, left, it was supposed, for St. Louis Friday evening. Instead of leaving he went to the Ozark hotel, where he was found dead Sunday morning. It is thought he missed the train, as he was certainly late in starting for it. At the Ozark he retired, but before morning he rang up the bell-boy and asked for water, said he had a chill. He remained in his room the next day, and appeared to be ill; but declined all assistance, and did not call a doctor. The next morning he was found dead. His position in bed did not indicate that he died from suffering, nor were there any indications of any kind that he had taken his own life; yet the report got out that he committed suicide. The coroner called a jury and began an inquest, which has not yet been completed. It is not, however, believed by any who know all the circumstances that he did anything to hasten his death, unless he did it under the hallucination of a disordered brain. He was to have been married tomorrow to Miss Edith White, of Peoria City, and he expected, as he said, to see mothers with his former employers all straightened out and restored to his old or to a better position with them. There are circumstances about this matter that have not as yet been made clear.

It will be remembered that about two months ago he was charged with having embezzled $1,000. of his employer, Margaret McKinnis's, money. The question was a great blow to him, and his friends as nearly unbalanced his mind, to refuse a dollar of compensation and insisted upon a full examination of the accounts. The matter however, not yet to have been settled, as members of the firm still say the charges are against him; but he and his friends have stoutly maintained his innocence and that the defalcation is an error or malicious perversion of the accounts on the part of some one else connected with or employed by the company.

the charge made against him and his inability to straighten it out weighed upon his mind, made him despondent, and, in the opinion of some who were at home with him, rightly at times, whether the charges were false or not, they may reasonably be considered the cause of his death, whether by suicide or otherwise. This our father believes.

Guy Cope was 23 years old. He was born at Paducah, Kentucky to Springfield, studied in Henry, entered the employ of R. C. Linn, A. C. here, and was promoted to the management of an agency at Seattle and left there to accept the position he held at St. Louis up to the time of the trouble already mentioned. He always maintained the best of a reputation, and was a most capable and worthy man in every position he ever held, and was universally trusted. His death is a blow to his family and to a large circle of friends.

He leaves a father and mother, five brothers—Haleam E., cashier of the Springfield Cream company; M. W. Cope, president of the Paducah National bank; John Cope, of Arkansas; Walton Cope, Fort Smith, and Henry Cope, timber merchant, of Hardy, Ark. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. E. J. Mullikin, of Chicago; Mrs. Helen Townsend, of Hardy, Ark., and Mrs. E. C. Clifton, of St. Joseph.

The Friday night, the black doctor called me to his room and ordered a pitcher of water. I said he was having a chill and was very sick. I asked him if I should call a doctor and he said "no." He looked very pale and appeared to be trembling. On Saturday I visited his room several times and asked him if I should not call a doctor but he would not permit me to do so. On Saturday evening I was again called to the room and deceased ordered a cup of tea and some water. Did not see him again till next morning when I went to his room, No. 34, at 8:45 o'clock. His room was lighted on the south side of the building and over the new porch-just being built. I went to the door and rapped. After rapping several times I looked over the door. Went down stairs and told Mr. Knicker. He believed that man was dead. We both went up and out on the new porch. The shutters were not fastened as the hinges are broken. Pushed them apart, raised the window and saw the body lying flat upon its back straight in bed. There was bloody looking froth at the mouth.

"A. L. Knight, proprietor of the Ozark hotel: 'Guy Cope came to my house at 9:45 p. m. Thursday and was assigned to room No. 24 by my clerk. I did not see him until I saw him dead in bed Sunday morning.' The balance of Mr. Knight's testimony is about the same as that of his colored porter, Fred Dr. Tarr testified as follows: "I made a postmortem examination at 3 p.m. Sunday of the body of Myrta Cope. Body was quite rigid and considerable quantity of frothy mucus was discharging from his mouth. The skin was livid, the brain showed an enlargement of the fluid thick blood. The diseased condition of liver peritonitis or appendicitis. Stomach was congested and there was chills to the surface. The examination disclosed a dilated condition of the stomach. There was no evidence of any other disease. I am not familiar with the contents of the archaoides upon the external free surface, which was not present."

When Dr. Ormsbee viewed the body he found a small empty pasteboard box in his vest pocket, which hung on the wall. The box was marked, "one capsule once in 3 hr." There was also a gold watch wound up and running. About $3 in cash was also in his pockets. There was a small, round paper box on the washstand marked, "4 gr. quinine capsule." His grip sack contained a ring, revolver, some clothing and several telegrams.

Owing to the absence of some important witnesses the inquest was adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

The remains will be interred in Maple Park cemetery at 3 p. m. today.

TWO SUDDEN DEATHS.

Asa Rogers and Helena Cook Pass Quickly Away.

Jury Unable to Agree as to the First Cause—The Second Was Apoplexy.

Asa Rogers, a day laborer, residing at 621 West Lynn street, was found dead in bed at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. It seems he had been sick for some time and his wife had given him several heavy doses of morphine, from which it is more than likely that death resulted.

County Coroner Ormsbee was called to the house about 5 a. m. yesterday and after viewing the dead body summoned the following jury: D. H. Nichols, D. W. Dillard, H. H. Washburn, J. T. Carr, Amos Reed and A. W. Waddle. The jury went down to the residence and after viewing the body retired to White's undertaking establishment and heard the evidence in the case.

Sarah Rogers, wife of the deceased was called and testified that her husband had been in poor health for about eight years but was worse than usual Sunday. She said she gave him a small dose of morphine at 7 o'clock and at 9 Sunday evening. Had she purchased ten cents worth of morphine at Braisher's drug store Sunday. Said her husband was 52 old years and had a son 15 years of age. She said her husband had lived together very happily for 13 years.

Eliza Wheelie said she was at Rogers' house Saturday until Monday. She was at the house Sunday night and slept with Mrs. Rogers in the same room with deceased. Went to sleep about twelve o'clock and was awakened by Mrs. Rogers about 4 or 5 in the morning, who told her that Rogers was dead.

Mrs. Hulbert, who lives on the corner of Lynn and Grant streets, said she had known the Rogers family for about five years; saw deceased Sunday, and did not think he was any worse than usual; was there at 3 p. m. Sunday, and Mrs. Rogers had gone for morphine. Asked her, when she returned, to give me the morphine and let me look it up, as I did not think she knew how to give it, and it was unsafe. At 6 o'clock Monday morning Mrs. Rogers came to my house and told me he was dead. I have had no trouble with Mrs. Rogers. Deceased drew a pension of $3 per month, and had applied for an increase.

Thomas Olmsted testified to having stayed all night at the place and to have seen him sleep at 12 o'clock and to have been awakened at 4 by Mrs. Rogers. He said that her husband was dead and that on Sunday evening Mrs. Rogers gave her husband a dose of morphine at 7 o'clock, and then left the house. He said the Helixikon drug store was closed at 10 o'clock, and that the Rogers family lived at 621 West Lynn street. He said he had known the Rogers family for about five years, and that he had seen deceased Sunday, and that he did not think he was any worse than usual.

AN UNKNOWN CAUSE

The Verdict of the Jury in the Cope Inquest.

Guy Cope Had a Contract Exonerat- ing Him of Any Wrong to His Employers.

The jury summoned by the coroner Sunday to investigate the cause of the death of Guy Cope, who was found dead in the Ozark hotel last Sunday morning reconvened yesterday morning and finished taking evidence in the case. Several witnesses were examined but nothing new was revealed except by the testimony of S. P. Jones, a man who travels out of Chicago, and who was well acquainted with deceased.

Mr. Jones said that about three weeks ago he was going from Springfield to Peoria City and that Guy Cope was on the train. In speaking of the case pending against him in the St. Louis court of criminal correction, wherein the Hargadine-McKittick dry goods company were the complainants, charging him with embezzlement Mr. Cope said it had all been amicably settled and showed him a contract from the senior member of the Hargadine-McKittick company which was marked "duplicate" wherein the dry goods concern agreed to give him $10,000 of the stock in the company together with $1,000 for expenses incurred by him by the action of the company in having him arrested. Cope was to be given the position of secretary of the company at a salary of $4,000 per year. The compromise was to go into effect January 1, but until that time it was to be kept a secret for reasons given by the company. In the contract the signer also agreed to have a letter made public fully exonerating Cope of the charge of embezzlement made against him by the company.

It was to make arrangements for the publication of the letter referred to in the contract that Guy Cope was going to St. Louis last Thursday night, but missed the train and stopped at the Ozark hotel. The letter, according to friends of deceased, was to have been published in last Sunday morning's St. Louis papers.

Following is the verdict returned by the coroner's jury:

"We, the jury, having been duly sworn and affirmed by J. L. Ormsbee, coroner of Greene county, Missouri, to diligently inquire and true presentment make, in what manner and by whom Guy Cope, whose body was found in room 24, Ozark hotel, Springfield, Mo., at 9 o'clock, a. m., December 9, 1894, came to his death."

"After having heard the evidence and upon full inquiry concerning the facts, and a careful examination of said body to find that the deceased came to his death from causes unknown to this jury. It being impossible for the jury to procure proper analysis of the stomach as a detailed report of the post mortem examination.

The funeral of Guy Cope took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of Dr. E. H. McBride on south Grant street and the remains were interred in Maple Park cemetery.

A VERDICT RENDERED

Ass Cook Died From Natural Causes.

His Wife Had Dosed Him on Morphine.

The Verdict Was Delayed a Day on Account of Certain Rumors.

The coroner's jury, summoned to investigate the cause of the death of A. W. Rogers, who was found dead in his bed at 621 West Lynn street Monday morning, met in the room of J. M. White, the undertaker on Commercial street at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and agreed on a verdict that deceased came to his death from natural causes. The testimony was all heard Monday afternoon but no verdict was rendered on account of various rumors that were circulated in the neighborhood of Rogers' late residence to the effect that Mrs. Rogers would be considerably benefitted by the death of her husband by back pension money due from the government. It had also been stated that Mrs. Rogers' character was not above reproach. That two young men had lived almost continually at her house for some time prior to the death, all of which the coroner and the jury decided to investigate with the result of a verdict exonerating the wife of any blame.

Ass Rogers, the deceased, had at times been an inmate of the county poor farm being partially paralyzed and at times out of his mind. His wife had for considerable time, according to her testimony at the inquest, administered doses of laudanum and morphine to her husband when he was suffering from illness and unable to sleep. She too had taken morphine but seemed to know nothing of the danger of the drug or how much should be given at a dose.

The night before Rogers was found dead, his wife had given him two doses

Ormsbee's suspicion and he made a thorough examination of the case which resulted in a conclusion that Mrs. Rogers was not given justice by Dame Rumor Morphine Caused the Death of Asa Rogers.

The Jury Returned Verdicts In But One-Third of the Deaths Examined.

Dr. Ormsbee, the coronor, had a big day yesterday. He also made a record.

Three inquests, and distinct inquests with commotion whatever. The body of Guy Cope yesterday morning, the coroner was called to 631 West Lynn street where the body of Asa Rogers, an ex-preacher and a man, 54 years of age, had been found dead in his bed at about 4:30 a. m.

At the inquest it was developed that deceased had been an invalid for eight years and that his wife, Sarah Rogers, had occasionally administered laudanum and morphine to him when he could not sleep. At times Asa Rogers was insane and as the wife testified would "talk out of his head." Such was the case Sunday evening and in fact all day Sunday and at 7 o'clock Mrs. Rogers gave him a dose of morphine and left the house. The husband was not alone, there being neighbors and friends present who testified that when she returned at 9 o'clock and Asa Rogers was still awake and suffering she administered another dose of the white powder which put him to sleep. About midnight Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Ella Whellia, who was living at the house, retired on a cot in the same room occupied by deceased. No indications of pain or suffering of any kind came from Mr. Rogers during the night but when the women awoke about 4:30 yesterday morning he was cold and dead.

Thos. Omand and Wm. Melton, who have been living at the Rogers house, also testified. Their evidence in most points corroborated the above.

The jury adjourned to meet at 3 p. m. to-day without rendering a verdict. It is probable the coroner intends calling for legal advice before the verdict is rendered as there seems no doubt that morphine poison administered by Mrs. Rogers caused the death.

Mrs. Helen Cook, of High street, west of the city limits, died very suddenly Sunday night and the case was considered worthy an investigation by the coroner.

A. Cook, her husband, testified that he and deceased retired about 9 p. m. Sunday night, an hour later he was aroused by the loud and difficult breathing of Mrs. Cook. He immediately left the house for a physician. Returning about 1 o'clock with Dr. Burns, the woman was found dead.

Dr. Burns testified that there was no evidence of violence or poison on the corpse and the jury returned a verdict that deceased came to her death from natural causes, probably apoplexy, which may cause almost immediate death.

Five Persons Have Died

Percy Gideon, Mrs. Helen Hirschland, Rufus Hawkins and Others

There seems to have been an epidemic of deaths yesterday, no less than four persons dying in and around Springfield.

Percy Gideon, son of Judge James Gideon, after a lingering illness, died at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning of consumption. Elder J. P. Pinkerton will conduct the funeral services this afternoon at the family residence, 766 East Elm street, after which the remains will be laid to rest in Hazelwood cemetery. Percy Gideon was born in Ozark, Mo., June 1, 1870, and was educated in the public schools of Ozark and Springfield. On account of ill health he was compelled to abandon his studies and, in hope of recovery, he spent a year in Texas. He was somewhat benefited and returned to Springfield, where he read law in the office of his father. Two or three years ago he was admitted to the bar and shortly afterwards went on a farm. His health not improving he spent about a year in Colorado, returning July 20, 1904, since which time his health declined rapidly. Percy Gideon was an exemplary young man and had many warm friends.

MRS. HIRSCHLAND DEAD

Mrs. Helen Hirschland, widow of S. Hirschland, died last Monday in Cincinnati, Ohio, at the home of her son-in-law, H. Strauss, and the funeral took place Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hirschland was 81 years old. Her children, Mrs. Jake Rothschild and Charles and Ben Hirschland, all of Springfield, are now in Cincinnati.

DEATH OF MRS. SHACKELFORD

Mrs. Shackelford, mother of Edwin Shackelford, died Wednesday night at the home of her son, on West Lynn street, aged 75 years, and the remains will probably be sent to Moonville, Mo., for interment, as her son, Judge Shackelford, resides there. Mr. Shackelford, husband of the deceased, is in the state of California and Mrs. Shackelford was preparing to join him shortly, but she was taken suddenly ill Wednesday night and died in a few hours.

RUFUS HAWKINS

Rufus, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hawkins, died yesterday morning of typhoid fever, at the home of his parents, corner of Main and Center streets. The funeral services will be held in St. Paul M. C. church at 10 o'clock this morning, after which the remains will be buried in Maple Park cemetery.
